

DISTRIBUTION OF SURPLUS ARMY PROPERTY WILL BE UNDER GENERAL DIRECTION OF MR. BENEDICT CROWELL

ASKED BY PRESIDENT TO ASSUME CHARGE

*Assistant Secretary of War
Appoints Mr. C. W. Hare to Have General Supervision and Brig. Gen. C. C.
Jamieson to Be Director of Sales—Policy and Procedure Being Formulated.*

The War Department authorizes the following:

Mr. Benedict Crowell, Assistant Secretary of War and Director of Munitions, has been requested by the President to assume responsibility for the proper disposition of all property acquired by the War Department since April 6, 1917.

Mr. Crowell has appointed Mr. C. W. Hare, Assistant Director of Munitions, to have general supervision of this work, and Brig. Gen. C. C. Jamieson has been appointed Director of Sales in direct charge of an organization to be perfected for the disposal of surplus property.

Policy and Procedure.

Policy and procedure upon which sales will be made is being formulated by the Director of Munitions, the Assistant Director of Munitions, and the Director of Sales. It is the intention of the Director of Munitions to so market Government property as to interfere as little as possible with business conditions, and to this end the Assistant Director of Munitions and the Director of Sales will, as occasion may require, confer with committees representing the industries affected.

Any information in connection with the various problems involved will be furnished by either the Assistant Director of Munitions or the Director of Sales at their offices in the Munitions Building, Nineteenth and B Streets, Washington, D. C.

Danish Minister and Staff Quit Petrograd

Following the departure of the Norwegian Legation staff from Petrograd, the Danish minister at Petrograd, accompanied by the official personnel of his legation, left that city Sunday, according to reports received by the State Department.

REQUEST BY SECRETARY GLASS REGARDING LIBERTY BOND GIFTS TO CHARITABLE ORGANIZATIONS

Secretary of the Treasury Carter Glass has issued the following statement:

"It has been called to my attention that large numbers of charitable organizations have from time to time solicited contributions from the people of the country and in their appeals have stated that Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps would be received in lieu of cash.

"These charitable people seem to overlook the fact that so long as the United States Government is under the necessity of selling additional amounts of its bonds, the taking of bonds of previous issues by such charitable organizations and the consequent resale of such bonds in the open market, has a tendency to depress the price and makes it more difficult for the Government to obtain the money it needs upon reasonable terms.

"I therefore request that charitable organizations refrain from making any suggestion to the public that they will accept Liberty Bonds or War Savings Stamps unless for endowment funds to be held for permanent investment."

Chinese Naval Attache Presented to Mr. Polk

Yung Kwai, Charge d'Affaires of the Chinese Legation at Washington, to-day presented to Acting Secretary of State Polk, the first Naval attaché ever sent by China to Washington, Capt. Teh-yuen-Lu, and his assistant, Lieut. Chu Fong Lin.

TRANSFER OF U. S. MATERIALS, SUPPLIES, AND EQUIPMENT

General Supply Committee Cir- cular to Purchasing Officials and Others Concerned.

The General Supply Committee, The Auditors' Building, Fourteenth and B Streets SW., Washington, D. C., issues the following:

DECEMBER 14, 1918.

CIRCULAR No. 95.

To purchasing officials of the United States Government and all others concerned:

The Secretary of the Treasury, on December 10, 1918, issued regulations relating to the transfer of materials, supplies, and equipment, referred to in Executive Order, dated December 3, 1918. In order that the executive departments and other establishments of the Government might receive prompt information, the regulations were printed in the Official U. S. Bulletin, dated December 11, 1918. Copies of Treasury Department Circular No. 129, which will also contain the said regulations, will be distributed to the Government service as soon as received from the Government Printing Office.

The certification by the Superintendent of Supplies, referred to in the regulations dated December 10, 1918, authorizing purchase from commercial dealers in compliance with provisions of existing law, and certifying that there is not already in the possession of the Government and available for transfer through the General Supply Committee similar material, equipment or supplies that are serviceable, does not authorize purchase of contract articles, or articles similar thereto and answering the same purpose, independently of the General Schedule of Supplies.

Scarlet Chevrons for Released Soldiers as Badge of Honorable Service and Discharge

The War Department authorizes the following statement:

As a recognition of duties performed in the service of the country, the Secretary of War has directed that each soldier on being honorably discharged be furnished with two scarlet chevrons to be worn on the left sleeves, point up, midway between the elbow and the shoulder, one on the coat and one on the overcoat.

These chevrons will serve to indicate to the country while the uniform is being worn that the wearer responded to the demands of the country, performing creditable service in the Army, and finally received honorable discharge therefrom.

Where practicable these chevrons should be sewn on the garments before discharge. If this can not be done they will be presented to the soldier with his discharge papers.

The chevrons will be of the same size and shape as now prescribed for war service chevrons. Immediate steps will be taken to provide them at all places where troops will be discharged and they can be furnished to men already discharged who apply for same.

CERTAIN RESTRICTIONS LIFTED ON PURCHASES MADE FOR EXPORT

War Trade Board in New Ruling Amends the Requirements in Respect to Licenses.

The War Trade Board announces in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 411) that exporters will no longer be required, in making applications for export licenses, to agree that the applicant has not and will not, prior to the issuance of the license applied for, purchase, or otherwise acquire, or commence to manufacture, produce, or fit the articles specified in the application for the fulfillment of a specific export order.

Purchases for export may now be made without restriction so far as concerns the War Trade Board's previous policy with regard to obtaining licenses before making purchase or sale for export.

The attention of exporters is called, however, to the fact that the shortage of tonnage still prevents the free exportation of commodities to many countries, and that, in many countries, import restrictions are still in full force and effect. Exporters should be careful, before moving exports to seaboard, to see that the necessary freight arrangements are made, and to satisfy themselves that the import requirements of the country of destination have been complied with.

Change in Export License On Wool, Hair, and Bristle

The War Trade Board announces in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 398) that they have rescinded W. T. B. R. 331, issued November 29, 1918, and W. T. B. R. 347, issued December 4, 1918.

Hereafter the War Trade Board will consider applications for licenses to export wool, mohair, camel's hair, alpaca, cashmere, and all similar hairs; also all tops, noils, yarns, shoddy, waste, and rags of the foregoing; and all manufactures of wool, mohair, camel's hair, alpaca, cashmere, and all similar hairs; second-hand clothing; journal waste; human hair, manufactured and unmanufactured; animal hair press cloth; and hog bristles, manufactured and unmanufactured.

In filing applications for licenses to export the above-mentioned commodities, the exporters will no longer be required to attach Supplemental Information Sheets X-2, X-3, X-13, X-14, X-15, or X-16.

Italy's King Pays Tribute To American Red Cross

The Red Cross issues the following: King Victor Emanuel, commenting recently on the efforts of the American Red Cross to assist his people, said:

"The highest meritorious work of the American Red Cross during the fierce war will be remembered with ardent gratefulness by the Italian nation."

Gen. Pershing's Tribute To Work of Red Cross For Soldiers in A. E. F.

Gen. Pershing has commended the work of the American Red Cross for the soldiers of the American Expeditionary Force in the following statement, issued from his headquarters in France:

"The American Red Cross is the recognized national organization for relief work with the Army and Navy in time of war. It is through this organization that the men and women of America contribute their funds and their labor for the relief and comfort of the men in service. To the millions of women whose hearts and hands are consecrated to the service; to the millions of the men, rich and poor alike, throughout the country who have contributed and sacrificed, and even to the millions of children of our schools who are doing their part, it should be made clear that the relief and comfort contributed by them through the American Red Cross to the men in service is essential. The commander in chief desires to express for the entire American Expeditionary Force the deep sense of appreciation of the service being rendered by the American Red Cross.

Signed by command of Gen. Pershing.

James W. McAndrew,
Chief of Staff."

ABANDONMENT OF PROJECTS AT CAMPS AND ELSEWHERE

The War Department authorizes the following statement:

The Director of Operations has authorized the Construction Division to abandon the following projects:

The establishment of a gas manufacturing plant in connection with the plant of the National Chemical Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

The construction of manufacturing plant together with the necessary accommodations for officers and men for the Hastings gas plant, Edgewood Arsenal, Hastings on the Hudson, N. Y.

All construction work at Camp Leach, Washington, D. C.

The construction of buildings and plants for the reclamation unit at the El Paso, Tex., supply depot.

The construction of a grain elevator at Camp Stuart and a wharf at Camp Hill, Newport News, Va.

The following projects at Camp Knox, Ky., are abandoned:

Work on Brigades No. 2 and No. 5, with exception of such utilities in those brigades as may be necessary to extend service to the brigades authorized for completion; work on the Officers' Training School, Balloon School, Remount Station; veterinary hospital; laundry and refrigeration plant; construction for

FEDERAL LAND BANK LOANS FOR NOVEMBER $8,079,605

During the month of November $8,079,605 were loaned to 3,278 farmers of the United States by the Federal Land Banks on long time first mortgages according to the monthly statement of the Farm Loan Board. The Federal Land Bank of Spokane leads in amount of loans closed, $1,246,800, with the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul running slightly behind in amount, $1,232,100. The other 10 banks closed loans in November as follows: Houston, $1,040,082; Wichita, $711,100; New Orleans, $600,650; Louisville, $565,400; Omaha, $529,000; St. Louis, $522,623; Berkeley, $506,600; Columbia, $422,230; Springfield, $395,420; and Baltimore, $307,600.

Total $147,452,861.

On December 1 the total amount of mortgage loans closed since the establishment of the Federal Land Banks was $147,452,861, numbering 64,357 borrowers. During November 5,385 applications were received asking for $17,259,878. During the same period 4,836 loans were approved, amounting to $12,809,101. Altogether 162,291 have applied for loans under this system, aggregating $406,542,109.

Distributed by Districts.

The grand total of loans closed is distributed by Federal Land Bank districts, as follows:

Spokane	$22,903,800
St. Paul	21,005,400
Omaha	16,171,740
Wichita	15,728,700
Houston	13,668,461
New Orleans	10,644,265
St. Louis	9,977,700

STRIKING IMPROVEMENT NOTED IN RAILROAD TRANSPORTATION

Traffic, Both Freight and Passenger, Getting Back to Normal, Says Mr. McAdoo.

According to a report made public by Director General McAdoo, a most striking improvement in traffic conditions, both passenger and freight, is noted throughout the entire country for the past week. Information received by the Director General shows that business is gradually readjusting itself to a post-war basis and that manufacturing plants, heretofore engaged in turning out munitions for the Government, are changing to work on construction orders.

Grain and Coal Movement.

The movement of grain, coal, and other commodities is continuing without any appreciable interruption, the demands being met in all sections as fast as they are known. As an indication of this steady improvement in freight movement, the shipment of grain from Chicago for the week ended December 10 exceeded the same period last year by 3,600,000 bushels, which afforded great relief to the primary markets. The lake cargo coal handled at Lake Erie ports for the season of 1918 exceeded that of 1917 by 1,000,000 tons. Perishable and live stock movements from Chicago to New York increased 3,947 cars during the past week.

In the Allegheny region the coal production and loading increased during the past week, while the movement of perishable freight showed greater activity compared to the sluggish movement of the week previous.

Reports from the Pocahontas region show that a slowing up in the loaded freight movement, with a particular decrease in tidewater coal largely due to the lack of demand for water movement to New England.

A very healthy condition of affairs is noted in the Northwestern region. Revenue freight loaded increased 1,396 cars for the week ended December 10, the previous week having shown decreases. The movement of live stock in this region continues very heavy and grain loadings have increased to a great extent. The arrivals of grain at the primary markets show 20,000,000 bushels this year as against 7,500,000 bushels for 1917. The temporary shortage of cars for loading grain in Minnesota, the Dakotas, and Montana, has been relieved.

General Conditions Satisfactory.

Transportation conditions throughout the country affecting both the War and Navy Departments are in a satisfactory state. The releases of trains at the port of New York exceeded the arrivals by 1,024 cars. Special preparations are being made for the holiday traffic by both departments of the Government.

In view of the very heavy holiday travel augmented by discharged and furloughed soldiers the ticketing facilities in the large centers and at the camps have been increased to an extent which will probably take care of all demands that will be made.

EXPLOSION AT FORT MIFFLIN.

One Man Killed and Several Injured by Blast in Magazine.

A dispatch received from the commandant of the fourth naval district states that an explosion occurred in the 3-inch filling magazine at Fort Mifflin, near Philadelphia, at 10.20 o'clock Monday morning, killing one man and injuring several others.

Charles F. Dooley, quartermaster, was instantly killed.

A. J. Kavanaugh, first-class ordnance man, died later of injuries. S. P. Anderson, first-class ordnance man, was seriously wounded, his left leg being severed below the knee. Gunner H. K. Williams and two other men were slightly injured.

The explosion, the Bureau of Ordnance learns, occurred in shell-filling house No. 3, in which the men were loading 3-inch shells. It started with the black powder and the explosion of the copper container, containing this powder, blew to the other side of the building a box of TNT, which ignited and set fire to the building. Station employees promptly extinguished the fire, the damage to the building being slight. An investigation has been ordered to determine the cause of the explosion.

Army Aerial Squadron Turn Southward Again

The War Department authorizes the following:

The four training planes coming east from San Diego, Cal., which reached Eufaula, Ala., from Montgomery, Ala., last evening, have turned south again headed for Florida. They were given permission to come to Washington, D. C., but requested that they be allowed to fly through Florida before coming north and this consent being secured by wire they started for Jacksonville this morning. From there they will proceed to Arcadia. By reaching Jacksonville they will have completed a transcontinental flight, the first on record for formation flying.

None of these planes carries more than an hour and a half's supply of gasoline, being the planes in which cadets are taught to fly. They left the Pacific coast on December 4, each carrying two men, and have come steadily east in hops of one and one-half hour each, mapping the country as they went along for the purpose of laying out a southern transcontinental air route.

U. S. LEGATION AT BUCHAREST FOUND BROKEN INTO AND ROBBED

The American Legation at Bucharest, Roumania, was found broken into and generally overhauled and robbed, when Minister Vopicka returned there from Jassy, last Friday. Minister Vopicka has reported this fact to the State Department. He stated that he found the Legation Building in a very bad condition, the seals were broken on the doors and many articles had been taken from 22 trunks that had been left at the legation by different persons. It is said that the loss will amount to more than $100,000 for the goods stolen from the trunks. The responsibility for the outrage is attributed to the Germans.

TRIBUTE TO MR. SCHWAB.

Chairman Hurley Cables Appreciation of His Work for Shipping Board.

The United States Shipping Board issues the following:

Cablegram to Charles M. Schwab, Emergency Fleet Corporation, Philadelphia, Pa.:

"Have received your message of good wishes accompanying your resignation. Please let me say to you that I am everlastingly grateful for the wonderful services you have rendered to the whole shipbuilding program of the Nation in war.

"Your unselfish developed spirit promoted the whole organization.

"Pershing asks me also to thank you for him, particularly referring to the 87 launchings on July 4 which heartened the American Army and hastened the victory.

"Foreign Governments since my arrival have repeatedly complimented shipbuilding achievement and expressed appreciation of your large personal contribution.

"EDWARD N. HURLEY,
"Chairman U. S. Shipping Board."

Recent New War Trade Board Rulings On Import and Export Requirements

The War Trade Board, after consultation with the United States Food Administration, announces in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 421) that licenses to export a limited quantity of cottonseed meal to Canada will be granted.

All applications for licenses to export cottonseed meal to Canada must have attached thereto a Canadian import permit, issued by the Canada Food Board, Ottawa, Canada, to the consignee and for the quantity specified on the application for export license.

Manufactured Rubber Imports.

The War Trade Board announces in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 427) that the restriction placed upon the importation of manufactured rubber goods, announced in W. T. B. R. 143, issued June 19, 1918, has been removed, and licenses may now be issued freely where the applications are otherwise in order.

Louisiana Sugar Exports.

The War Trade Board, after consultation with the United States Food Administration, announces in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 440) that applications will be considered for licenses to export a limited quantity of Louisiana sugar to Argentina and Panama.

Exporters desiring to make shipments to such countries must specify "Louisiana sugar" on their applications for export licenses, which must also be accompanied by a signed statement as follows:

STATEMENT.

"The undersigned does hereby represent and declare that the undersigned holds a bona fide firm order from the consignee named in the application annexed hereto for the quantity of the sugar specified thereon."

All shipments covered by licenses to export Louisiana sugar must be purchased through the Louisiana Sugar Committee, Tulane-Newcomb Building, New Orleans, La.

Certain Enemy-Language Publications Unmailable If Addressed to Canada

OFFICE OF SECOND ASSISTANT
POSTMASTER GENERAL,
Washington, December 5, 1918.

This department has been advised by the postal administration of Canada that publications printed in enemy languages, with the exception of such publications (other than newspapers, magazines, or periodicals, which are always excluded from the mails in Canada when printed in enemy languages) of a literary, scientific, legal, religious, or artistic character, and with the exception of publications in an enemy language which are published or distributed by or under the authority of the Government of Canada or of any Province thereof, or which are prescribed in the curriculum of an educational institution, are prohibited transmission in the mails in Canada.

Under the provisions of the above-men-

Export of Seed Corn to Canada.

The War Trade Board, after consultation with the United States Department of Agriculture and the seed commissioner of the Canadian department of agriculture, announces in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 422) that on and after December 10, 1918, licenses will be granted for a limited quantity of seed corn (without restriction as to varieties) for export to Canada.

All applications for licenses to export seed corn to Canada in quantities exceeding 100 bushels must have attached thereto a Canadian import permit, issued by the Canada Food Board, Ottawa, Canada, to the consignee for the quantity specified in the application for export license.

Arrangements have been made with the Canada Food Board whereby applications for licenses to export seed corn in quantities of 100 bushels or less need not be accompanied by a Canadian import permit.

Wheat Shipments from Australia.

The War Trade Board announces in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 417) that general license PBF No. 19, permitting importations of wheat and wheat flour consigned to the United States Food Administration Grain Corporation or to the Wheat Export Co. (Ltd.) has been amended to read as follows:

Covering the importation of all wheat and wheat flour when consigned to the United States Food Administration Grain Corporation, 42 Broadway, New York, or to the Wheat Export Co. (Ltd.), 27 Beaver Street, New York; provided, further, that shipments from Australia are made only on the following vessels: Margaret, Rose Mahoney, Falkestind, Korsnacs, Champigny, Pierce Antonine, Bufjon, Columbia River, La Merced, John Eua, Jeanne D'Arc II, Star of Holland, Star of Lapland, City of Sydney.

tioned prohibition, the term "enemy language" includes the German, Austrian, Hungarian, Bulgarian, Turkish, Roumanian, Russian, Ukrainian, Finnish, Ethonian, Syrian, Croatian, Ruthenian, and Livonian languages, but does not include the Polish or Arabic languages, or any of the languages spoken by the Czech-Slovaks.

Postmasters and other postal officials will please cause due notice of the foregoing to be taken, with the view to prevent the acceptance for mailing or the transmission in the United States mails of the publications in question when destined for delivery in Canada.

Second Asst. Postmaster General.

INFLUENZA IN SANTO DOMINGO.

Influenza, which has been reported from many different countries, has now appeared in the Dominican Republic, a serious epidemic being reported to the State Department to-day from Puerto Plata.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE CONGRESS BRIEFLY TOLD

SENATE.

Senators Pittman and Knox engaged in a debate yesterday afternoon based upon the resolution introduced by the Pennsylvania Senator declaring it to be the sense of the Senate that all questions relating to the proposed league of nations and any definition of freedom of the seas should be postponed until after the peace conference. Senator Knox supported the theory laid down in the resolution, while Senator Pittman contended that the resolution and speeches in support of it would have the effect of confusing the public mind and a misunderstanding of the aims and purposes that led the United States into the war. The Foreign Relations Committee considered the Knox resolution earlier in the day, but deferred action until Saturday.

Practically all of the time devoted to the consideration of the war revenue bill was consumed in debating the amendment to impose a 10 per cent tax on the net profits of products produced where child labor is employed. The amendment was adopted by a vote of 50 to 12.

House bills were passed authorizing the Government to furnish uniforms and equipment to naval officers at cost and providing for the temporary promotion of officers of the Marine Corps now serving with the Army.

The credentials of William J. Harris, Senator-elect from Georgia, and Senator Bankhead, of Alabama, to succeed himself, were laid before the Senate.

Senator New, of Indiana, introduced a bill to make it an offense to display the red flag in the United States.

The Foreign Relations Committee ordered a favorable report on the new trade treaty with Guatemala, which is similar to a treaty with Uruguay already ratified. The Judiciary Investigating Committee held no session yesterday, but a large number of documents belonging to Capt. von Papen, formerly military attache of the German Embassy here, and seized when the British took Palestine, were read into the record, disclosing further German propaganda work in this country.

HOUSE.

The conference report on the bill granting railroad fare and sleeping car accommodations to their homes for war workers, was agreed to. The annual Post Office appropriation bill was passed late in the afternoon. The bill carries a total of $357,350,000. An amendment was adopted requiring that the Post Office Department shall use Army aviators for mail aeroplanes instead of organizing a separate flying force.

Capt. Laning, of the Bureau of Navigation, told the Naval Committee that all of the naval force on duty in European waters can not be brought home before January, 1920. He urged an appropriation of $1,000,000 for receiving ships at home and abroad. H. P. Maxim, before the Merchant Marine Committee, opposed the pending bill granting the Government authority to take over all radio stations. Before the Interstate Commerce Committee Dr. W. W. Davis, of Baltimore, urged passage of a bill prohibiting the transmission by wire of race-track news. The Public Buildings Committee, by a tie vote, decided not to report a public-building bill at this session. The Military Committee ordered a favorable report on the bill to legalize the informal war contracts made by the War Department. The Ways and Means Committee decided, by a unanimous vote, to indefinitely postpone action on the request of the Treasury Department for authority to make peace-time loans to the allies.

71°—18—2

Secretary Daniels asked Congress to make permanent the doubled pay given the enlisted men at the beginning of the war as a temporary measure.

Mr. Darrow, of Pennsylvania, introduced a joint resolution providing for the trial and punishment of former Emperor William of Germany.

SUPREME COURT PROCEEDINGS

SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES.
WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1918.

Present: The Chief Justice, Mr. Justice McKenna, Mr. Justice Holmes, Mr. Justice Day, Mr. Justice Van Devanter, Mr. Justice Pitney, Mr. Justice McReynolds, Mr. Justice Brandeis, and Mr. Justice Clarke.

Robert M. Calfee, of Cleveland, Ohio; Charles Julian Block, of Macon, Ga.; Huletta Fuqua Ahy, of Tulsa, Okla.; Frank A. Warner, of Warnerville, Neb.; Joseph H. San, of New York City; Dale B. Loomis, of Memphis, Tenn.; Charles A. Pollock, of Fargo, N. Dak.; Robert Guy Smith, of Dallas, Tex.; James R. Bussey, of Forrest City, Ark.; John M. Maguire, of Cambridge, Mass.; A. Morris Crosby, of Newton, Mass.; and John MacMahon, of Manila, P. I., were admitted to practice.

No. 99. Edward H. Chavelle, as trustee, etc., appellant, v. Washington Trust Company. Submitted by Mr. E. C. Hughes for the appellant, and by Mr. James B. Murphy for the appellee.

No. 100. Andy Sunday et al, appellants, v. Sidney T. Mallory et al. Submitted by Mr. Assistant Attorney General Kearful, Mr. Joseph C. Stone, and Mr. J. H. Langley for the appellants, and by Mr. J. W. Zevely for the appellees.

No. 101. Bernard Flexner, plaintiff in error, v. John Farson, jr., et al., etc. Submitted by Mr. J. S. Laurent for the plaintiff in error, and by Mr. Harry P. Weber and Mr. George W. Miller for the defendants in error.

No. 102. Charlie Middleton, plaintiff in error, v. Texas Power & Light Company. Submitted by Mr. Charles B. Braun for the plaintiff in error, and by Mr. Harry P. Lawther and Mr. Alexander Pope for the defendant in error.

No. 104. Candelaria Cordova, plaintiff in error, v. Walter B. Grant, sole executor, etc. Submitted by Mr. F. G. Morris for the plaintiff in error, and by Mr. Walter B. Grant and Mr. T. J. Beall for the defendant in error.

No. 105. J. W. Selsor, plaintiff in error, v. The State of Louisiana. Submitted by Mr. J. D. Wilkinson, Mr. A. L. Alexander, and Mr. T. Alexander for the plaintiff in error. No brief filed for the defendant in error.

No. 85. Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Company, plaintiff in error, v. Joseph Maucher. Argument concluded by Mr. Philip B. Moran for the defendant in error.

No. 87. Union Dry Goods Company, plaintiff in error, v. The Georgia Public Service Corporation. Argued by Mr. Roland Ellis for the defendant in error, and submitted by Mr. R. Douglas Peagin and Mr. Rudolph S. Wimberly for the plaintiff in error.

No. 90. Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway Company, plaintiff in error, v. John Sealy et al., partners, etc. Argued by Mr. Maurice H. Winger for the defendants in error, and submitted by Mr. Joseph M. Bryson for the plaintiff in error.

No. 96. A. S. Cohn, petitioner, v. R. A. Malone, trustee of A. S. Cohn, bankrupt. Argued by Mr. Sam S. Bennett for the respondent and submitted by Mr. J. R. Pottle for the petitioner.

Adjourned until to-morrow at 12 o'clock. The day call for Thursday, December 19, will be as follows: Nos. 106, 107, 108, 109, 111, 112, 114, 115, 116, 117 (and 118).

Wisconsin, fourth district.—C. Hower Young, second alternate, 606 Wentworth Avenue, Milwaukee (1930 New Hampshire Avenue, Washington, D. C.).

REASONS FOR LIFTING THE BAN ON THE USE OF WHEAT FLOUR

In view of the large number of inquiries as to the reasons for the removal of restrictions upon the use of wheat flour the Food Administration has issued the following statement:

Since its inception the Food Administration's policy has been to adjust its conservation requests with conservation necessities and the public has shown its appreciation of this frankness by immediate response.

Situation Last Spring.

Last spring the Food Administration was extremely anxious about the wheat shortage and the public was asked to restrict its consumption of wheat down to the barest necessity in order to meet the needs of the allies. With a surplus of only 20,000,000 bushels of wheat the American people, through conservation, enabled the Food Administration to ship 141,000,000 bushels of wheat. In spite of this conservation, when we reached the 1918 harvest there was less than a 10-day supply in America.

Taking No Chances.

When the new crop came in it proved to be very large, but not too large to take care of the needs at that time. It was the desire of the Food Administration not to be caught another season with any shortage of this most valuable foodstuff, and with the idea that it was necessary not only to continue shipments of wheat to Europe, but to build up a big reserve for the 1919 spring offensive the Food Administration continued to ask the people to use wheat sparingly.

Effect of Armistice.

The signing of the armistice changed the situation with wheat immediately, just as it did with all measures taken with the needs of a continuing war in view. Wheat supplies in distant countries were made available by the cessation of the submarine menace, and the assurance of a good crop in 1919, undisturbed by war, relieved somewhat the necessity of building up as large a reserve as was anticipated. In other words, it is probable that our normal actual consumption of wheat, implying elimination of waste, in which our people have been thoroughly schooled, will be permissible and still allow us to keep the Food Administration's pledge in the shipping of great quantities of breadstuffs to hungry Europe.

Conditions Entirely Reversed.

Last year's situation, with fodder grains plentiful and wheat scarce, has been entirely reversed, and the necessity now points to a more careful use of the grains needed for animal feed and a freer use of wheat.

It can not be too strongly emphasized that even under present conditions no wheat must be wasted. It is a well-known fact that a diet which includes little meat naturally increases the consumption of bread, and at this time, when the shortage of meat is acute, it is good to know that an increased consumption of bread is not unpatriotic.

Orders by Postmaster General Affecting the Telegraph and Telephone Service

OFFICE POSTMASTER GENERAL,
Washington, November 18, 1918.

Order No. 2411.

Until otherwise ordered by the Postmaster General, any firm, company, or association, whether incorporated or unincorporated, owning or operating telephone systems, system, or part of a system as a cooperative enterprise and receiving no revenue either directly or indirectly from any source other than from its own partners, stockholders, or members as assessments or dues, shall not be required to comply with the orders of the Postmaster General affecting telephone companies; and until otherwise ordered by the Postmaster General any such system or part of system so owned or operated and now connected with any system under Government control shall continue to be so connected on the terms and conditions now governing such connections, if such systems, system, or part of system shall be maintained and operated at a standard satisfactory to the Postmaster General, and no extension shall be made until after the plans for such extension shall be approved by the Postmaster General.

Bulletin No. 18.

Order No. 2363.

NOVEMBER 20, 1918.

Owing to the cessation of hostilities, the restrictions heretofore placed upon telephone companies limiting extensions and betterments to imperative and unavoidable work to meet war requirements and the securing of adequate supplies, labor, and transportation are no longer deemed necessary. Therefore paragraph 1 of Order No. 1858 (Telegraph and Telephone Service Bulletin No. 4, dated August 15, 1918), is hereby revoked.

Bulletin No. 19.

Order No. 2289.

NOVEMBER 23, 1918.

As the telegraph and telephone lines are now controlled and operated by the Post Office Department, section 523 of the Postal Laws and Regulations, edition of 1913, is not to be construed so as to preclude the furnishing of information to telegraph and telephone employees so as to enable them to locate persons who can not otherwise be located.

Bulletin No. 20.

Order No. 2440.

NOVEMBER 30, 1918.

Until further notice, records of all telegraph and telephone companies must be preserved for the length of time and in the manner prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

A. S. BURLISON,
Postmaster General.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION ANNOUNCES EXAMINATIONS

The United States Civil Service Commission announces open competitive examinations as follows:

List No. 1.—Examinations of the non-assembled type; that is, those in which competitors are not assembled for scholastic tests, but are rated upon the subjects of education, training, and experience, and corroborative evidence. Applications for these examinations are accepted at any time: Associate technologist, Bureau of Standards; assistant technologist, Bureau of Standards; ceramic assistant, Bureau of Standards; copyist draftsman, departmental service; chauffeur, departmental service.

List No. 2.—Examinations of the non-assembled type, for which applications must be filed by the dates specified: Biological assistant, Department of Agriculture, January 7; pathologist in cereal disease investigations, Department of Agriculture, January 7; specialist in animal husbandry and dairying, Department of Agriculture, January 7.

List No. 3.—Examinations in which competitors will be assembled for scholastic tests: Laboratory aid in chemistry and physics, Department of Agriculture, January 8; automatic scale expert, Department of Agriculture, January 8.

Full information and application blanks may be obtained by addressing the United States Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C., or the civil service district secretary at Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Paul, St. Louis, New Orleans, Seattle, or San Francisco.

The close of receipt of applications for positions of field examiner under the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, for the positions of finger-print classifier, under the War and Navy Departments, and for the following-named positions under the War Department, has been announced: Expert in textile products, military storekeeper, master computer, computer (grades 1 and 2), photostat foreman, photostat operator, inspector of plant construction, assistant inspector of plant construction, balance of stores clerk, gauge designer, automobile draftsman.

Export License Validity Extended to December 24

OFFICE SECOND ASSISTANT
POSTMASTER GENERAL,
Washington, December 1, 1918.

Referring to the notice of this office, dated December 2, 1918, providing for the acceptance by postmasters without individual export licenses of gifts of merchandise for Great Britain, France, and Italy, and their colonies, postmasters are informed that the validity of said special export license No. RAC-60 has been extended to December 24, 1918, in so far as concerns gifts of merchandise for the colonies above referred to and named in the last paragraph of the notice of December 2.

It is to be carefully noted that this extension does not apply to gifts of merchandise for Great Britain, France, and Italy, but only for their colonies.

OTTO PRAEGER,
Second Asst. Postmaster General.

RETURN TO OWNERS IS ORDERED OF TELESCOPES LOANED THE NAVY

Return of binoculars, telescopes, spy-glasses, sextants, chronometers, and other navigation instruments loaned to the Navy soon after America's entrance into the war in response to an appeal by Assistant Secretary Roosevelt to the public to supply "eyes to the Navy," has been ordered. Over 100,000 of these articles were sent out in response to the request.

Request to Owners.

Each article will be returned as soon as practicable, and owners are requested to refrain from unnecessary communications to the department, as this will tend to delay rather than expedite return and distribution. Considerable delay is to be expected in many cases, as these instruments have been in use in various parts of the world at ships and stations, and it is probable that it will be more than a year before the last of them reach this shore. Permanent changes of address of owners should be communicated to the Naval Observatory, Washington, D. C.

Telegram to Commandants.

The following dispatch has been sent to all commandants, commanding officers, and supply officers of the Navy:

"In accordance with Navy promise to return binoculars, telescopes, spyglasses, and navigation instruments loaned for period of the war, all commandants, commanding officers, and supply officers are to return immediately all of the above articles that can be spared, designated by Roosevelt Order—R. O.—irrespective and regardless of their condition.

"All articles are to be returned to Supply Officer, Naval Observatory, Washington, D. C., and must have securely fastened thereto a tag stating ship or station where same was used, and if any historic interest attached in connection with war activities full details are to accompany the glass."

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT,
Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

Certificate to Owners.

An engraved certificate is being prepared which will be sent to all those whose articles were accepted for service. This certificate probably will be ready for distribution in two or three months' time. In cases where articles were lost at sea, and it is possible to establish the fact, the same certificate will be forwarded to the donor.

Attention is called to the fact that the majority of the articles returned will show evidence of hard usage, but the added historic interest that will be attached will, it is believed, compensate the owners who so patriotically loaned them for Government service.

INDIA LIFTS RESTRICTIONS ON AUTOMOBILE IMPORTS

The embargo on the importation into India of automobiles and motor cycles and accessories, which has been in force for some time, has been withdrawn. The Government of India gave official notification of this withdrawal Monday.

Discovery of Substitute for Platinum For Use in Sulphuric Acid Manufacture, Announced by War Industries Chairman

B. M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board, authorizes the following:

Announcement is made by the Chemicals Division of the War Industries Board of the discovery of a new substance to take the place of platinum in the manufacture of sulphuric acid.

The discovery was made during the latter days of the war. Sulphuric acid is required in the manufacture of high explosives, and a serious stringency was being faced due to the scarcity of platinum and the difficulty of obtaining it, even in small quantities, from Russia.

In the manufacture of sulphuric acid, sulphur dioxide (SO₂) is first obtained by burning sulphur pyrites. This sulphur dioxide gas, after being dried, is passed over magnesia containing a small percentage of platinum. In this process the sulphur dioxide takes up an additional atom of oxygen (O), thus forming sulphur trioxide (SO₃). This sulphur trioxide, in turn, is passed through water (H₂O), forming sulphuric acid H₂SO₄.

Function of the Platinum.

In the above operation the platinum performs the function of a catalyst, in that it quickens the process of converting the sulphur dioxide into sulphur trioxide.

The suggestion which resulted in the discovery of the substitute was made by Charles H. McDowell, director of the Chemicals Division of the War Industries Board and president of the Armour Fertilizer Works. It was developed by H. H. Meyers, a fellow of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research at Pittsburgh, Pa. This institute, which is endowed, is maintained for the purpose of investigating and solving chemical problems in industry. Its entire staff and laboratory, at the outset of America's entry into the war, was placed at the disposal of the Government for the solution of problems connected with the war program, and Dr. E. R. Weidlein, acting director of the Institute, volunteered his services as an adviser to the chemical division. Col. R. F. Bacon, director of the Institute, as a member of Gen. Pershing's staff in connection with the Chemical Warfare branch of the Army.

Commercial Plant Established.

Not only has the new catalyst been demonstrated as practical in laboratory tests, but a commercial plant has been established which is producing the substance in quantity. Not only is it cheaper than platinum, but has been found to be less sensitive to "poisoning." Altogether, the discovery is regarded as a distinct advance in the art.

The same catalyst has been tried out successfully in a modified Deacon process for making chlorine gas in connection with the manufacture of "mustard gas." By its use it has been found possible to effect a considerable saving in the electrical horsepower required by the process. Ordinarily, for the manufacture of 100 tons of chlorine 20,000 horsepower would be required. With the use of the new catalyst the same quantity can be made from 2,000 horsepower.

Substitute for Glycerine.

Another discovery made by the Mellon Institute, working in cooperation with the Chemical Division of the War Industries Board, is a substitute for glycerine for use in chewing tobacco. This was the result of efforts to aid the tobacco industry of the country after it had become necessary for the Government to take over all glycerine supplies for the manufacture of explosives.

Under similar circumstances the Mellon Institute was able to find and develop substitutes for acetic and acetones.

Since the signing of the armistice and the cessation of production in large quantities of war materials, work is not being done by the institute, at the instance of the Chemicals Division, in developing new uses of toluol, benzol, and other coal-tar by-products, the manufacture of which had to be developed on a large scale to meet the need of the war program for such materials. With regard to chemicals, which, due to war stimulation, the United States is now producing in surplus quantities, steps are now being taken by the industry to develop foreign markets, and consideration has been given in the industry to the establishment of co-operative selling agencies under the Webb Act. Thus, it is not unlikely that before long the United States will be exporting in competition with other countries certain chemicals which hitherto have been imported into this country.

1919 War-Savings Stamps Only, Sold After Dec. 31

OFFICE OF THIRD ASS'T P. M. GEN.,
WASHINGTON, December 13, 1918.

The sale of War-Savings Certificate Stamps of the series of 1918 is to be discontinued after December 31, 1918. Postmasters will take notice that the 1918 stamps must positively not be sold to the public after that date.

The Department is issuing to all direct-accounting and central-accounting postmasters a supply of new War-Savings Stamps, series of 1919, to be placed on sale January 1, 1919. The January price for the 1919 stamps is $4.12, and they mature on January 1, 1924.

Postmasters will receive full instructions by mail before January 1, as to the retirement of 1918 War-Savings Stamps remaining on hand unsold, and as to the sale of the 1919 issue. They are earnestly urged, however, to sell all of their remaining stocks of 1918 War-Savings Stamps if possible, so that there shall be none to return.

A. M. DOCKERY,
Third Ass't P. M. Gen.

No trouble to buy, cheap, convenient,
a real investment—WAR-SAVING STAMPS.

Give to Our Soldiers the Surplus Land for Farms; Give Every Citizen Opportunity for an Education, Says Secretary Lane in Annual Report to President

Secretary Lane, Department of the Interior, summarizes his annual report to the President as follows:

Throughout the past year this department has been engaged upon three lines of effort:

(1) The normal conduct of its many bureaus in their relation to the life of our people: The distribution, survey, and classification of our national lands; the care of the Indian wards of the Nation, their education, and the development of their vast estate; the carrying forward of our reclamation projects; the awarding and issuance of patents to inventors; the construction of the Alaskan railroad and the supervision of the Territorial affairs of Alaska and Hawaii; the payment of pensions to Army and Navy veterans and their dependents; the promotion of education; the custody and management of the national parks; the conservation of the lives of those who work in mines, and the study and guidance of the mining and metallurgical industries.

The War Emergency.

(2) Emergency work arising out of war conditions: This was an extension of the undertakings reported upon last year in which was shown how a nonwar department found itself a base or source for men, information, and effort necessary to the conduct of modern warfare. The interdependence of two of our scientific bureaus with almost all agencies more directly connected with some phase of war work is graphically shown by two charts which follow this introduction to the report.

(3) Looking-forward work: The consideration of those problems suggested by conditions arising out of the war which the Nation will be called upon to meet in the immediate future. I have taken occasion during the year to call some of these to your attention.

The Lesson of Experience.

Throughout the war I have sought to learn the significance of its larger phases as affecting our national life with relation to the duties of this office, and I believe that some of those ills which have fallen upon other lands may, in some part at least, be kept from our doors by the development of policies which are already in a small way being carried out by this department.

Our Schools "American."

One of those policies is that our schools shall be made to more completely serve America as a Nation. The other policy is that the lands of this country shall not lie unused. Both may be included in the broader meaning of the word "Americanization"—for one makes for the development of more helpful American citizens, and the other makes for the development of more serviceable American acres. For the intensification and extension of these two policies I would make earnest appeal that the high advantages of freedom which we have championed may be the more perfectly realized.

Soon, almost immediately now, the men whom we have drawn into war will return. Already those here are being prepared for their reabsorption into the normal currents of our life and the two million and more who have had the glory and the experience of making war upon foreign soil in protection of the liberties of the world will be brought back as soon as their work is done. With conditions as fluent as they are in Europe I presume that no one can foretell when the last man will be once more in America, but whatever the day of their coming their welcome can not be too warm or our appreciation of their service too hearty.

A Farm for Every Soldier.

Secretary Lane here discusses the job awaiting the returned soldier, and concludes that the best one is on the farm. He says:

"Being Americans, and being young, they will not ask or expect pensions. They will want work. They will want, if possible, a chance for a home of their own. They would like to know that while perhaps the fortunes of war did not so turn as to bestow on them the medal for distinguished service, the Nation which they served thought well enough of what they had done to give them some evidence of its appreciation.

"Now, these hopes, reasonable and manly as they are, can be met, and in a fashion that will not weaken the fiber of the man by making him an object of bounty, and that will add permanently to the strength and the wealth of the Nation.

A Possible Program.

My own judgment would be that as an immediate program we should first offer an opportunity upon our present irrigation projects for all who wish work at clearing and leveling the land not now cultivated but for which water is available, or to which water can be brought under the present irrigation system, and that such tracts shall be developed under an appropriate land-settlement plan. This we can do at once and meet whatever labor problem may be immediate. As a second step I would urge an appropriation for one or more of the largest irrigation schemes for which surveys are in an advanced state. Concurrently it would seem to me wise to undertake the draining of the most promising projects—Government-owned land preferred, but, if privately owned, the land to be bought at an appraisal made by the Farm Loan Board and subject to the approval of the Department of Agriculture as to fertility of soil and desirability of location.

An Alternative Method.

There is an alternative method of dealing with private lands which already has the approval of Congress, being incorporated in the reclamation act. Under this a private owner agrees to sell his land to whoever gets the water right at an appraised price as a condition precedent to our undertaking the construction of irrigation work. Under such a plan there would be no difficulty whatever in securing control of any-sized bodies of cut-over or swamp lands that might be desired; the Government would not buy the land, but the owner would look to the new settler for the price, and take it on such terms as the Government itself would exact for its own expenditure upon the land. Supplementing this there should be an opportunity given for the cooperation of all the States upon limited tracts which would be dealt with under State control and subject to the closest Federal supervision. This would be an adoption in the development of farms for soldiers of the method taken by Congress for the construction of national highways.

America's Challenge.

I wish now to turn to the consideration of that other phase of Americanization to which I earlier referred—the need for a larger sense of our responsibility as Americans, both in view of the greater part which this Nation is destined to play in the world's affairs and in view of our manifest obligations at home; and to urge that we make a fresh and strong demand upon the schools of the country to meet the needs of the day that has come to give inspiration to a wider Americanism and capacity for it.

America threw the world into a daring maze of possibilities by its entrance into this war upon lines more idealistic than any other national venture in history. And in doing this we challenged the world to a contest for supremacy, not upon the field of battle, but in the much larger field of intellectual, moral, and social leadership. Whether we can make good before the world depends upon our willingness and our ability to see the problems that we must meet and our will to meet them forehandedly. For clearly our right to world leadership in the new day is not to be measured by the number of men who have gone to France or the things they have done, but by the use we now and from this time forward make of the freedom we have secured for ourselves and others.

I should like to see the day when every child learned a trade while at school, trained his mind and his hand together, lifted labor into art by the application of thought.

To be useful is the essence of Americanism, and against the undeveloped resource, whether it be land or man, the spirit of this country makes protest.

MILL PROPRIETOR PENALIZED.

G. O. Pease, proprietor of the Enterprise Roller Mills, of Lowell, Wis., has been found guilty of violating the milling regulations of the Food Administration, and permitted to contribute $50 to the United War Work campaign at Lowell.

Some Facts Concerning the Fight Begun To Stamp Out Vice Diseases in America Shown in Conditions Revealed by War

The United States Public Health Service authorizes the following:

With the acceptance by Germany of the terms under which she asked for an armistice; with peace so nearly in sight that preparations for the demobilization of our huge Army are already under way, and the consequent disruption of many of the war activities of the Government, there remains as one of the most important departments of the Federal service a new division of the United States Public Health Service known as the Division of Venereal Diseases.

"The compulsory medical examination of the millions of men summoned for war," says Surg. Gen. Rupert Blue, "informed us fully as to the prevalence of venereal diseases throughout the country, and opened the eyes of the Nation to the gravity of the peril."

Change Brought By War.

Before the war any citizen trying to enlist in the Army or Navy and found on examination to be suffering from venereal disease was promptly turned down. It was obvious that in enlisting an Army of 2,000,000 men these bars must be taken down. For the first time in the history of our military service we accepted applicants with venereal disease; took them in and cured them, and made them clean, efficient soldiers.

It is small wonder then that the percentage of venereally infected men in the service should increase, but it came with rather a shock to find how great that increase was. The estimate of the Surgeon General of the Army was that no less than five-sixths of all the venereal disease in the Army had been brought in from civil life.

Fight for Cleaning Up Begun.

As soon as the facts became known the fight for cleaning up the Nation began. Congress, by an amendment to the military appropriation bill, created within the Public Health Service the Division of Venereal Diseases, and Asst. Surg. Gen. C. C. Pierce was placed in charge.

To discover the cause of any prevailing ill is the instinct of the surgeon. When science found that the germs of yellow fever were carried by mosquitoes the battle against that disease was half won. When San Francisco was in the grip of the bubonic plague and to Surg. Gen. Blue fell the task of scotching that plague, his first step was to make war on the rodents that carried the disease germs. Once these were hunted down, after unremitting work and care, the clearing away of the disease was only a question of medical skill and patience.

Going Direct to the Cause.

So, in leading the attack of the United States Public Health Service against venereal disease, it was inevitable that Surg. Gen. Blue should go directly to the cause. The problem the Nation is called upon to face he states simply. He says:

"We know the cause of these diseases and we know that prostitution affords their principal mode of distribution. We know, too, that so far as injury to the Nation is concerned, these diseases are not outranked by any other of the communicable disease group. We must, therefore, apply these facts as we have applied similar facts in the cases of other communicable diseases. We are trying now to form a great body of public opinion that, realizing the importance of eradicating these diseases, will back up our Government efforts in enforcing three things:

"(1) Measures for the discovery, treatment, and control of individuals already infected.

"(2) Measures for the elimination of conditions of environment favoring the spread of infection.

"(3) Measures for the protection of individuals not yet infected."

"The adoption of these measures means the first step in an organized defense of the American Nation against venereal diseases. Whatever the cost of this campaign, whether that cost is measured in terms of money, scientific striving, self-sacrifice, educational effort, or wise restraint in personal conduct, it will be immeasurably exceeded by the gains."

Education of the Public.

The success of the Government's campaign must, according to Asst. Surg. Gen. C. C. Pierce, have its base in a thorough education of the public as to the menace of vice diseases. The extent to which these diseases have permeated the Nation may be seen in a statement in "The Third Great Plague," by John H. Stokes, A. B., M. D., chief of the section of dermatology and syphilology, the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn. He says:

"It is conservative to estimate that 1 man in 10 has syphilis. Taking men and women together on the basis of one of the latter to five of the former, and excluding those under 15 years of age from consideration, this country, with a population of 91,972,266 (figures based on 1910 census) should be able to muster a very considerable army of 3,842,526 whose influence can give a little appreciated but very undesirable degree of hyphenation to our American public health. In taking stock of ourselves for the future, and in all movements for national solidarity, efficiency, and defense, we must reckon this force of syphillio-Americans among our debits."

From The Survey, of March 25, 1916, we find:

"The recently published investigations of the Baltimore vice commission showed that 63.7 per cent of 289 prostitutes examined by the Wasserman test had syphilis. Of 266 examined for gonorrhoea 92.1 per cent showed its presence. Nearly half the girls examined had both diseases and only 3.39 had neither."

Success of Crusade.

The first attack was made by the Council of National Defense and the Commission on Training Camp Activities on tolerated or semilegalized vice. The success of this crusade is shown by the fact that already 110 cities have abolished "Red light" districts and many States and municipalities are on their guard against the women who ply their trade on the streets and elsewhere.

With the cooperation of several of the States that have accepted their quota of the funds set aside by Congress for the purpose, free clinics and dispensaries have been established, with hospitals for those whose disease is so infectious as to be a public menace.

Laws and regulations are being adopted in the various States requiring physicians to report all such cases, just as other communicable diseases are reported.

Campaign Against "Quack" Doctors.

A campaign is being conducted against the quack doctors, the so-called specialists in "men's diseases." Many reputable newspapers are refusing to accept their advertisements; in many cities the police, proceeding against them for obtaining money under false pretences, have driven them out of business or put them in jail.

Druggists throughout the United States have been urged to join the Government in this war by refusing to sell proprietary remedies for these diseases except on the prescription of a physician, and they are asked also to report all cases that come to their knowledge.

In those States which, by accepting their quota of the funds provided by Congress, have shown their desire to cooperate with the Public Health Service, special medical officers have been assigned to work with the local authorities. Special exhibits and motion pictures are being sent around the country for educational purposes, and a great number of pamphlets, dealing with various phases of these diseases and their treatment, the problems of education as they affect both children and adults have been published and may be had free of charge on application to the United States Public Health Service.

Medical Journals Enlisted.

Medical journals and physicians everywhere are enlisted in this fight for a clean Nation; employers of industry are doing their part by awakening their employees to the gravity of the danger; fraternal organizations and commercial bodies have signified to Surg. Gen. Rupert Blue that they will be shoulder to shoulder with him in the campaign.

There is no compromise with vice in this nation-wide effort toward a higher morality and a cleaner Nation. Secretary of War Baker declared in a letter to the mayors of cities:

"The only practical policy which presents itself in relation to this problem is the policy of absolute repression. This policy involves, of course, constant vigilance on the part of the police, not only in eliminating regular houses of prostitution, but in checking the more or less clandestine class that walks the streets and is apt to frequent lodging houses and hotels."

One Compensation of War's Tragedy.

Secretary Josephus Daniels of the Navy declares:

"One of the compensations for the tragedy of war is the fact that an enlightened opinion is behind the organized campaign to protect the youth against venereal disease. The campaign begun in war to insure the military fitness of War-Time Activities of the Department of Labor And Post-Bellum Employment and Conditions Discussed in Annual Report by Secretary Wilson

"As the history of all the belligerent nations proves, war is no longer a military undertaking alone," says Secretary of Labor Wilson in opening his annual report to the President. "Battles are fought not only between armed men, but between the factories, workshops, and mines of the contending nations. Consequently upon the outbreak of hostilities it became one of our first concerns to keep in motion the wheels of our industrial machine."

Continuing, the report says:

A War Labor Administration.

Toward that attainment the Department of Labor has directed its efforts. At the beginning of the fiscal year the department consisted of four bureaus, together with such agencies as had been created in the office of the Secretary for conciliation and mediation in labor disputes. At the date of this report there are 13 separate bureaus and services, and in addition two boards, one a court of last resort with regard to labor disputes arising in war industries, and the other an agency to harmonize the relations of this department with other production departments. Notable among the newer units are organizations for the training and housing of workers, for the superintendence of the conditions governing women in industry, and a special service to recommend and administer policies with regard to negro wage earners. Of extraordinary importance also has been the development of the United States Employment Service into a separate arm of the department and the establishment of over 800 public employment exchanges. Thus the Department of Labor has become in fact, as well as in name, a War Labor Administration.

Mediation in Labor Disputes.

The war has been the immediate cause of an enormous increase in the number of labor disputes calling for Government mediation. Old wage standards, rendered obsolete by a sharp rise in the cost of living, the prevalence of profiteering, the faulty distribution of labor, and many other causes all contributed to a probable increase in the actual number of such disputes. The chief reason, however, for the increase in the work of the department in this respect was not an increase in the number of controversies. It lay rather in the fact that when those disputes arose one side or the other hastened to call upon the Federal Government to prevent any cessation of work.

During the greater part of the fiscal year the conciliatory functions of the department were exercised in two ways, (1) through the relation of departmental officers to the President's Mediation Commission, and (2) through the Division of Conciliation.

Here the Secretary recites in detail the causes of the Arizona copper, the California oil fields, the packing industry and northwestern lumber labor disputes, and their final adjustment through governmental agencies, and continues:

In the activities of the Division of Conciliation and Labor Adjustment Service a record for prompt, satisfactory, and helpful service has been achieved. The efficacy of the machinery, and the knowledge and experience gained by a corps of commissioners of conciliation, many of whom have been serving in this capacity since the creation of the Division of Conciliation in 1913, resulted in the speedy adjudication of hundreds of industrial disputes, many of which had reached the stage of a strike or lockout.

A majority of the employers and employees involved in controversies evinced a keen desire to secure the good offices of the Department of Labor through its conciliators, and to take advantage of the machinery of the department. During the four years the Division of Conciliation has been in existence, the foundation has been laid for quick adjustment of such disputes. It had been demonstrated that the intervention of an impartial third party in the person of a conciliator approved by the department has invariably expedited the settlement of the dispute, strike, or lockout. In a large number of instances the conciliators have been able not only to bring about agreement in cases of existing differences—often arising from misunderstandings—but to avert the threatened strike altogether.

It is often the case that employers refuse to deal with committees representing their own employees; but even in these instances they never refused to meet and discuss the merits of the dispute with the conciliators of the department.

It has been the policy of the Department of Labor not to endeavor to impose its viewpoint upon either the worker or the management, but rather to find some basis mutually acceptable, even though it may not be mutually satisfactory. In other words, the work of mediation is not judicial; it does not hear both sides and then pass judgment. The work is diplomatic rather than judicial, and it is in this spirit that all problems of conciliation in labor controversies are approached.

The total number of cases handled during the fiscal year involved 1,042,341 workmen directly and 1,315,057 indirectly. Of these, cases involving 859,239 directly and 1,122,205 indirectly were adjusted or satisfactorily disposed of.

The War Labor Administration.

At the time of my fifth annual report the Department of Labor had, in so far as legal and customary limits permitted, adjusted its relations and facilities to war service. It was not possible at that time, however, to occupy as full an administrative position as was desirable for proper adjustment of our numerous labor problems. This situation arose because the functions of the Department of Labor were limited by statute and appropriations. In the earlier stages of our industrial war activities, labor problems were necessarily administered by the particular department or administrative body under whose supervision each separate industrial project came.

During the period in which this limitation persisted such functions as the department possessed were nevertheless utilized where statutes permitted. Much of this war service was in cooperation with, but much of it was paralleled by similar service in other departments. A tendency naturally arose for the elimination of conflicting authority. Attention had been directed to the necessity for such centralization by the President's Mediation Commission, and there was consequently submitted to the President during December of 1917 a proposal that there be set up a single, centralized, coherent War Labor Administration. This was approved by the President, who thereupon designated the Secretary of Labor to administer the program, and since January 9 the Department of Labor has gradually been assuming the additional duties of a War Labor Administration.

My first step in this process was the appointment of an advisory council of seven members chosen to represent various interests, with a representative of the general public, Hon. John Lind, as chairman. This council convened in January, and many recommendations were made, nearly all of which were adopted and are now in operation either in their original form or with modifications found necessary thereafter.

The War Labor Board.

It was vitally necessary that the principles of a war labor administration should be accepted by both capital and labor. Hence it was desirable that they be formulated, in so far as possible, by employers and wage earners jointly. I therefore called upon the national industrial conference board and the American Federation of Labor, as the representatives of employers and wage earners, respectively, to send five persons each to a war-labor conference; each group was invited to choose a chairman who should preside upon alternate days. In spite of the fact that the members of this board represented divergent viewpoints, a unanimous report was presented on March 29, laying down a set of principles. There was also recommended the creation of a National War Labor Board. I therefore appointed the same persons as members of the National War Labor Board, and this action was formally approved and confirmed by presidential proclamation of April 8, 1918. By such action there was set up a body superior to all other labor adjustment boards then in existence. The establishment of the board in no way abridges the normal work of conciliation and mediation by the department.

There are cases, however, where conciliatory services fail of results. In such instances the conciliator withdraws and the controversy is submitted to the War

Summary of Annual Report of the Secretary of Labor

Labor Board. This board, unlike the conciliation service, does not enter as a friend to both sides, but as an impartial judge, friendly to neither, but administering its functions in the interest of the entire Nation. The principles adopted by the war-labor conference board represent a new departure even among democratic nations. They rest wholly upon the free suffrage of those whom they govern. What was desired was not an order imposed from above or without, but a solemn contract by both parties voluntarily entered into.

The principles adopted involved recognition of the following: First, the rights of organization and of collective bargaining by both employers and employees; second, the continuance of the present status with respect to open and closed shops; third, equal pay for equal work for men and women; fourth, the basic eight-hour day; and fifth, the right to a living wage.

In only four cases up to date has the War Labor Board failed of unanimous agreement upon awards and decisions. Up to and including October 1, the offices of the board had been invoked in a total of 531 controversies involving the operation of even a larger number of establishments engaged upon the production of materials vital to our armies and involving more than 2,000,000 workers. Of this number 266 cases were still pending on October 1. Awards have been made directly in 44 cases; 136 cases have been referred to other governmental agencies; 2 were withdrawn; 30 were settled; 9 were settled without intervention of the board; jurisdiction was denied in 8 cases; and 32 were dropped or suspended.

Enforcement of Decisions.

While the War Labor Board is without any statutory power to give effect to its decisions, only in three instances has there been resistance to its conclusions. The first resistance to a decision of the board occurred in a dispute between the Western Union Telegraph Co. and a group of its employees. The equal right of workers and employers to form their own organizations and to deal collectively is one of the cardinal principles of the department. The board therefore recommended that the company cease its practice of discriminating against employees who became members of the union. Upon the refusal of the Western Union Telegraph Co. to abide by this recommendation the facts were laid before the President by the Secretary of Labor, and on June 11, 1918, the President urged acceptance of the board's recommendations. The Western Union Telegraph Co., however, denied the right of the board to enforce its recommendation. Thereupon those utilities were taken over by the Postmaster General, who promptly issued instructions that discriminatory practices should cease.

The Bridgeport Case.

During September, the organized workers at Bridgeport, Conn., announced their dissatisfaction with an award by the board and ceased work. About the same time the Smith & Wesson Co. declared its intention to disregard the board's instructions against further discrimination between organized and unorganized workers. This coincident rejection by an employer and a group of workers of the decisions of the board was the occasion for the announcement by the President that he proposed to uphold the decisions of the board against all attacks by dissatisfied participants in controversies. He therefore directed the Secretary of War to take possession of the Smith & Wesson plant and to operate it thereafter in the name of the Federal Government. At the same time he wrote to the Bridgeport strikers directing them to "return to work and to abide by the award." The striking workers acceded at once to the request of the President, rescinded the strike vote and resumed work.

Effect of Decisions.

The board has striven in each case to conform to the principles and policies agreed upon at the time of its organization. The outstanding accomplishment of the board lies in the fact that its determination to apply these principles without favor has caused a vast decrease in the number of cases which might otherwise have come before it. The practices complained of have been in many cases voluntarily discontinued, and such discontinuances are due to the knowledge that unfair practices would be summarily dealt with by a fair tribunal. The adjustments have done much to remove the causes of interrupted production by providing a means by which parties to controversies could secure rapid and fair settlements of their differences with justice to both sides.

While the department is charged with the duty of promoting the interest of wage earners, it has always taken the position that such promotion shall not be to the detriment of any other class.

"Collective Bargaining."

For many years the law has been making it easier, and properly so, for our employing interests to deal collectively. The department has recognized the necessity and the desirability for such organization on the part of wage earners, for without it the wage earner is at a tremendous disadvantage. His employer is granted a normal and orderly method of dealing and is encouraged to so deal by the law. Fairness demands that like facilities be at the disposal of wage earners.

Through its administrative officers the War Labor Board has, with the approval and sanction of the department, established a method of shop elections by which the workers may be represented in determining their rates of pay and the conditions under which they work.

The Minimum Wage.

The War Labor Board has found it necessary to make extensive studies of the cost of living. Upon the basis of such information it has established certain rates varying according to local conditions. In the case, for instance, of the Bridgeport munitions industries this minimum has been fixed for male workers 21 years and over at 42 cents per hour, and for female workers 18 years of age or over at 32 cents per hour. In Waynesboro, Pa., the minimum for male workers has been fixed at 40 cents per hour.

Among the war problems was that of regulating the relations of services and bureaus in other departments. The work of these services was frequently in conflict, and it was highly desirable that their policies be unified. As a means of bringing them into mutual relationships, the advisory council recommended the creation by the Secretary of Labor of a War Labor Policies Board, to be composed of the chiefs of the various bureaus and services of the department, together with representatives of the other production departments of the Government. In accordance with this recommendation, the War Labor Policies Board was established on May 13, 1918, with Mr. Felix Frankfurter, Assistant to the Secretary of Labor, as chairman.

The function of the board is to reconcile differences in so far as they refer to administration of labor matters and to recommend to the Secretary unified labor policies to harmonize the industrial activities of separate branches of the Government. It is well adapted to this end, since—although it was created by the Secretary of Labor and operates under his direction—it includes responsible representatives of other branches of the Government.

Its first problem was the wastage which arose from labor turnover. This evil was magnified by competitive recruiting on the part of persons who were employed by or operating upon behalf of the Government. Private labor agencies and private businesses were also insistently seeking the labor needed for vital war work. To eliminate this waste and to assure a sufficient supply of labor for war purposes the board recommended the policy of central recruiting of unskilled labor through the United States Employment Service. With the approval of the Secretary of Labor and by presidential announcement, this policy was put into effect upon August 1.

Diversity in the conditions and standards of employment in the different governmental agencies were a second cause of industrial disturbances and of labor turnover resulting in a decrease in output. To harmonize such diversities the board has devised and recommended clauses for insertion in the contracts executed by the war production departments. These clauses deal with the questions of child labor, contract labor, the Federal eight-hour laws, the enforcement of State laws, and the submission of labor disputes to arbitration.

Woman in Industry Service.

The Woman in Industry Service is charged with the duty of developing standards and policies to insure the effective employment of women while conserving their health and welfare. It is instructed to keep in close touch with the other divisions of the Department of Labor, each of which has a relation to women in industry, and to coordinate such work in other Federal departments. It is expected to work with State departments of labor. As a means of coordinating the efforts of the Federal agencies concerned in women's work, a council composed of women representing every division of the Department of Labor and other Federal departments having to deal with problems of women in industry, has been organized for weekly conference. The problem of night work for women has absorbed much attention since early in July. In seven States night work is prohibited, but in two of these States authorities have power to grant exemptions. In 41 States, including such important manufacturing States as Illinois, Ohio, New Jersey, and Connecticut, there are no laws prohibiting night work, and in these States night work of women is the practice in a number of important plants. This practice is likely to increase unless the Federal Government takes control of the situation.

Investigation and Inspection Service.

The war labor administration act provided for an Investigation and Inspection Service, and appropriated for its use the sum of $300,000. The functions of this service are to maintain a force of investigators for the various other services and bureaus.

Training and Dilution Service.

The purposes and duties of the service are to ascertain the best methods used in industrial establishments for training persons to do skilled work; to provide information on this subject to the various plants and employees, and to promote such training wherever it is necessary or desirable. This service also takes up the problem of dilution if necessary. This consists essentially in a reorganization of work so as to turn over to unskilled labor a large part of the processes formerly done by skilled workers.

Through the Information and Education Service is handled the publication of information and such educational matters as are especially needed in the present war emergency. The more immediate purpose of this service is to promote sound sentiment in industrial plants and to acquaint the public with the national war labor program of the Government.

Industrial Housing.

The Department of Labor assumed the administration of industrial housing and transportation. Its task was rendered the more difficult because this phase of our industrial preparation had apparently been overlooked by those charged with the merely physical factors of production. At many points where ammunition was being made in large quantities, it was only when the developments were well under way that the question as to where the added laborers would live was brought to the attention of those who had their ideas fixed upon increased production.

Upon the suggestion of the advisory council, Congress was urged to grant immediately appropriations totaling $110,000,000. Under the provisions of an act approved May 16, 1918, authority was granted to the President to provide housing for war needs. The administration of this work was in turn placed by the President under the direction of the Secretary of Labor. Allotments for house construction have been provisionally made for 76 cities where additional facilities for shelter are essential to the fulfillment of contracts for the Army and Navy. There are 26 developments now under construction, involving an expenditure of $37,306,778.88 for Government houses, apartment houses, and flats capable of accommodating about 9,000 families, or about 45,000 individuals.

Allotments for Projects.

The allotments for projects where work has not already been contracted for represent an estimated expenditure of $94,416,350. On the 26 now under way the financial allotments show an estimated expenditure of $66,560,650, or $28,151,800 more than is shown in the total contract price of the work under way. This organization is the United States Housing Corporation. The stock of the corporation is 1,000 shares, all owned by the United States, and, with the exception of two shares, is all held by the Secretary of Labor.

The Children's Bureau.

The United States child labor law went into effect on September 1, 1917, one year after its passage, the delay being provided so that employers of child labor in the included industries might have abundant time for readjustment. The provisions of the statute are well known. It invoked the authority of Congress to regulate commerce among the States to prevent the transportation of goods from an establishment where children have worked in violation of the established standards within 30 days prior to the removal of the goods.

On June 3, after the law had been in operation 273 days, the Supreme Court handed down a decision declaring it unconstitutional because the interstate commerce clause could not be invoked to prevent child labor within the respective States. At first shock that might seem conclusive, but an analysis of the majority and minority opinions of the court justifies the conviction that Federal legislation to protect children from labor had received not a defeat but only a stimulating setback. The court is unanimous that child labor is an evil.

Pending a new Federal law certain protection is afforded by the action of the President and by departmental agencies as follows:

Soon after the law went into effect a State labor inspector complained to the Children's Bureau that children were employed contrary to State laws in laundries, restaurants, and similar establishments on military and naval reservations, and therefore not within his control. This matter was brought to the attention of the Secretaries of War and Navy and both departments issued orders that on all reservations within their respective control the standards of the Federal law should be observed.

The President has assigned funds enabling the child labor division of the Children's Bureau to proceed with the inspections necessary to the enforcement of the contract clause.

The U. S. Employment Service.

Prior to October 15, 1917, the United States Employment Service had been conducted as a part of the Bureau of Immigration. The excessive war demand, however, made necessary certain changes in the basic organization which would divorce it wholly from the work of immigration and establish the operation of public employment exchanges as a separate branch of the department. In furtherance of this view the United States Employment Service became a separate unit in the department.

One of the first things undertaken after the organization of the Employment Service under the terms of the departmental order of January 3 was to establish offices in the several States. Fifteen or 20 men possessing Government experience and acquaintance with employment business were detailed for the purpose of expanding the existing offices and organizing additional ones wherever necessary. This work was accomplished with such dispatch that at the end of the fiscal year there were in existence more than 400 employment offices throughout the entire United States.

The public service reserve supplements the employment offices with 15,000 enrollment agents, who reach down into the smallest village and hamlet to tap potential supplies of wage earners. These agents, acting under direction of a Federal director for each State, seek out workers in less essential occupations and through the employment offices distribute them at the points where they are most vitally needed to bring about maximum production.

As the harvest season approached, the assistant to the director general at Kansas City was in receipt of daily reports from his various representatives in the field, who kept him thoroughly advised regarding the ripening of the grain, the probable time that the harvest laborers would be required, and the number needed in each community. As an evidence of the efficient manner in which this work was carried on, it may be stated that many letters have been received from chambers of commerce and individuals in the territory concerned, conveying the information that not a bushel of wheat had been lost through lack of sufficient help.

Skilled and Unskilled Labor.

In May, 1918, the situation with respect to supplying the necessary skilled and unskilled labor to Government plants and private concerns engaged in war work became so acute that special sections—the skilled labor section and the unskilled labor section—were established. Through the cooperation of the labor organizations and with the assistance of a qualified field staff, the skilled labor section was enabled to move a very large number of men from nonessential work to shipyards and plants of Government contractors.

During the fiscal year 1,800,593 placements of persons in industry were made, Illinois leading with 294,639, followed by Ohio with 246,232, the State of Washington with 197,413, and California with 183,913.

Employment of Returned Soldiers.

The department is not unmindful of the fact that the overwhelming mass of our armies is drawn from the ranks of wage earners, and that when their military task is done these men will return to the ranks of wage earners. It would be an ungrateful nation, indeed, which did not deem it its first duty to assure to its returned soldiers honorable and profitable employment.

The department, therefore, believes that the problem of providing profitable employment for our returned soldiers is its first duty. To believe otherwise would be to violate the spirit of the organic act of the department. "The purpose of the Department of Labor," says this act, "shall be to foster, promote, and develop the welfare of the wage earners of the United States, to improve their working conditions, and to advance their opportunities for profitable employment."

It is in furtherance of this injunction that the department has created and extended the United States Employment Service. The duties of this service, in brief, are to bring together the manless job and the jobless man. It is, therefore, contemplated to use its full resources in minimizing such unemployment as shall occur. And, indeed, if there were an equality between the numbers of men wishing employment and the opportunities for employment this liaison would be sufficient. Even in the most prosperous periods, however, there is a disparity between the actual number of wage earners and the number that our industries can absorb. Under the most favorable circumstances this unemployed surplus is such as to give rise to grave social and industrial problems. So long as this basic condition persists it is apparent that the mere bringing together of men and jobs is not sufficient. In order to provide for this surplus we must do more than seek for employment among opportunities already existing. We must correct the disparity itself. Consequently, the department faces the further duty of creating new opportunities for employment. In accordance with this view the department has been for more than three years engaged upon a comprehensive study of the problem of discovering new and profitable opportunities for employment. In the course of its investigations it has availed itself of the expert assistance and advice of many persons in other departments.

Basic Problems Intensified.

Although the war has intensified the basic problem and introduced certain new factors it has in no essential respect altered any of the chief elements. Consequently, I believe that the plans already formulated will require extension rather than alteration.

Although novel expedients have been suggested it has seemed best to proceed in accordance with historical precedents and to pursue a course that is justified by our experience and by that of other nations.

Such experience, as well as the undoubted necessity for a continuous augmentation of the world's food supply for many years to come, indicates that a more extensive as well as a more intensive use of our natural resources must be made. The soil is and must remain the chief working opportunity for large numbers of the Nation's wage earners. It is, therefore, desirable and imperative that a comprehensive policy with regard to the public domain be established.

I therefore recommend the early enactment of such legislation as may be necessary to permit the preparation of the public domain for this purpose. Such legislation should provide for the purchase of such privately owned areas as it may be found desirable to add to the public areas.

Legislation upon this important subject should include three minimum provisions: (1) The possibility of commercialized speculation must be eliminated. (2) Colonists must be given access not only to land but to farms, not the bare soil but fully equipped agricultural plants ready to operate. (3) The farms themselves must be welded together into genuine communities by provision for roads, schools and markets, under the general supervision of the Federal Government.

General Policies.

The fixed policy of the department has always been to acknowledge the right of both employers and wage earners to organize and to use its influence against abuse of organization by either side. Upon this theory the conciliation service of the department has always operated.

It is felt, however, that the rights of organization and of collective bargaining are no longer in dispute, since they have been formally adopted both by employers and by wage earners through the War Labor Conference Board. This agreement between two hitherto conflicting elements is presumably temporary in nature, but there is no good reason why it should not be regarded as permanent. If the principles upon which that agreement was founded can endure the stress of war, it is fair to suppose that even greater success will attend their application during the calmer periods of peace.

The war has demonstrated that American patriotism is not restricted to any section of the country nor to any class or group of individuals nor to any stratum of society. The great need for sacrifice for the common good engendered by the war has impelled both employers and wage earners to lay aside old prejudices, old suspicions, and old hatreds. Both laborer and employer have done this in supreme measure during the past year. In continuance of that spirit of sacrifice lies the hope for the further attainment and development during the days of peace of that democracy for which we have taken up arms.

ENROLLMENT CAMPAIGN FOR THE BOYS' WORKING RESERVE

The United States Department of Labor, information and education service, issues the following:

The national enrollment week of the United States Boys' Working Reserve, Department of Labor, has been set for the week beginning on Monday, December 23.

An endeavor will be made to enroll 400,000 boys into the reserve. The demands upon the reserve will be far greater during 1919 than it was in the year just ending.

"Farm-Craft Lessons."

In connection with the educational work now being carried on by the education section of the Boys' Working Reserve, a publication called Farm Craft Lessons, largely written and wholly edited by Eugene Davenport, dean of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, has been printed, and is now being distributed by the educational section to Federal and State directors for adoption in the high schools of the United States. In the opinion of officials of the department, this series of lessons makes up one of the best vocational educational texts thus far found in vocational literature, and is expected to do a great deal toward making the boys really useful to the farmer during vacation periods by teaching them some of the things which they will need to know in order to help increase food production, and in order not to do more harm than good.

Further publicity is being given to the movement by the issuance of a beautiful poster drawn by Coll for the Boys' Working Reserve. It represents a young man standing in a field of grain, with sickle in hand. Behind him is a dark background of ruin, typified by a flock of vultures hovering over the darkness.

This poster will be distributed to all high schools, libraries, Y. M. C. A. houses, post offices, and railway stations.

FACTS CONCERNING THE FIGHT TO STAMP OUT VICE DISEASES

men for fighting is quite as necessary to save men for civil efficiency."

W. G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, under whose direct authority the work of the United States Public Health Service comes, says in a letter to all civil authorities, addressed November 20, 1918:

"Under the protection of the military authorities four million soldiers and sailors received greater protection against venereal diseases than they received before the war in civil life. The cities and towns through which they go and to which they will return upon demobilization must be safe. The fight must be vigorously continued."

The President of the United States has added his indorsement to that of his leading cabinet officers in encouragement of this scientific and sanitary campaign that is now to reach to the uttermost parts of the country.

People Should Know Danger.

The one great thing necessary now, as it has been necessary in the face of any plague, is that the people should know the danger; should realize how nearly these vicious diseases touch every home in the land and should come to understand that the work now beginning and which shall be carried to a successful end is not a moral or a religious reform but simply a scientific, sanitary campaign.

In this new war which Uncle Sam is fighting against disease, it is the press of the country that can be of the greatest help. The facts about vice and the diseases that follow in its train are to be brought out into the light.

SURRENDER TO THE TREASURY OF WAR-SAVINGS CERTIFICATES

The Treasury Department issues the following:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
Washington, December 10, 1918.

From January 1 to 10, 1919, inclusive, each Federal reserve bank and branch thereof, and any incorporated bank or trust company is authorized to receive, from any authorized agent of the first class, war-savings certificate stamps, series of 1918, for collection or for exchange for war-savings certificate stamps, series of 1919, and United States thrift stamps, with cash adjustment, in the following manner:

The aggregate value of war-savings certificate stamps, series of 1918, received from such authorized agent of the first class for exchange shall be computed at the price of $4.24 for each such war-savings certificate stamp. The bank or trust company making the exchange shall then deliver, in exchange therefor, to such authorized agent of the first class, war-savings certificate stamps, series of 1919, computed at the price of $4.12 each, to the extent that the same may be delivered without exceeding the aggregate value of the war-savings certificate stamps, series of 1918, received for exchange and computed as above required. Any balance remaining of such aggregate value shall be paid by delivery of United States thrift stamps, at 25 cents each, to the extent that may be done without exceeding such balance, and any balance remaining shall be paid in cash. Such exchange may be made only on presentation by the authorized agent of the first class of his certificate of appointment for sale of war-savings certificate stamps, series of 1918, bearing the facsimile signature of the Secretary of the Treasury.

An incorporated bank or trust company receiving war-savings certificate stamps, series of 1918, for collection or exchange, is authorized to deliver, on or before January 20, 1919, such war-savings certificate stamps, series of 1918, so received, to the Federal reserve bank of its district, together with a statement setting forth the name of the authorized agent of the first class from whom the same have been received and the number of stamps received from such agent. On receipt thereof, the Federal reserve bank, as fiscal agent of the United States, will pay such bank or trust company $4.24 in respect of each war-savings certificate stamp, series of 1918, so delivered; or, at the option of such bank or trust company, will, in lieu of paying cash, deliver war-savings certificate stamps, series of 1919, computed at $4.12 each, and United States thrift stamps, computed at 25 cents each, and cash, to an aggregate not exceeding the aggregate value of the war-savings certificate stamps, series of 1918, computed at $4.24, so received.

The foregoing provisions apply only to war-savings certificate stamps, series of 1918, not affixed to war-savings certificates, and apply only to collection or exchange of stamps held by authorized agents of the first class. Banks and trust companies shall not make such collection or exchange except for persons who are duty authorized agents of the first class, and in the manner above set forth.

W. G. McAdoo,
Secretary.

COAST AND GEODETIC SURVEY REPORT ON YEAR'S OPERATIONS

In the annual report of the superintendent of the Coast and Geodetic Survey to the Secretary of Commerce a summary is made of the surveys effected during the year under the classifications of ship and launch hydrography, wire-drag surveys, revision work, current observations, tidal observations, topography, triangulation, precise levels, and magnetic observations. In this summary are shown the localities of these surveys and the areas covered.

Northwest Pacific Surveys.

Attention is called to the fact that there are waters of coming commercial importance along the coasts of Alaska where absolutely no surveys have been made, and that the surveys of the waters of California, Oregon, and Washington have never been properly completed. These surveys can not be prosecuted more vigorously because the vessels of the bureau for making them are not sufficient in number and those that are available are not staunch enough for all classes of work. By statistical comparison of the areas surveyed in one year by the present fleet of surveying vessels and the areas yet to be surveyed it is shown how long with the present rate of progress it will take to complete these surveys.

Government-Owned Launches.

Another need of the bureau that is pointed out in some detail is that of Government-owned power launches for propelling wire-drag surveying apparatus. A lay exposition is made of the principles of the wire-drag survey. The power launches used in the past have been rented and it is shown that this is an extravagant process.

Much difficulty has been experienced in the past by the bureau in securing and retaining competent and experienced seamen for the surveying vessels of the bureau. It is asserted that this is due more from the uninviting quarters of the vessels of the bureau and from the fact that the appropriations for the pay of seamen are not sufficient to provide a standard wage than from any other cause.

Retirement is advocated for the commissioned officers of the bureau. It is declared that the Coast and Geodetic Survey is the oldest scientific bureau of the Federal Government and naturally the evils attendant on superannuation are quite apparent.

In connection with the office work of the bureau, attention is called to the need of additional draftsmen, computers, clerks, and instrument makers.

It is shown that the average pay for computers in the bureau is below the standard in other branches of the Government service as well as in the commercial world, and that more than one-third of the authorized positions are either vacant or filled by temporary employees.

An even more acute condition is said to exist with respect to the clerical force of the bureau.

Better than money because they earn money; buy a WAR-SAVINGS STAMP TO-DAY.
