BLOWING OF WHISTLES AS WELCOME TO TRANSPORTS ORDERED TO BE STOPPED IN HARBOR OF NEW YORK

NOISE IS A MENACE TO SAFE NAVIGATION

Captains of Incoming Troop-Ships Complain They Are Unable to Hear Necessary Signals and Report Accidents Narrowly Avoided—Secretary of the Treasury Issues Instructions to the Commander of the Port to Enforce New Regulations.

The Secretary of the Treasury authorizes the following statement:

The instructions issued by the Secretary of the Treasury to the Captain of the Port of New York, placing certain restrictions on the movement of vessels welcoming incoming transports, have been made necessary by reason of repeated representations by the commanders of the cruiser and transport forces as well as by the captains of transports, in which it was stated that the safety of such transports was seriously endangered by reason of the action of welcoming vessels.

Noise of Whistles Prevents Signaling.

All the captains of naval transports which have returned since the inauguration of the marine welcome to troopships have reported the great difficulty they have experienced in safely navigating their ships up the harbor, due to the noise of whistles and sirens and streams from fire boats. This noise renders it absolutely impossible to exchange proper navigation signal whistles with any vessel or to hear any of the bell buoys in thick weather or to properly distinguish ships ahead when they are cut off by streams from the fire boats.

The captain of a large transport, which arrived during the last few days, stated that the weather being thick, he was feeling his way up the harbor, when suddenly one of the patrol boats appeared alongside and started the sirens and at the same time the fire boats commenced to shoot streams in the air so that he could hear no signals from vessels, bell buoys, or distinguish any object.

THE REGISTRATION OF CABLE ADDRESSES TO BE PERMITTED

U. S. Cable Censorship Announces Removal of War-Time Restriction.

The United States Cable Censorship announces the removal of the war-time prohibition on the registration of abbreviated cable address. Effective January 1, 1919, any person or firm in the United States or its possessions who does not already possess a registered cable address will be permitted to register one such address for use in cablegrams addressed to the registrant. Requests for registration should be made direct to the telegraph or cable companies.

In addition, United States Cable Censorship, which has not recognized addresses registered on or after January 1, 1917, will now permit their use, and Great Britain and France have eliminated the restrictions on the use of addresses registered on or after July 1, 1914. In future all registered addresses, irrespective of date of registration, may be used in cablegrams from countries with which the use of registered address is permitted.

No change has been made by any of the censorships concerned in the existing rules as to the countries with which the use of a registered address is not permitted. The principal regulations now effective on this point demand the use of plain language, as opposed to registered, address in cablegrams to or from neutral European countries or their possessions and in cablegrams to, from, or transiting through Italy or Italian possessions.

The existing rule that only one registered address be used by one person or firm is maintained.

Roumanian Landwehr Again Appeals to Allies

The Roumanian Landwehr has again sent an urgent appeal to the allied ministers at Jassy stating that unless a portion of the destined supplies reach Roumania there is great danger of famine, which would prove a new hot bed for Bolshevik propaganda.

Approved by Secretary.

These recommendations have been approved by the Secretary and the medals will be awarded in a formal way at a later date.

We have given out during the week the assignment of various units in France by Gen. Pershing to early convoys, so they will not be repeated, but the sum total is 6,821 officers and 168,239 men who are assigned to early convoys for return home. The number of men in the United States who have been ordered discharged, which I reported last week as amounting to 900,000, has now been increased to 937,000 by the introduction of some new units. This number, with the 168,239 selected by Gen. Pershing, brings the number of men slated for discharge up to 1,005,239. The sum total of men who have actually been discharged in the United States up to date is 533,334. The number of officers who have been discharged up to December 27 is 35,409.

Questions and Answers.

Q. Has Gen. March received any information concerning the French Army taking over part of the American sector in occupied German territory, and if so can the reasons for this change be stated?

A. No such official information has reached the War Department.

Q. The War Department is reported to have sent instructions to Camp Funston that the Tenth Division is not to be demobilized in the near future and that discharges should be limited to most urgent cases. Is this an exception in the demobilization program of clearing camps in the United States as quickly as possible?

A. No, in both cases.

Q. Please give the total numbers of the Army of Occupation—American, French, British, Belgian, to date?

A. We haven't this information, otherwise I would be glad to give it out.

Q. Can any report be given of the casualties (in detail if possible) sustained by the 35th and 89th Divisions?

A. The casualties up to November 13, including additional men requested by the Divisions, that is the actual number required to fill vacancies, was, for the 35th Division, 171 officers and 4,086 men; for the 89th Division, 196 officers and 5,727 men.

Q. Col. Thomas Robins, 22d Engineers, ordered to report to Nashville, Tenn. Has this appointment anything to do with putting this plant to use dur-

RUSSIAN PRISONERS AT OMSK ON THEIR WAY FROM GERMANY ARE IN DESTITUTE CONDITION

Sent Away by Germans Without Supplies and Inhospitably Received By Bolsheviki—Forty Thousand Trying to Reach Siberia.

State Department advices state that the first contingent of Russian prisoners of war reaching Omsk and Chlabinisk on their way from Germany and Austria are in a pitiable condition because of lack of clothing and shoes, while the Russian Red Cross is unable to assist them. Forty thousand, according to estimates, intend to return to Siberia, of whom 15,000 have insufficient clothing and 7,000 are in Samara detained for lack of shoes. The American Red Cross at Chlabinisk, though handicapped by lack of material, is rendering all the assistance possible.

Stories of Extreme Hardship.

The prisoners relate stories of extreme hardships and privation which they had to undergo. They were obliged to walk 60 miles in three days through the frontier and on arrival in Russia received no food nor any attention from the Bolsheviki. The latter are seeking to induce them to join the Red Army, against whom, however, the prisoners entertain strong resentment, horrified at the brutality and atrocities of which they were witnesses. The prisoners were even robbed of their shoes at Chlabinisk, and obliged to get sustenance by begging from peasants.

ing peace times and on a peace-time basis?

A. The fact of this order is that Col. Robins is not going to Nashville, but he has been ordered to report to the Chief of Staff for duty in the Purchase, Storage, and Traffic Section of the General Staff in this city, and that is where he is coming.

Regarding the bill to permit voluntary enlistments, Gen. March said:

"This bill was introduced because in the selective-service law a clause provided that the men would be raised for all armies by draft solely during the progress of the emergency, and voluntary recruiting was stopped. Now a great many men about to be discharged wish to enlist, but under that phase of the law they can not do this, and the bill simply removes this restriction and allows us to take those men if we want to, and it has no bearing on the raising of a future Army."

Gen. March also said:

"The figures I have given for discharges are to date. The discharges for this week—the week ending the 28th—have not come in at all, except about 33,000, which came in this morning, and I have added them to the number I already had. Five hundred and thirty-three thousand is practically up to last Saturday, so that when we get the report of this week we expect to have about the same proportion of increase that we had last week. I give the figures as they stand to-day."

STOPS BLOWING OF WHISTLES AS WELCOME TO TRANSPORTS

As a consequence, the transport nearly went ashore on Governors Island, and only by backing full speed did he save his ship from grounding. With all this noise and excitement it is impossible to keep the troops on board from rushing from one side of the ship to the other, which causes the ships, which are in light condition, to list greatly. If a collision should occur when a ship is in this condition, there is great probability that she would sink rapidly, and a great marine disaster would occur in the harbor of New York.

Special Rules Promulgated.

Upon the urgent recommendation of the authorities in charge of the transport service, the Secretary of the Treasury instructed the captain of the port that all tugs, motor boats, excursion steamers, and other boats and vessels in New York Harbor will be required to comply with the following rules:

1. That all such craft shall keep at a distance of at least 300 yards from an incoming transport, unless it be necessary to approach nearer to permit the vessels to pass in the ordinary course of their navigation.

2. That such craft shall not blow their sirens or whistles within a distance of one-half mile from an incoming transport, except to give the usual and necessary navigation signals.

3. That such craft shall not shoot streams of water from their hose within a distance of one-half mile from an incoming transport, unless necessary to extinguish a fire.

4. That no band shall be permitted to play in the vicinity of such transport while the same is approaching its dock.

The above rules have been promulgated exclusively with a view to insuring the safety of the transports and of the lives of soldiers and sailors returning to the United States. They are intended to interfere to the least degree, consistent with safety, with the welcome accorded to incoming transports.

close the subscriptions at any time without notice. Payment at par and accrued interest for certificates allotted must be made on and after January 2, 1919, and on or before January 7, 1919. After allotment and upon payment Federal reserve banks will issue interim receipts pending delivery of the definitive certificates. Qualified depositaries will be permitted to make payment by credit for certificates allotted to them for themselves and their customers up to an amount for which each shall have qualified in excess of existing deposits when so notified by Federal reserve banks. As fiscal agents of the United States, Federal reserve banks are authorized and requested to receive subscriptions and to make allotment in full in the order of the receipt of applications up to amounts indicated by the Secretary of the Treasury to the Federal reserve banks of the respective districts.

When you buy war-savings stamps you do not give—you receive.

C. M. WOOLLEY ELECTED VICE CHAIRMAN WAR TRADE BOARD

Election of Clarence M. Woolley, of New York and Chicago, to be vice chairman of the War Trade Board, in which capacity he will head the board during the absence in Europe of Vance C. McCormick, chairman, was announced today by Mr. McCormick, who has been summoned to Paris by President Wilson.

Mr. Woolley represents the Secretary of Commerce on the board. He has been actively associated with the War Trade Board since November, 1917, coming to Washington from New York. Some six months ago he also became the representative of the War Industries Board on the War Trade Board. He was likewise a member of the priorities committee until this was dissolved, and is still a member of the United States Sugar Equalization Board (Inc.) He is a manufacturer.

Mr. McCormick will sail December 31, his stay abroad being wholly contingent upon the developments of the situation in Paris.

The War Trade Board announces in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 471) that general import license P. F. B. 24 (W. T. B. R. 205, issued August 19, 1918), covering the importation of fruits and vegetables from Cuba, for shipments made on or before December 31, 1918, has been revoked. A new general license to be known as P. B. F. 24 has been issued covering the importation of all fresh fruits and fresh vegetables from all sources. The new general license will be valid indefinitely until revoked. No individual import licenses will therefore be required for such shipments.

SIGNIFICANCE OF THE CHEVRON IN THE ARMY AFTER THE WAR

In his interview with the press, Secretary Baker said in connection with the general subject of war chevrons:

Ten years from now the Army of the United States will consist of two classes of people, those who served in this war and those who did not. Men who have nothing on their sleeves will be those who have joined the service after the armistice, and men who were in service during the war, either abroad or at home, will wear the appropriate chevron. It will designate those who were in the forces during the war from those who were not.

War Trade Board Annuls Ruling on Wild Duck Imports From Mexico

War Trade Board restrictions against the importation of frozen wild ducks from Mexico have been removed, but this formerly sizable traffic still is against the law, so far as public sale is concerned, Vance McCormick, chairman of the board, announced to-day.

An unusual international situation was revealed by the removal of the War Trade Board's restriction. At the time the order against importing the birds was put into effect, the traffic was so extensive that a considerable saving in tonnage was effected. Since the order was issued a new migratory bird treaty with Canada and Great Britain and appropriate legislation has become effective, under which the offering of these birds for sale is prohibited.

The tonnage no longer is needed and the War Trade Board ruling therefore was withdrawn, but the treaty regulations continue.

WORK OF CONGRESS BRIEFLY TOLD

The Senate was not in session yesterday, but the House met and engaged in merely routine business and adjourned until Monday. Majority Leader Kitchin asked that the House not concur in the Senate amendments to the war-revenue bill and that the measure be sent to conference. At the suggestion of Mr. Madden, of Illinois, in order that members might have the opportunity to read the bill, action was postponed until Monday.

A resolution was introduced by Mr. Britten, of Illinois, Republican, requesting the peace conference to make provision at the earliest practicable day for a League of Nations that will establish and maintain an enduring peace. Speaker Clark received a letter from Secretary Baker urging legislation that will permit the retirement of the Army nurse corps at three-quarters pay after 20 years' service. It was pointed out that not more than six or seven nurses would become eligible for retirement within the next five years.

Diversion of Nitrate for War Needs Instead of Going to the Farmers Explained by Industries Chairman

B. M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board, authorizes the following:

Facts concerning the importation and use of nitrate during the war period, hitherto suppressed for military reasons, are herewith made public by C. H. MacDowell, director of the Chemicals Division of the War Industries Board, for the purpose of clearing up certain misunderstandings which have existed.

Appropriation by Congress.

In the fall of 1917 the Congress appropriated $10,000,000 to be used by the Agricultural Department in importing nitrate of soda to be sold by them to the farmers at cost. This was later made a revolving fund. Under this the War Industries Board procured for the Department of Agriculture some 109,000 long tons of nitrate for shipment from Chile during the winter and spring. Owing to disturbed shipping conditions in the early spring, it was impossible to bring in for February-March arrival the tonnage expected, and with the needs developed by the expected spring offensive of the Germans, it became necessary to divert to France a large tonnage of nitrate for manufacture of explosives in that country and for further increasing production of explosives in this country for use in France. This immediate need made it impossible for the Department of Agriculture to secure boats sufficient to bring in the full 109,000 tons so that 66,778 tons was actually imported, in time for use by the farmers for spring planting.

Short Tonnage Explained.

Owing to military necessity, publicity could not, of course, be given to the reason of the nonarrival of the nitrate sold to the farmers, and this inability to deliver was the cause of considerable feeling on the part of users of nitrate of soda. The military necessity was the greatest one and the planters who were unable to get the nitrate were in this way contributing to the supply of explosives in France, which later led to the winning of the war.

Drawn from Reserves.

The nitrate of soda situation in the United States up until about the first of August was a serious one, although every explosive and chemical plant was kept supplied with sufficient nitrate to maintain full operations at all times. This was done by drawing from Government arsenal reserves and by transferring stocks from fertilizer manufacturers and other holders to plants when stocks were about exhausted. Owing to the shortage of nitrate, it was deemed wise to ask the importer to discontinue sales of nitrate to fertilizer manufacturers other than for the making of sulphuric acid, and after the first of July all consignments of nitrate arriving in the country sold to such manufacturers were commandeered by the Ordnance Department and turned over to munitions and chemical manufacturers. These contracts thus handled were made between the importers and the fertilizer people in the fall of 1917.

All Restrictions Removed.

Immediately on the signing of the armistice, all restrictions were taken off of the importers as far as sales of nitrate to fertilizer manufacturers and agricultural users was concerned, so that there will be no difficulty in supplying the entire needs of the United States for agricultural use for spring planting.

Nitrate of soda is the foundation of smokeless powder and high explosives as well as for other needed chemicals, and the purchase and importation of nitrate to the United States was controlled by the United States Government through the War Industries Board in cooperation with the importers formerly handling this material, the importers buying in Chile as in times past. The Government received their nitrate through the importers at cost and the profit charged by the importers to private users was controlled by the Government so that uniform cost to all users was secured, this cost being based on the average monthly cost in Chile, plus the freight storage, exchange, and other elements of cost.

The Nitrate Committee.

A committee known as the Nitrate Committee of the United States was established with offices in New York and a New York representative of the War Industries Board represented that board in the offices of this committee. Government needs for nitrate were increasing rapidly and the 1919 requirements would have been very large. During the entire period of the war all needed nitrate was secured and there was no let up in the manufacture of war materials depending upon this article.

PLAN TO COOPERATE WITH THE WOMAN'S LAND ARMY

The Secretary of Labor, William B. Wilson, in recognition of the services of thousands of women during the past year, and with the view to encouraging the preparation of women for farm work another season, wherever the need arises, has approved a plan of cooperation between the U. S. Employment Service and the Woman's Land Army of America, Inc.

Under the new arrangement representatives of the Land Army may become officers of a division of work in the Employment Service, this division to be known as The Woman's Land Army of America, the Employment Service to furnish officers' insignia, assistance in recruiting and expenses of the Federal organization, and to have direction of officers' recommendations to the Secretary, location of units, and regulation of working conditions.

A national director, in the person of Mrs. William H. Hubert, will act as administrative chief of the division.

Development of Aviation In U. S. Army During War Reviewed In Report By Maj. Gen. Kenley, Director

In his annual report to the Secretary of War, the Director of Military Aeronautics, Maj. Gen. William L. Kenley, says in part:

Though the Division of Military Aeronautics was created only on April 24, 1917, it was agreed that the duties intrusted to it and previously carried out by the Signal Corps should be covered in this report in order to present a continuous story of the development of the personnel, training, and organizing phases of the present Air Service. Also it should be pointed out that operations on the front in France have been left largely to whatever report the American Expeditionary Force may deem wise.

Sudden Importance of Service.

The fiscal year 1917-18 saw aviation develop from a wholly subsidiary branch of the Army as the Aviation Section of the Signal Corps to a position of extreme and decisive importance as the Air Service, directly under the Chief of Staff. From the most insignificant beginnings it came within the year to be one of America's major efforts in the war.

This is all the more surprising when America's previous backwardness in aviation is considered. This country has stood practically still in aerial progress while the war in Europe brought about an extraordinary advance. From all this the United States was entirely shut off up to the time it abandoned neutrality. So little exact knowledge was available that the first American planes to go with the expedition into Mexico in March, 1916, were all rendered useless in accidents within a short time of arrival. There was practically no aviation technique here comparable to Europe's, almost negligible manufacturing facilities, not a hundred trained flyers, and only the most rudimentary facilities for training. Moreover, no one had any adequate appreciation of the intricacy and skill required in the making of either an airplane or the training of a pilot.

Progress in Europe.

As against this stagnation Europe's progress in two and one-half years of war had been tremendous. * * * In contrast to all this development the United States at the time of its entry into the war stood very little ahead of where it had been before the world war broke out.

The original American war program, based on an army of a million men, made aviation but a relatively insignificant part of the general military forces. This program, which represented the view of the general staff before the arrival of the foreign missions, was met by two appropriations, $10,800,000 on May 12, 1917, and $43,450,000 on June 15, many times larger than any appropriations ever before made.

Congress' Record Appropriation.

The British and French missions, however, arriving the last of April, completely revolutionized this viewpoint. Supported by an urgent cable of May 21 from the premier of France, calling for 2,000 planes a month and a total of 5,000 pilots and 50,000 mechanics, the $640-

000,000 appropriation, the largest ever made by Congress for one specific purpose, was drawn up, put through the House of Representatives Military Affairs Committee in two meetings, the House itself in one, the Senate Military Affairs Committee in 45 minutes, and the Senate itself a week later, becoming law on July 24, 1917. On this date the present large program was really launched, two months and a half after the outbreak of war, and largely in response to allied appeals.

Beginning of Separate Service.

The rest of the fiscal year was taken up in amplifying and executing the lines of effort here laid down. Toward the end of the year, however, it became obvious that the system of organization of an Aviation Section as a subsidiary branch of the Signal Corps was not functioning efficiently. The British and French, perceiving that we were encountering the same kind of obstacles as theirs, strongly recommended a separate, independent air service similar to the air ministries they had been obliged to establish and which have worked so successfully since. As a result, a first step was taken in a rearrangement of duties designed to effect a greater independence and a greater concentration of authority when, on April 24, the War Department authorized the following statement:

Mr. John D. Ryan has accepted the directorship of aircraft production for the Army. A reorganization of the Aviation Section of the Signal Corps has been also effected, of which the principal elements are as follows: (Here follow the details.)

Duties Made Clearer.

The report continues:

This division of responsibilities and functions gave a clearer conception of the unique duties of the Air Service in production of planes and training of pilots, and is significant, too, of the many tactical reasons which made it imperative for England and France to establish separate and independent air services.

The end of the fiscal year found this problem of higher organization one of the most important to be faced. An early defect discovered in the reorganization developed when there appeared to be inadequate liaison between the Bureau of Aircraft Production and the Division of Military Aeronautics. One was responsible for the production of planes, the other for their operation and military efficiency. The method of selecting a type to put into production and the final decision whether any plane produced was suitable for its military purpose or not was undetermined. The situation of two sets of officials with equal authority in their respective fields of action, neither responsible to the other, at once demonstrated that neither could be held for the final production of an acceptable plane for the front. This was partially obviated by an agreement between the Division of Military Aeronautics and the Bureau of Aircraft Production that the types of plane to be put into production must first be mutually agreed upon, and that before a plane could be sent to the front it should be given a military test and accepted by the Division of Military Aeronautics. But considerable time was lost before this policy was definitely arranged, a policy which might easily have at once been established by a unified department.

Science of the Air.

The personnel side of the air service, including the selection, training, organization, and operation of the flying forces, developed within the fiscal year 1917-18 into an educational system on a scale infinitely larger and more diverse than anyone had anticipated. Teaching men to fly, to send messages by wireless, to operate machine guns in the air, to know artillery fire by its bursts, and to travel hundreds of miles by compass, teaching other men to read the enemy's strategy from aerial photographs, and still others to repair instruments, ignition systems, propellers, airplane wings, and motors, has required a network of flying fields and schools, a large instructional force, and a maze of equipment and curricula.

Advance Since the War.

None of this, practically speaking, was on hand at the outbreak of the war, neither fields, instructors, curricula, nor, more serious than all, experience to show what was to be needed. This country had never trained an aviator sufficiently to meet the demands of overseas aerial warfare and had not the slightest knowledge of the instruction necessary for radio, photography, or enlisted personnel. Consequently, the first men largely taught themselves before teaching others and experience led on from one course to the next.

Year's Flying Statistics.

During this fiscal year a grand total of 407,990 hours were flown by Army aviators in the United States, as contrasted with 745.5 hours in 1914 and 1,269 in 1915. In the single week ending June 30, 1918, a total of 19,560 hours were flown, or 15 times, for that single week, the number for the whole year three years before. This, at 75 miles an hour, is equivalent to over 30,000,000 miles, or 1,223 times around the Equator.

During it there were 152 fatalities, or 2,684 flying hours and 201,000 miles flown to each death. Of these, 86 were caused by stalls, when the plane, usually through some error by the pilot, lost its flying speed and dropped into a straight nose dive or turned into a tail spin, from which the pilot did not have the time or the skill to extricate it. Collisions were responsible for 30 other accidents, often due to failure to fly according to the rules. Side-slips, the only other large cause of accidents, resulted in 10 deaths.

Regrettable as these accidents are, it is felt that, considering the newness of the science, the early state of development of the planes, the inexperience in instruction, and the necessity of teaching stunts in themselves rather dangerous, this number is not large. As a matter of actual statistics, fatalities in Amer-

WAR WORK OF CENSUS BUREAU REVIEWED IN DIRECTOR'S REPORT

According to the annual report of Director Rogers, of the Bureau of the Census, to Secretary Redfield, of the Department of Commerce, the Census Bureau during the fiscal year turned aside in large measure from its usual peace-time work and directed a part of its energies to the compilation of war statistics. The increase in this class of work was so large that the number of employees engaged on it rose from 92 on July 1, 1918, to 231 on September 1.

War Work by Bureau.

The war work done by the bureau covers a wide range. Its more important phases include canvasses of manufacturers and dealers to ascertain the consumption and stocks on hand of certain raw materials used in war industries, and the production and stocks on hand of commodities made therefrom; the classification of occupations of military registrants, an undertaking that necessitated the handling and rehandling of more than 8,000,000 cards; estimates of population for use as a basis in the apportionment of the first draft; the allocation of enlistments; and the determination of registrants' ages from census records. In addition to carrying on these and other specific lines of work at the request of the war agencies of the Government, the bureau has complied with many requests for information which had a bearing on the problems arising in connection with the war.

Bureau's Regular Work.

During the fiscal year the bureau carried on 13 regular and 7 special lines of work, in addition to the war work and the preparations for the Fourteenth Census. The regular inquiries included canvasses of water transportation and shipbuilding, of electrical industries, of religious bodies, of births and deaths, of State and municipal finance, of cotton and cotton seed, and of stocks of leaf tobacco in the hands of manufacturers and dealers.

The work on birth and death statistics has been considerably expanded during recent years. These statistics are gathered only from those States and municipalities which maintain adequate registration systems.

The special work done by the bureau included a census of the Virgin Islands, recently purchased from Denmark. These islands have a total area of 132 square miles, and the total population on November 1, 1917, was 26,051.

Another special line of work undertaken by the bureau was the tabulation of data covering the disputed areas of Europe and Africa—that is, those areas whose final disposition will be determined by the outcome of the war.

The force of the Census Bureau in Washington comprises 684 officials and employees, and in addition there are employed throughout the cotton belt approximately 700 local special agents who make periodical collections of cotton and cottonseed statistics.

Preparations for Fourteenth Census.

In order to avoid waste and delay in the conduct of the next decennial inventory of the country's population, agriculture, and industries, to be made in 1920, the bureau is carrying on such prepara-

U. S. to be Independent of Other Nations For Nautical Charts, Says Hydrographer in Report Reviewing Work of the Past Year

The report of the United States Hydrographer, Rear Admiral Seaton Schroeder, United States Navy, retired, on the operations of the Hydrographic Office during the fiscal year, says, in part:

The Hydrographic Office continued to supply charts and sailing directions as needed for the Navy and other public services, and the mercantile marine. Thanks to a certain amount of overtime work and unremitting zeal on the part of all, and to good judgment displayed by the former hydrographer and his assistants in guiding the expanding energies into proper channels just before and after war came upon the country, there has been no failure to provide outfits for the constantly increasing number of vessels of all types and tonnages. An increasing demand has also been met for manuals of instruction in navigation called for by various schools and colleges maintaining navigation classes, and by young reserve men and others aspiring to become officers in the Navy or the mercantile marine.

Independent of Other Nations.

It has long been recognized by all who have had opportunity to observe the working of this office from within, or to use its products, that it should be brought to a position of independence of foreign sources for maintaining its supply of charts and sailing directions for not only vessels of the Navy, but for other public services and for vessels of the mercantile marine. Before the present European war had progressed many months it had become evident that what had been a desideratum was fast becoming a necessity, as foreign sources for such vital material were being very greatly curtailed or wholly closed. Our entry into the war made it an absolute sine qua non; and, although the final result can not be immediately achieved of covering the more remote untraveled seas with our charts and sailing directions, the office has been definitely brought to a position of virtual independence and self-support. And that position will of necessity have to be maintained from now on; having been forced to it by the inexorable logic of war we can not now recede.

Heretofore in the international exchange of hydrographic work America has remained in debt to the other leading maritime nations; this position should be reversed.

tory work as can be done prior to the enactment of the pending bill to provide for the Fourteenth Census. Under this bill, if it is enacted into law, all the clerical and subclerical force of the bureau will be appointed through open competitive examinations, held by the United States Civil Service Commission, as at the census of 1910.

The Fourteenth Census will cover the subjects of population; agriculture, including irrigation and drainage; manufactures; and mines, quarries, and oil and gas wells. The undertaking will require the services of a field force of about 85,000 or 90,000, chiefly enumerators.

A position of independence will secure to us great advantages in the features of national security, efficiency due to working under an individual and homogeneous system, undivided responsibility for the safe navigation of our shipping, both naval and commercial, and resurrection from the humiliating situation of the leading nation in the world being dependent upon other nations for nautical information.

The report urges the need for larger permanent quarters for the office and continues:

Personnel and Salaries.

The carrying on of the increased work resulting from the state of war has been rendered possible by utilizing temporarily the services of men and women of the Naval Reserve Force. Upon the cessation of war operations it will not do to suddenly diminish the force of naval reservists and civilians on the war roll. The activities of the office have acquired a momentum that can not be instantly checked.

The well-known increase in the cost of living that has gradually imposed itself upon the residents of Washington to an apparently greater extent than elsewhere has entailed marked hardship upon many Government civil employees, including those of this office. A certain measure of relief was afforded by the authorized formation of a temporary or war roll, to which a limited number of older employees, chiefs of sections, were transferred at a slight increase of salary, although danger to future efficiency was recognized from the fact that they might not be restored to the permanent roll when the war shall end. This action was prompted in an endeavor to forestall resignations among the lower grades.

Expenses and salaries will not go down immediately upon the cessation of war, and it will certainly be necessary that those who are retained shall receive not less than the salaries attached to the war roll.

DEVELOPMENT IN AVIATION.

ican training are less than half as large as those of the other allied countries.

Personnel.

Of the personnel on June 30, 1918, after telling the details of the various training camps in the United States, the report says:

Where, at the outbreak of the war, there had been but 65 officers in the Air Service, there are now 14,230; the enlisted strength, similarly, had jumped from 1,120 to 124,767; the number of men in or awaiting training for flyers from less than 100 to over 18,000. There were 4,872 officers and 46,667 enlisted men overseas. Indeed, the Air Service alone was by June 30, 1918, larger than the American Army at the outbreak of the war. While its development had been infinitely more complicated and much less rapid than expected, there is reason to believe that it is essentially sound.

NEW RULING ON EXPORTATION OF MANUFACTURES CONTAINING GOLD

War Trade Board Announces Further Modification of Regulations.

The War Trade Board announces, in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 441), that it has been possible to further modify the regulations governing the exportation of manufactures containing gold (W. T. B. R. 370, Dec. 14, 1918), which have been changed to read as follows:

(1) On and after November 16, 1918, applicants for licenses to export any manufactures containing gold will be required to make their application on Form X, as heretofore, and attach thereto, duly executed and filled in, Supplemental Information Sheet X-29, together with any other supplemental information sheets required for shipment to particular countries, as Form X-122, etc.

(2) Licenses when import agreement is given.—Licenses may be granted for the exportation of manufactures containing gold to all destinations, if the applicant shall file with the War Trade Board an agreement (Form X-215) to the effect that the applicant will import into the United States gold equivalent to the bullion value of the gold contained in such exported articles, provided the bullion value of the gold contained therein is greater than 65 per cent of the value of the article for shipments to Cuba, West Indies, Mexico, Central America, and South America, or greater than 45 per cent for shipments to other destinations.

On January 15, 1919, and at the end of every three months' period thereafter, each exporter in the United States who has exported manufactures containing gold, under this section, shall file with the War Trade Board, Washington, D. C., reports in writing of all exportations of manufactures containing gold or bullion value in excess of the percentages prescribed above, made by him during the preceding three months and all importations of gold from any foreign country made by him during such period, to which there must be attached a copy of the customs import entry or entries countersigned by the collector of customs.

For reporting such exportations and importations, Form X-216, January, 1919, should be used for shipments to Cuba, West Indies, Mexico, Central America, and South America, and the importations to counterbalance such exportations as provided herein, and, similarly, Form X-217, January, 1919, should be used for other destinations.

Importations of gold required herein may be made from any country, and exporters are not required to make their importations of gold from the country to which they have exported the articles containing gold.

(3) Licenses when no import agreement is given.—Licenses may be granted for the exportation of manufactures containing gold without such agreement for import required by section (2) in the following cases:

(A) When the destination is Cuba, the West Indies, Mexico, Central America, or South America, and the bullion value of the gold contained in the article exported does not exceed

War Work of the Bureau of Standards Reviewed in Director's Annual Report

The recent activities of the Bureau of Standards, Department of Commerce, form a chapter in the technical history of military efficiency. The report of the director covers many interesting applications of science to warfare. The bureau is essentially a physical research laboratory and as such has been engaged in researches on military instruments, methods for locating enemy batteries, development of new materials, appliances, and methods, and other technical researches on military problems. A synopsis of the report issued by the Department of Commerce says:

The regular work of the bureau has yielded important results. Apart from new researches, a large volume of testing was completed, more than 300,000 separate tests being made. The construction of the new industrial laboratory, the completion of the metallurgical laboratory, and the building of a number of emergency war laboratories for airplane investigations were events of interest, and will be of great value in the development of the several branches of technology within the bureau's field.

Well Equipped When War Broke.

When the United States entered the war, the bureau already possessed exceptional facilities, equipment, and personnel for exact scientific research in physics, chemistry, and engineering. This enabled it to take up promptly many important military researches. The laboratories, so useful during peace, proved of especial importance in war. The specialized equipment of instruments, materials, and supplies were on hand which were then almost unobtainable elsewhere. The bureau promptly extended its service to all lines of scientific work which would assist in the war. Practically every section of the bureau's regular organization has had military problems of the most pressing nature submitted to it, and invaluable service has been rendered.

65 per cent of the whole value of such article; or

(B) When the destination is any country other than those named in paragraph (A) and the bullion value of the gold contained in the article exported does not exceed 45 per cent of the total value of such article.

(4) In filing out reports of exportations of manufactures containing gold (Form X-216 or X-217, January, 1919), exportations of commodities containing gold of bullion value not exceeding the respective percentages of the value of the article as indicated above should not be reported.

(5) Form X-217, December, 1918, is hereby withdrawn.

(6) Copies of the various forms described above may be obtained upon application to the War Trade Board, Washington, D. C., or to any of the branch offices.

(7) Shipments of dental gold may be made without the execution of the import agreement, such agreement not being required for such shipments.

The recent expansion of the bureau has been on lines vital to the success of the war. It is interesting to note, however, that many of these lines are of essential value to our industries in peace. The need for the national provision for master-gauge standardization was only realized by those in close touch with such work. The accurate dimensioning of the functioning parts of mechanisms will permit extending the American system of manufacturing interchangeable parts to its maximum usefulness. The importance of nation-wide standardization has long been known, but the practical working out of such standardization is best met by a national laboratory such as the Bureau of Standards. The same principle holds for all the technologies and special branches of physics.

Science and Technology.

The combination of pure science and technology has proven especially stimulating and effective. The close cooperation of physicists and engineers in practical as well as theoretical work has given an unusual breadth to such researches. In turn, the technologic facilities have proven of great value in the purely scientific work. Many cases might be cited where the elements of a research problem ramify into laboratories of practically every division of the bureau. The airplane is an example, and a problem apparently as simple as the spark plug has called for researches in many different technical sections of the bureau. The establishment of new industries in America, such as those of optical glass and chemical porcelain, and the scientific remodeling of older industries are fruits of the more intimate cooperation of science and industry which it is the function of the bureau to promote.

A fine laboratory for industrial research is nearly completed and will be ready for use in a few months. This laboratory, when completely equipped, will be one of the most effective of its kind in the world. In no national institution in the world is the union between pure science and practical technology so intimate as in the work of the Bureau of Standards.

Publications During Year.

Apart from confidential reports the bureau published during the year about 50 new publications, including scientific and technologic circulars and bulletins. Thirty-six confidential circulars were printed on the subject of aviation instruments alone. The establishment of the work on metals in a suitable laboratory building was followed by the establishment of experimental foundry and other research work on a practical basis. An interesting branch of the bureau's work is found in the field of public utilities, especially recent developments in regard to telephone service standards, and the standards of safety and practice for power service, elevator service, crane construction, building construction, and the like.

Make every day a thrift day and help your Government end the war days.

WORK OF THE U. S. COAST GUARD REVIEWED IN ANNUAL REPORT

The United States Coast Guard, says Capt. E. P. Bertholf, commandant, in his report to the Secretary of the Navy, has operated as a part of the Navy throughout the fiscal year, and its various units, consisting of vessels and stations, have been operating in most instances in connection with the several naval fleets and districts. The personnel on June 30, 1918, included 228 commissioned officers, 36 cadets, 412 warrant officers, and 5,920 enlisted men.

While work in connection with the prosecution of the war has been the paramount duty of the Coast Guard during the year, certain functions, notably those in connection with the saving of life and property, have been carried on whenever the facilities of the service have been available for that purpose.

Salvage During the Year.

During the fiscal year 1,250 persons were rescued from peril, and 11,084 persons on board vessels assisted. The value of vessels and cargoes assisted was $15,198,322. Appropriations for the maintenance of the Guard were $5,856,086, and the net expenditures $8,069,327.25. Deficiency supplied from appropriations for Naval Establishment $2,213,241.25.

There were only three days throughout the entire year when some agency of the Coast Guard was not called upon to give aid of some kind to persons or property in distress. There was a daily average of 7.6 instances of assistance rendered to the public, and the maximum number of such instances in any one day was 34. The versatility and adaptability of the Coast Guard personnel have been demonstrated to a marked degree by the combination of military and humanitarian duties it has been called upon to perform throughout the year.

Sixteen casualties to vessels, in which a total of 38 persons were drowned, took place within the field of operations of the Coast Guard during the past year as compared with 11 such casualties during the preceding year. The instance of the largest loss of life was furnished by the foundering of the steam tug Eugene Moran, December 8, 1917, off Absecon Light, coast of New Jersey. In accordance with the requirements of section 9 of the act of June 18, 1878, all these casualties were investigated with a view of determining the cause of the disaster and whether or not the service performed its duty. In one instance the board of investigation found that one member of the service was chargeable with failure to perform his duty, and suitable disciplinary action was taken.

Instances of Resuscitation.

As usual, the Coast Guard station crews were called upon during the fiscal year in a number of instances to undertake the resuscitation of the apparently drowned. Six of twelve persons restored were apparently dead when taken in charge, having been in the water from a few seconds to 10 minutes, and periods of labor running from 2 minutes to 2 hours were required to restore them. In one of these cases the evidence indicates the patient had been in the water about 10 minutes and in another between 10 and 15 minutes.

Civil Service Examinations for Positions Under the Board for Vocational Training

The United States Civil Service Commission announces examinations to be held on February 4, 1919, for the positions of chief, Smith-Sears division, district vocational officer, supervisor for advisement and training, vocational advisor, and placement officer.

These positions are in the office of the Federal Board for Vocational Education, a part of the duties of which board are in connection with the vocational rehabilitation of disabled soldiers and sailors. The salaries range from $2,500 to $5,000 and the positions are open to males only. The chief's headquarters will be in Washington, while the others will be assigned to duty in the field or in Washington.

Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on the following subjects which will have the relative weights indicated: Education, 25; experience, 50; thesis and publications (to be filed with application), 25; total, 100.

Duties of the Chief.

The duties of the chief ($5,000 a year) will be to make recommendations to the director in matters of principle and policy in administration of the Smith-Sears Act; to put into effective operation, with the approval of the director, the decisions and plans of the Federal Board and the director's decisions relating to the Smith-Sears Act; to act as chairman of the staff conference in the absence of the director; to recommend appointment of personnel under the Smith-Sears Act; and to recommend to the director studies and investigations to be made in vocational reeducation.

The prerequisites for consideration for this position are: Graduation from a standard high school or education equivalent to that required for such graduation, and, in addition, at least five years' successful experience as an administrator in a responsible position in education, business, or industry.

The duties of the district vocational officer ($2,500 to $4,000 a year), will include direct responsibility to the executive officer for all activities under the act in the district assigned him; the submission to the executive officer of all questions of policy, administration, and procedure on which ruling is desired; the execution of instructions as received through the executive officer; to serve as chairman of the district case board; the preparation of all cases for submission to the board; and the transmission of its recommendations as to a man's reeducation to the head officer for approval.

The duties of the supervisor for advisement and training ($2,500 to $4,000 a year) will include the inspection of school facilities and the preparation of reports for the district vocational office; the inspection and supervision of training in schools and shops; the cooperation with the survey and placement officer regarding the training of men in offices, farms, industrial establishments, etc.; the preparation for the district vocational officer of courses of study to suit the needs for training in the district; and to make recommendations to the district vocational officer concerning and to have supervision of, instructors, special teachers, vocational advisors, or other assistants, and the training of teachers in service.

Report of the Bureau of Aircraft Production

Showing Activities Until Close of the Fiscal Year

The report of the Bureau of Aircraft Production, John D. Ryan, director, says, in part:

From the date of the creation of the Aircraft Board by act of Congress approved October 1, 1917, to May 24, 1918, the Aircraft Board acted in an advisory capacity to the Secretary of the Navy and to the Chief Signal Officer of the Army, with respect to the purchase, production, and manufacture of aircraft, and made recommendations as to contracts and their distribution in connection with the foregoing.

The Navy.

The Navy has continued to function in its relations to the Aircraft Board in substantially the same manner as heretofore.

The board acts as a clearing house for information regarding aviation as between the Army and the Navy. The Executive order of May 20, 1918, which gave to the Bureau of Aircraft Production the jurisdiction and control of the production of airplanes for the Army, recognizes the existence of the Aircraft Board in designating the chairman of that board as head of the Bureau of Aircraft Production, and neither enlarges nor diminishes the duties and functions of the board.

The Aircraft Board consists of the following:

Civilian members.—John D. Ryan, chairman; R. F. Howe, vice chairman; and W. C. Potter.

Army members.—Maj. Gen. W. L. Kenly, Col. E. A. Deeds, and Col. R. L. Montgomery. (Last two temporarily relieved.)

Navy members.—Rear Admiral D. W. Taylor, Capt. N. E. Irwin, and Lieut. Com. A. K. Atkins.

Organization of the Bureau.

In order to carry out the program and provide the equipment, the bureau is divided into seven main divisions:

- (a) Executive.
- (b) Engineering.
- (c) Production.
- (d) Spruce production.
- (e) Procurement.
- (f) Finance.
- (g) Advisory and consulting.

The Executive Division directs the activities of the bureau.

The Engineering Division is responsible for the design of new models of airplanes and engines and all accessory equipment necessary to meet the military requirements, and when developed to furnish models and drawings to the production department for the producing of quantities called for by the program.

The Production Division is charged with responsibility for the supervision of the production and inspection of all aircraft, including materials and parts therefor, for the investigation and selection of sources of supply, and for the conduct of all relations with contractors, with the exception of the production engineering, the execution of contracts, and matters of financial administration.

The activities of the Production Division are carried on by decentralization through district offices, which are established in various sections of the country where concentrated aircraft production is being carried on. By this means direct contact with the manufacturers is obtained and decisions can be rendered with the least possible delay.

It is of interest to note that aircraft requirements emanate from the Director of Aircraft Production for complete planes, engines, and accessories, and are set forth in an authorized program furnished by the Office of the Secretary of War, which states that certain types of airplanes and airplane engines in certain monthly quotas of each type are required, these types having previously been determined largely by the Air Forces overseas.

Production Results.

In connection with production, it is of interest to note what has been accomplished:

The foregoing figures show shipments from the factory.

In addition to this production, a certain percentage of spares have been included in the shipment of each type of engine.

Combat engines, consisting of the Hispano-Suiza 180-horsepower and the Liberty 12, are in large quantity production, while the Hispano-Suiza 300-horsepower and the Liberty 8 are approaching actual production, and the output of each plant is being pushed to the utmost limit, as it is realized that this country is called upon to supply a large percentage of the requirements of the allies in addition to equipping planes which are produced in this country. Sufficiently extensive tests of these engines have been made to warrant a feeling of assurance that they will be satisfactory in service.

BATTLE-PLANE PRODUCTION.

In addition to this shipment of planes there is a percentage of approximately 80 per cent parts shipped as spares for battle planes, and approximately 100 per cent as spares for training planes.

The report here gives in detail the list of parts and quantities freighted, and continues:

Some idea may be gained from this list of the task of developing and getting into production the various products required by the Air Service, most of them never before having been produced in this country and representing a new art, to develop which both engineers and skilled workmen have to be trained and made proficient.

The manufacturers selected are entitled to the greatest credit for the co-operation and activity they have shown in turning over their existing facilities, and in many cases adding to these facilities in order to meet the requirements.

Recognition is also given to the hearty assistance accorded this bureau by other Government departments.

Special Allied Missions.

A special French Engineering Mission and a special Italian Engineering Mission have been brought to this country and are now engaged in the development of experimental planes of various types, which will be carefully tested and put into immediate production if satisfactory to the Air Service. The manufacturing facilities of this country are being rapidly developed for the production of complete battle planes in quantity, and also for the production of finished parts, which will be sent overseas for assembly.

Spruce Production Division.

The output of spruce on the Western Coast is being rapidly increased, and in order to give an intelligent picture of the methods used in bringing about these results, the following figures on output are of particular interest:

	Feet.
Spruce.
Total spruce shipped up to May 24, 1918.....	56,711,044
Total spruce shipped May 24 to June 30.....	8,413,542

Of the total shipments of spruce, 2,530,824 feet were shipped direct to England from the southern district.

Of the total fir shipped, 7,055 feet consisted of wing beams complete finished.

Spruce Production Cut-Up Plant.

In addition to the activities of the spruce production division in getting spruce through regular lumber camp channels, a cut-up plant has been located on a Government reservation at Vancouver, Wash. Work on this cut-up plant was begun December 24, 1917, and completed February 7, 1918.

The inception of the idea of a cut-up plant to supplement the sawmills was due chiefly to the necessity of manufacturing rived cants by those not having sawmills. The cut-up plant is now being used for the manufacture of airplane lumber from the entire log.

Machinery of the most modern type has been secured and scientific methods of manufacturing aircraft material adopted. Circular head saws are being used in four of the six units of the mill, and band saws in the other two.

The logs and rived cants are shipped to the plant and are handled by the band saws, and the other units take the flitches from the sawmills in the woods. It is estimated that the cut at the mill can be run up to 9,000,000 feet per month.

In this plant the logs are cut to dimensions, which does away with the waste incident to transporting lumber across the country.

the district offices or plants where aircraft is (or was) being produced, showing a grand total on June 30, 1918, of 2,318, and continues:

These figures show an increase in personnel from May 24 to June 30 of approximately 24 per cent.

Special Missions.

In order to carry out a thorough study of European production of airplanes, engines, and accessories, a special mission was sent overseas in June, 1918. This mission consisted of experienced experts from the United States on engines, planes, electrical equipment, contracts, instruments, and accessory apparatus.

ADMIRAL SIMS' APPRECIATION OF THE AMERICAN RED CROSS

Admiral Sims, commanding the American naval forces in European waters, has sent the following message of appreciation of the work of the American Red Cross to the War Council of that organization.

"I have often heard people say 'Why is it necessary to care for sick and wounded soldiers and sailors through an organization like the American Red Cross? Why does not the Government take charge of the work?' The fact of the matter is the Government is not capable of doing it the way the Red Cross does. All Government activity, particularly this work, is governed by rules and regulations and an auditor. All these rules and regulations are made with a view to what is likely to happen, but all needs can not be foreseen.

Get Results Quickly.

"When an emergency turns up we sometimes have not the facilities, sometimes not the legal authority to do all we ought to do. The Red Cross man is like a combination of the President of the United States, the Cabinet, and both Houses of Congress. He can make law as quickly as you can write a check. The emblem of the Red Cross is two small pieces of red tape laid neatly across each other. But so far as I know this is the only bit of red tape they've got. They can do things unhampered by rules or regulations. When our men are sick or wounded and we need quick action, unhampered and free, that's where the Red Cross comes to the front.

Otranto Case Cited.

"Disasters like the Otranto show how valuable is its work. Some months ago the Red Cross came to me and asked if it could establish emergency depots on the north coast of Ireland with view to possibility of some such disaster as this. The Government could not do it, and it seemed pretty evident it ought to be done. I told the Red Cross to go ahead, and these depots were of the greatest value in the Otranto disaster. The Red Cross is ever present to help in time of trouble. We have had many crosses to bear during this war, but the Red Cross has been the finest and the best of them."

Notation as to Finances.

It is of particular interest to note that there has been disbursed in cash up to June 30 a total of $208,419,894, covered by Air Service material, and a total of $164,898,494 for buildings, flying fields, training, and maintenance. Of this amount there have been cash disbursements of approximately $1,000,000 for experimental work on engines and planes at the McCook Experimental Field, Dayton, Ohio, and a cash disbursement of approximately $350,000 up to June 30 for special gas at the Fort Worth, Tex., Experimental Plant. In addition to this, there has been a total expenditure of approximately $200,000 in completing the development of the present battle planes so as to take advantage of American manufacturing methods and quantity production.

Personnel.

On the subject of personnel the report says:

One of the most difficult problems which continually faces the director of this bureau is the securing of the proper personnel to carry on the activities of this very specialized industry, about which so little was known in this country at the time war was declared. With the other activities of the Government, the problem grows more serious each day.

The report here gives in detail the enlisted, commissioned, and civilian personnel, first in Washington and second in

RED CROSS HOME SERVICE

Information for Soldiers' and Sailors' Families, Issued by Department of Civilian Relief.

Discontinuance of Award Because of Family Conditions.

The following regulations have been adopted by the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance. They are based upon the last sentence of section 210 of the war-risk insurance law, which reads: "Amount of each monthly allotment and allowance shall be determined according to family conditions existing on the first day of the month." The regulations are as follows:

(a) An allottee is deemed to have attained the age of 18 years on the day before the 18th anniversary of birth. For example: A person born on November 30, 1900, is 18 years of age on November 29, 1918.

(b) An allotment and allowance to an allottee who, before July 1, 1918:

1. Died; or
2. Being entitled to an allotment and allowance as the child of an enlisted man was married; or
3. Being entitled to an allotment and allowance as the child of an enlisted man and not being insane, idiotic, or otherwise permanently helpless, became 18 years of age; or
4. Being entitled to an allotment and allowance as the wife of an enlisted man, was divorced without alimony being decreed; or
5. Being entitled to an allotment and allowance as the former wife divorced of an enlisted man to whom alimony had been decreed remarried—is discontinued as of the date on which such event occurred.

(c) After June 30, 1918, a change in family condition occurring on the first day of any month has the same effect as if it occurred on any other day in the same month.

(d) An allotment and allowance to an allottee who, after June 30, 1918:

1. Dies; or
2. Being entitled to an allotment and allowance as the child of an enlisted man, is married; or
3. Being entitled to an allotment and allowance as the child of an enlisted man and not being insane, idiotic, or otherwise permanently helpless, became 18 years of age; or
4. Being entitled to an allotment and allowance as the wife of an enlisted man, is divorced without alimony being decreed; or
5. Being entitled to an allotment and allowance as the husband of an enlisted woman, is divorced; or is discontinued as of the last day of the month in which such event occurs.
6. Being entitled to an allotment and allowance as the former wife divorced of an enlisted man to whom alimony had been decreed, remarries;

(e) If a wife is divorced with alimony, her title as a wife ceases as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c), but an award shall be made to her as a former wife divorced upon receipt of a certified copy of the decree of divorce showing the amount of alimony.

Erroneous Report Concerning Investigations as to Discharges.

An erroneous impression has been circulated throughout demobilization camps that enlisted men may secure discharge from the Army by obtaining from the Red Cross statements or affidavits showing that their families are in dire need. In consequence Red Cross home service sections throughout the country are being flooded with requests from the families of enlisted men to furnish such statements. However, it is a fixed rule of the Red Cross not to take such action in regard to discharges. The question of whether this rule should be modified has recently been presented to the War Department for its consideration. The War Department replied that no modification of this rule was desired and sent a telegram to the commanding officers of all camps and forts as follows:

"Enlisted men should be informed that those seeking discharge will not apply to Red Cross for statements or affidavits."

Alien Enemies as Beneficiaries of the War Risk Insurance Act.

The Secretary of War has recently issued the following statement:

"Because of recent changes in the international situation it is considered that the necessity for the restriction against the designation of alien enemies as beneficiaries of War-Risk Insurance no longer exists.

"Therefore, the restriction, which was announced in a letter of the Adjutant General of the Army (A. G. 00-161), dated July 19, 1918 (WRI-88), as follows:

"As a matter of national policy, therefore, the War Department will not permit soldiers to designate as their beneficiaries alien enemies", is withdrawn.

"However, if a soldier designates an alien enemy as his beneficiary he will be advised that should his policy mature during the continuance of the war it will be paid to the Alien Property Custodian, to be disposed of by him under the rules and regulations governing the disposition of alien enemy property."

Discontinuance of Practice of Granting Class B Allowances on Allotments Through Service Departments.

Under new regulations of the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance, after January 1, 1919, an enlisted man is the only one who can apply for Class B allowance. The Class B allottee will not after that date be able to successfully make such application. The regulations adopted by the bureau in this regard are as follows:

(a) From and after January 1, 1919, no claim for Class B family allowance will be entertained unless it is based on a statutory allotment made through the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance.

(b) Claims for Class B family allowance now pending, or completed claims which shall be filed before January 1, 1919, based on allotment through the service department, will be investigated as provided in regulation of November 4, 1918, effective November 11. If the allowance is to be granted, the necessary information concerning the allotment will be obtained from the service department under the methods heretofore in practice.

(c) If, after the date of this regulation, a communication is received concerning a Class B allowance, based on an allotment through the service department, the correspondent will be advised that an allowance to Class B relatives is granted only in case the enlisted man makes the proper allotment through the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance.

Securing of Citizenship Papers by Discharged Enlisted Men.

Public act No. 144 of the Sixty-fifth Congress (H. R. 3132), approved May 9, 1918, authorizes the naturalization of any alien serving in the military or naval service of the United States during the time this country is engaged in the present war, upon the filing of his petition for naturalization, without his having made a preliminary declaration of intention and without proof of the usually required five years' residence within the United States.

Under the above provision certain aliens serving in the Army and Navy have made application for naturalization.

By the earlier procedure under this law, upon application the enlisted man was given a certificate of naturalization, or in lieu thereof a card giving his name and naturalization number or a data slip containing certain information concerning his naturalization, or such data slips were placed in the man's service record by his commanding officer. In a number of instances in which large groups of men from given organizations were naturalized at one time the commanding officer was advised that certain men in his regiment (whose names were given him) had been naturalized and that that information should be placed on the service record of each.

It is the desire of the two departments wherever practicable to insure delivery of certificates of naturalization to the enlisted men just prior to or at the time of their discharge. A military officer has, therefore, been designated by the War Department to handle the situation in each camp in conjunction with the Department of Labor. Inquiry concerning this subject should be referred to the proper officials in the camp if the man is still in the service.

If a man is discharged without receiving his citizenship papers he should mail his card or data slip to the Commissioner of Naturalization, Department of Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the address to which he desires his papers sent. Upon receipt of such request the Commissioner of Naturalization will immediately issue his certificate.

If the man has mislaid or lost his card or slip he should address a communication to the Commissioner of Naturalization, Washington, D. C., giving his full

Annual Report of the Superintendent Of the United States Naval Observatory

The work of all divisions of the Naval Observatory engaged in the inspection and supply of compasses and compass equipment, navigational instruments, and instruments for aviation, increased to such proportions during the year that it necessitated the enlargement of all divisions of the department of material and the addition of some new divisions to take care of the increased work, says Rear Admiral T. B. Howard, United States Navy, retired, in his annual report to the Bureau of Navigation.

Total Solar Eclipse Observed.

The observatory sent a party to Baker, Oreg., under the direction of John C. Hammond, astronomer, to observe the total solar eclipse of June 8, 1918. Mr. Hammond had associated with him George H. Peters, C. C. Wylie, and William A. Conrad, of the observatory staff, together with Dr. S. A. Mitchell, who had charge of the spectroscopic work, and Prof. L. G. Hoxton, of the University of Virginia. The results of their observations will shortly be published as a separate volume.

The routine observational work of the various instruments has been continued throughout the year.

Mr. H. R. Morgan, assistant astronomer, accompanied a party from the Interstate Commerce Commission which visited various cities throughout the country for hearings on the change in time necessitated under the daylight-savings law.

A number of contributions were made by members of the Naval Observatory staff to the Astronomical Journal. The asteroid observations made with the photographic equatorial have been forwarded for publication in that journal.

Aeronautical Instruments.

The progress of the year in aeronautical instruments has been rather in the direction of increased numbers of instruments received and shipped rather than in the direction of new types developed. Certain new instruments have been designed and manufactured or purchased, and considerable progress has been made in standardization.

The observatory has had published for the bureau and issued to the service an allowance list of all items of allowance for air stations under cognizance of the bureau.

Great progress has been made with aviation photography. Two forms of camera have been adopted as standard; for naval use, the Eastman hand-held camera, type A, modified; and for flying over land, the Army type "L" semi-automatic camera. The former will be delivered in August, the latter are ready for issue. Most complete outfits of ground cameras, developing and printing equipment, enlarging outfits, and projection outfits have been assembled and are being issued to stations as soon as suitable personnel and laboratories are provided.

Supply Department.

A brief statement of the year's work of the supply department, as of June 20, follows:

Value of stock on hand July 1, 1917	$116,210.64
Value of instruments, etc., purchased	872,842.40
Value of instruments received from yards and ships	402,511.38
Value of instruments issued and expended	1,340,524.45
Value of stock on hand June 20, 1918	51,039.97
Number of shipments received (875 more than in 1917)	2,515
Number of instruments and parts received (42,149 more than in 1917)	80,117
Number of shipments made (2,030 more than in 1917)	4,255
Number of instruments and parts shipped (49,549 more than in 1917)	65,823

Telescopes for the Navy.

About December 1, 1917, the drive for telescopes for use of the Navy commenced under the direction of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Franklin D. Roosevelt. To date 51,160 have been received and inspected. Of these 30,784 have been accepted and have either already been issued or are ready for issue.
