

SUPERVISION IS DISCONTINUED OF EGYPTIAN COTTON IMPORTS

War Trade Board Ruling Dispenses with Textile Alliance
Indorsement on Bills.

The War Trade Board announces, in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 535), that the supervision heretofore exercised by the War Trade Board through the Textile Alliance (Inc.) over the importation of Egyptian cotton, has been discontinued, and import licenses may now be issued without requiring the indorsement of the bill of lading to the Textile Alliance (Inc.).

Collectors of customs have been instructed to permit entry under outstanding licenses without indorsement to the Textile Alliance (Inc.), irrespective of the clause on such license; and it will, therefore, not be necessary for importers holding licenses containing such clause to return them to the War Trade Board or any of its branches for cancellation of this clause.

The announcements of the War Trade Board (W. T. B. R. 526 and W. T. B. R. 529) issued January 20, 1919, indicating that importations of Egyptian cotton are still supervised by the Textile Alliance (Inc.) are hereby amended accordingly.

All restrictions on the importation of Egyptian cotton are now removed, and therefore on and after January 25, 1919, it will no longer be necessary to cable the number of any license for the importation of Egyptian cotton, as consuls will have received by that date authority to consulate invoices without presentation of the license number.

Therefore, W. T. B. R. 533, issued January 20, 1919, listing the commodities on which consuls will require the import license number before consulating invoices, will be considered modified on January 25, 1919, by the exclusion of Egyptian cotton from such list.

Chartering of Wooden Ships to Be Continued

The Shipping Board announces that it will continue to charter its wooden steamers on time charter for service within approved limits and at such rates of hire as may from time to time be fixed. The vessels are of about 3,500 tons dead-weight capacity.

Steamers so chartered are to be free from trade control, but subject to the usual regulation of freight rates. Information with regard to the terms at which they may be chartered can be procured from the Emergency Fleet Corporation, Division of Operations, Washington.

Return Passage to America For Travelers Now in Europe Is Practically Impossible, Ambassador Davis Cables

Ambassador Davis, at London, has cabled to the State Department of the difficulties of obtaining return passage to the United States at this time. He sent this message to Acting Secretary Polk:

"In case of the issue of passports to officials or others who desire to visit Europe for short periods deem it necessary to state for your information that it is practically impossible to obtain return passage to the United States at the present time. You may wish to advise applicants accordingly."

3 Divisions, 27th, 30th, and 37th, Ordered Home

The War Department publishes the following cabled communication:

The 27th, 30th, and 37th divisions, including all organizations of these divisions, have been released and instructed to prepare for embarkation. The 102d Trench Mortar Battery of the 27th Division has sailed. Of the 91st Division the 316th Trench Mortar Battery has been released and the 316th Field Artillery has sailed; all other organizations of this division are on priority and will be released as shipping becomes available.

Contractors May Give Public Facts Regarding War Department Orders

The War Department publishes the following circular issued by the Director of Purchase, Storage and Traffic:

The revocation of the clause or clauses in War Department contracts prohibiting the publication of information in respect to such contracts having been approved by the Secretary of War, the provisions of such prohibitory clauses are hereby revoked. Contractors are therefore authorized and permitted to furnish the public information concerning War Department contracts and orders received by them.

MEMORANDUM MADE PUBLIC BY DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE RELATING TO BLAIR CASES

NOW BEFORE THE SUPREME COURT

Questions Involving Testimony in Michigan Senatorial Inquiry Before New York Grand Jury Up for Review — Government View.

The Department of Justice has issued the following memorandum as to the cases of Frank W. Blair et al. v. United States, pending in the Supreme Court of the United States:

These cases arose out of an investigation by a grand jury, empaneled in the Southern District of New York, of the correctness of a statement filed in said district, in compliance with the requirements of the Federal Corrupt Practice Act of June 25, 1910, as amended by Truman H. Newberry, candidate for nomination as senator from the State of Michigan.

Refused to Testify.

Three persons connected with the Newberry senatorial committee were summoned to appear before the grand jury to testify as to the receipts and expenditures of the committee, and as to Mr. Newberry's connection with them. They refused to testify on the grounds that a grand jury empaneled in the Southern District of New York had no jurisdiction to make an investigation of such matters, and that the Federal Corrupt Practice Act was unconstitutional.

Denied by Government.

The Government, while denying both of these contentions, claimed in addition that witnesses could not refuse to testify before a grand jury on such grounds, as no question of personal privileges was involved. The lower courts held in favor of the Government, and decided that the witnesses must testify; whereupon they brought the cases to the Supreme Court for review.

1,280 Italian Reservists Returning to United States

Advices to the State Department from Genoa, Italy, state that 1,280 Italian reservists, previously residents of the United States, will sail for the United States on the steamer Dante Alighieri. Five hundred and fifty of the men will embark in Naples, and the balance at Genoa. Part of the men are still in uniform.

GENERAL SUPPLY COMMITTEE ORDER ON MATERIAL TRANSFER

The General Supply Committee issues the following:

JANUARY 15, 1919.

CIRCULAR No. 97.

To Purchasing Officials of the United States Government and all others concerned:

The General Supply Committee, in accordance with Executive order of December 3, 1918, and Treasury Department Circular No. 129, dated December 10, 1918, relating to the transfer of material, supplies, and equipment, is receiving requests for authority to purchase envelopes with special printed legends, rubber stamps bearing special legends, and services.

The articles referred to above will not be available for transfer from other departments and establishments of the Government in the District of Columbia; therefore the Government service is hereby authorized to procure the same in compliance with provisions of existing law, it being hereby certified that there is not in the possession of the Government and available for transfer through the General Supply Committee the material in question.

Inasmuch as the Executive order of December 3, 1918, makes no mention of services, purchasing agents of the Government will not be required to obtain authorization from the General Supply Committee covering same.

G. V. NORWOOD,

Supintendent of Supplies.

Approved:

By direction of the Secretary.

J. H. MOYLE,

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

LEMBERG REPORTED CAPTURED FROM POLES BY UKRAINIANS

The Neue Freie Presse reports from Lemberg, according to State Department advices, state that the city, since the beginning of the New Year, has been bombarded day and night by the Ukrainians. The fighting between the Poles and Ukrainians has been very bloody, 2,000 Ukrainians being lost, according to Polish reports. The Ukrainians are reported to have captured the city after severe street fighting.

The aviators dropped bombs on the city, damaging the gas and electric plants, as a result of which the city was without light for many days.

NORTHERN PACIFIC IS FLOATED.

The Navy Department announces that the United States troop transport Northorn Pacific, which went aground at Fire Island in a dense fog early on the morning of January 1, was floated at 8.47 p. m. Saturday, January 18.

The Northorn Pacific proceeded to Stapleton in tow of salvage tugs. Only minor leaks in the double bottom were discovered, but no attempt was made to use the engines until a thorough examination could be made of the turbines and rudders.

RESUMPTION OF U. S. TRADE WITH SERBIA AND ROUMANIA

Conditions of readjustment in Serbia and Roumania are such that negotiations looking toward the resumption of trade with those countries are progressing satisfactorily. An announcement was issued by the War Trade Board in which it is stated that the board hopes it will be possible, within a few days, to give information as to the conditions under which trade with Serbia and Roumania will be permitted.

It is proposed to establish in both of these countries interallied committees whose functions will be to investigate conditions and to make recommendations with regard to proposed shipments.

WORK OF ARMY MEN WHO SERVED NATION AT HOME PRAISED BY SECRETARY OF WAR AT THE PRESENTATION OF DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDALS TO GROUP OF OFFICERS

Following are the remarks of Secretary of War Baker at the presentation of distinguished service medals, Saturday, January 18, 1919:

We have assembled to-day to participate in the ceremony of awarding distinguished service medals to a group of men who, I think, with very few exceptions, have performed their service to the Nation in this cause largely in the United States.

The distinguished service medal was instituted for the purpose of conferring public recognition and permanent recognition upon men who in this great emergency have served the country with conspicuous ability and success in places of great responsibility. The distinguished service cross, of course, is the award given to those whose conspicuous gallantry in action has attracted the attention of the commander in chief of the military forces. But the distinguished medal in our Army stands for the other side to some extent, of the work, all of it military in character, all of it indispensable to the success of the Army in the field and of the national cause.

Soldiers Who Served at Home.

When we think of war we usually think of the battlefield, and in this war we usually think of the trench, and its dangers are known to us all. The other side, however, does not come in for as ready appreciation and as full comprehension, and therefore I am particularly glad on this occasion to have an opportunity of saying a word about the other side. There is no rivalry of merit between the soldiers who were obliged to perform their services here and the soldiers who performed theirs abroad. They were all soldiers, and the first maxim of the soldier's calling is that he does his duty to the best of his ability where those charged with the responsibility of final direction designate his duty to lie. That errors are made in those designations goes without saying, and it may very easily be that some men went abroad who might better have served at home, and that served at home who could have served abroad with greater skill, but in the exercise of as impartial and uncolored judgment as was possible in the War Department, the best interest of the Nation was always the guiding principle, and as the result of our judgment a very large number of officers of the Regular Army of large experience were designated to do duties in this country. I, perhaps more than anybody else, am qualified to speak with authority of the splendid spirit with which those orders were accepted, the superb energy, skill and devotion with which those duties were performed.

Hopes Public Will Recognize Value.

The history of this war when it comes to be written will at first be largely concerned with battles, but later, in order to round out the perspective, it will have to give full weight to the important and indispensable work which was done here, and I trust that one of the results of the awarding of the distinguished-service medal to men in this country will be that it will attract public attention to the value of the services rendered here; that there will result from the fact that this medal is being awarded to men for services performed on both sides of the Atlantic, a general acceptance of the true feeling that service is service, wherever rendered, and that the spirit of that service, its quality of devotion, and its success are the things that make up the contribution of the giver rather than the particular place or the particular form which the individual activities were permitted to take.

Faithfully Served the Nation.

It perhaps might be thought appropriate for me to congratulate you gentlemen upon having these medals awarded to you, but I can not quite find it in my heart to do this. I congratulate your Government upon having been able to find among soldiers and civilians the group of men whom I now face, and I trust that each of you, as you look back on the perspective of your years, will find what I know to be the truth, that throughout this emergency, with no thought of self, with all thought of the cause, with no wavering of energy, and with but a single idea in mind, that of faithfully serving the Nation of which you were soldiers, whether military man or civilians, you did your best.

These medals are awarded upon the recommendation of a committee, approved by the Chief of Staff, for recommendation to the President. I am authorized by the President to confer these medals in his name, and I take great pleasure, in the absence of the President and in his behalf, to confer upon each of you a distinguished-service medal, awarded for service of conspicuous merit in a position of great responsibility.

Feels Indebted to Officers.

It would be possible for me in the case of each of those who have received these medals to make further comment of a direct, explicit, and personal character. I scarcely see how I resist the temptation to do so, for there is not a man upon whom this medal has been conferred to-day to whom I do not feel deeply and personally indebted, and to whom I do not feel that our country is indebted, and my temptation is to enlarge upon the importance of the work that each of you has done. To do that, however, would unduly prolong this ceremony. I want to express only two ideas, and with that I shall conclude.

In the first place I am delighted that in this group there are both professional military men and civilians. In this war we have learned that the integrity of the entire Nation is essential if success is to be attained, and one of the great delights to me has been that when we were called to mobilize the country civilians found it easy to get along with and to understand and cooperate with military men, and the professional military men had the breadth of view and the hospitality of mind to accept civilian associates and to permit them to assist in these vital enterprises. It seems to me a very fortunate thing, therefore, that in conferring these medals we have both professional soldiers and civilians, and this ceremony perhaps can signify to all of us and to the country at large the way in which this war has been won by the soldiers doing their part and the civilians doing their part, and each essential to the part performed by the other.

Great Responsibility Theirs.

The other idea I want to express is that among all the great group of soldiers—3,700,000 of them—and all the great group of civilians—many millions of them—who have been working and cooperating to achieve this great result, this very small group so far, and the few which have preceded it, have been selected for this distinction. The terms of the law require that the medal shall be limited in its award to those who have held positions of great responsibility. Therefore, the number who can wear this medal will be relatively small, but I hope the existence of the medal, and the fact that it is worn will be a constant reminder to our people everywhere not only that a few have been found to wear it, but that it was possible to recognize you as exemplars of types of men who in the highest degree exhibited the spirit which was common throughout the entire country, for in this war we have had a unanimity of national impulse and a universality of action on the part of both military and civilian people of our country that is perhaps one of the greatest gains, one of the great permanent moral assets that our Nation will get out of this war as a compensation for its very heavy costs. I congratulate you all; I congratulate the Army and the country of which you are, respectively, soldiers and citizens; I trust that these medals will always be worn by you when the occasion is suitable, and that when worn they may mark you as having been elected to that body of men who have served well in a high cause, not only for your own country and generation, but for civilization itself and mankind.

DISCHARGED SOLDIER MAY KEEP HIS RAZOR AND TOOTHBRUSH

The War Department publishes the following circular:

"The Secretary of War directs that the articles enumerated in Par. 1217, A. R., as amended by C. A. R. No. 55, W. D., 1917, and in Par. 11, Bulletin 5, W. D., February 8, 1918, namely, 1 razor, safety, Gillette; 1 comb; 1 brush, shaving; 1 brush, tooth; 1 mirror, steel; 2 towels, when issued to an enlisted man, will be considered as his personal property, and he is hereby authorized, upon being discharged from the service, to retain them permanently in his possession. These articles will not be taken up by any Government agency except when abandoned by the soldier and unclaimed, in which case the manner of their disposal is covered by the provisions of Circular No. 176, W. D., December 26, 1918."

EMPLOYERS' COMMISSION WILL STUDY BRITISH LABOR SITUATION

An employers' commission has been designated by William B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor, to study labor conditions and governmental labor policies in Great Britain and report thereon to the department.

The commission consists of Dorr E. Felt, of Chicago, connected with the machinery industry; R. J. Caldwell, of New York, the textile industry; W. H. Ingersoll, of New York, of the watch industry; Eldon B. Keith, of Boston, the shoe manufacturing industry; R. R. Otis, of Atlanta, the building industry; and E. T. Gundlach, of Chicago, the publishing industry. Mr. Gundlach was connected with the war service of the Department of Labor during the war, but returned last month to his private business.

The commission will be accompanied by an economic advisor, Dr. Royal Meeker, Commissioner of Labor Statistics, and also by James R. Hawkins, of New York, as fiscal agent; George E. McIlwain, of Boston, as secretary; and Benjamin M. Squires, of New York, Edgar N. Phillips and John A. Witt, of Chicago, as assistants.

The commission will sail from New York next Saturday. Its investigations will occupy several months.

NAVAL CASUALTIES

The Navy Department reports the following casualties:

Lieut. Commander Harold Stacey Burdick, United States Navy, died at naval station, New Orleans, La., January 16, of pneumonia. Wife, Mrs. Golda M. Burdick, West Street, Annapolis, Md.

Ensign Allen Damon Honeywell, United States Naval Reserve Force, died as the result of a fall from a seaplane at naval air station, Pensacola, Fla., January 18. Mother, Mrs. Vernealia Honeywell, Genesee, N. Y.

Clarence Miller, pharmacist's mate, third class, United States Navy, was wounded in France, October 31, while on duty with the Sixth Marines. Next of kin, Martin V. Miller, Lebanon, Va.

Henry Leo O'Shea, electrician, first class, was drowned January 4, while attached to the U. S. S. Western Star. Mother, Mrs. Mary O'Shea, 248 Ivy Street, Portland, Oreg.

ORDERS TO FEDERAL AUDITORS ON CLOSING RAILROAD ACCOUNTS

The United States Railroad Administration, Division of Public Service and Accounting, issues the following:

P. S. & A. CIRCULAR No. 63.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 21, 1919.

Effective with the closing of the accounts for the month of December, 1918, Federal auditors shall annually close to Profit and Loss Account, balances in all accounts includible in Income and Profit and Loss Accounts, defined by the classifications of the Interstate Commerce Commission and P. S. & A. Circulars.

The balance in the Profit and Loss Account shall then be closed to the account styled "Administration Ledger Control Account," previously referred to in P. S. & A. Circular No. 55. The purpose being to open on the administration ledger at Washington, D. C., profit and loss and other accounts which will in due course be cleared through the control account.

The balance of December 31, 1918, in the account "W. G. McAdoo, Director General of Railroads," shall also be closed to the account "Administration Ledger Control Account."

Subsequent to the account for December 31, 1918, the amounts of cash transferred to the administration treasurer or received by Federal managers or Federal treasurers from the administration treasurer, and charges arising from stating express revenue or other amounts heretofore includable in the account "W. G. McAdoo, Director General of Railroads," shall be accounted for monthly in the account "Administration ledger control account."

A statement shall be submitted with the December, 1918, balance sheet (see P. S. & A. Circular No. 59) disclosing the amount and sources of the debits and credits by months to the account "Administration ledger control account." In order that the amounts included in the "Administration ledger control account," which have been transferred from the account "W. G. McAdoo, Director General of Railroads," may be identified with entries on the administration books, such amounts shall be detailed so as to show in the said statement the month, character, and amount of each transaction.

C. A. PROUTY,
Director.

Made Property Custodian Of Fuel Administration

The United States Fuel Administrator issues the following:

Lawrence E. Mitchell is hereby designated and appointed property custodian of the United States Fuel Administration with authority to make necessary and proper arrangements for the custody, safe-keeping, and disposition of all property and equipment other than records and documents, of the United States Fuel Administration, and to supervise and approve sales of such property and equipment made in pursuance of the letter of instructions of the United States Fuel Administrator to all Federal fuel administrators, district representatives, and other field representatives of the United

WANT 500,000 BOYS TO WORK ON THE FARMS NEXT SEASON

The Department of Labor authorizes the following:

Five hundred thousand American boys between the ages of 16 and 21 to fight world famine by working on the farms of the country during the next harvest season is the aim of the Department of Labor, through the United States Boys' Working Reserve, a branch of the United States Employment Service.

Secretary of Labor Wilson set the week beginning yesterday (Jan. 20) as national enrollment week for the Boys' Working Reserve, and extensive preparations have been made in every State in the Union for securing the assistance of boys high-school age in increasing the food production of the United States in 1919.

Importance of Undertaking.

At the present time there is no more important undertaking before the American people than that of keeping up the food supply of the world. In order to produce sufficient for ourselves and for the starving populations of Europe and Asia, an adequate supply of farm labor must be provided.

The United States Boys' Working Reserve, by enrolling and training over 200,000 boys in 1918, was able to supply farm labor, which it has been estimated increased the food production of the United States by enough to feed 1,000,000 people for one year.

Proved Value of Boys.

This accomplishment proved the value of properly trained and supervised boys as farm helpers and the increasing demand for the services of reserve boys in agriculture has resulted in the continuation of the Boys' Working Reserve as a permanent governmental activity.

High schools in the United States are cooperating with the Department of Labor in enrolling and training boys and the reserve farm craft lessons are being used during the school term to fit boys for their summer work on the farms. There is an enrolling officer of the Boys' Working Reserve in every high school and public library in the United States and every physically fit boy is eligible for membership.

Export Trade Papers Filed with Commission

The following export organizations have filed with the Federal Trade Commission, Export Division, the papers described below under the provisions of the Webb export trade law:

United States Fuel Administrator,

WORK OF CONGRESS BRIEFLY TOLD

SENATE.

The Senate has occupied itself for three days with the consideration of the $100,000,000 European relief bill without reaching a vote. Yesterday afternoon late an amendment by Senator Penrose was accepted, under which it is provided that wheat to be given free to peoples of Europe should, so far as it is possible, be purchased in the United States. Consideration of the bill again brought forth criticism of the Food Administration. Majority Leader Martin and Senator Lewis spoke in support of the measure and Senators Sherman, of Illinois, and Penrose, of Pennsylvania, attacked it.

A number of bills on the calendar were passed. Among them was one reported from the Military Committee, which was amended so as to permit discharged soldiers to retain their uniforms, to authorize the payment to all officers and men honorably discharged a bonus of 30 days' pay and a traveling allowance of 5 cents a mile to officers and men from the place of discharge to their homes. The War Department's bill authorizing a resumption of enlistments in the Regular Army also was passed.

The pending resolution for a constitutional amendment for popular elections of President and vice president was indefinitely postponed without discussion or a record vote, the judiciary committee having adversely reported it.

Senator Sherman, of Illinois, introduced a resolution directing the joint committee on printing to investigate the subject of various periodical publications by bureaus or departments of the Government giving departmental or other news, with a view to reporting what legislation in connection with the matter should be enacted.

Senator Hitchcock, of Nebraska, voiced a protest against any plan to import Alsatian or German potash into the United States, as it would interfere with the domestic industry developed during the war period. Other western Senators also laid before the Senate petitions against the proposed importation.

Before the Interstate Committee General Counsel A. P. Thom, of the Association of Railway Executives, continued his arguments against legislation looking to an extension for a five-year period of Government operation of railroads.

D. W. Talliaferro, a meat packer of Detroit, Mich., before the Senate Agricultural Committee defended the big five packers from charges that have been made in the course of the committee's investigation.

HOUSE.

Yesterday a number of bills on the calendar were disposed of. The Senate bill modifying the homestead laws so as to shorten the period of residence required of settlers in mountainous regions in the West was passed; also Senate bill making the Grand Canyon a national park. In the area contemplated under this bill are 996 square miles of public land, now parts of two national forests and a game refuge.

FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD'S WEEKLY BANK STATEMENT

Continued return movement to the reserve banks of outstanding Federal reserve notes, together with liquidation of earning assets, is indicated in the Federal Reserve Board's weekly bank statement, issued as at close of business on January 17, 1919. A further gain of 8.5 millions is indicated in the bank's aggregate gold reserves.

Investments.—Total holdings of war paper decreased 138.1 millions, following the redemption on January 16 of the balance of the September 17 issue of Treasury certificates, while other discounts on hand show a decline of 18.8 millions. Acceptances on hand purchased in open market fell off 4.3 millions, Chicago and San Francisco reporting considerable liquidation of this class of paper.

Deposits and Reserves.

Deposits.—Government deposits increased 12.1 millions, while member bank deposits show a gain of 54.5 millions. Net deposits, because of the larger float reported this week, show an increase of but 16.5 millions.

Reserves.—Exchange of reserve notes for gold accounts for the increase of 8.5 millions in the gold reserves noted. Shifting of reserves away from Boston, New York, and Richmond to Chicago and other western banks is noted. The banks' reserve percentage, because of the gain in reserves and the considerable reduction in Federal reserve-note circulation, shows a rise from 51.8 to 52.8 per cent.

Note circulation.—Federal reserve agents report a decrease of 74.2 millions in the total of Federal reserve notes outstanding. The banks report a total Federal reserve note circulation of 2,513 millions, a reduction of 77.7 millions for the week. All the banks show smaller circulation figures than the week before.

Capital.—Withdrawal from the system of the Marine National of Buffalo and of the First National of Syracuse account for the substantial decrease in paid-in capital shown for New York and the system as a whole.

Condition of Member Banks.

Some decreases in the holdings of United States war bonds, also in loans secured by United States war obligations, are indicated in the statement showing of the Indian service was reported, carrying a total of $11,500,000. At the request of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, Mr. Garrett, of Tennessee, introduced a resolution providing for the appointment by the President of a commission to investigate industrial and economic conditions in Porto Rico.

That the War Department expects high prices to continue was indicated yesterday when Col. Adams, of the Quartermaster's Department, was before the Appropriations Committee explaining estimates. He said the estimates for subsistence of the Army called for an increase of about 10 per cent, the department figuring that food prices would advance that much during the coming fiscal year.

CREATION OF THE U. S. HOUSING CORPORATION IS APPROVED IN ORDER ISSUED BY PRESIDENT

EXECUTIVE ORDER.

By virtue of the authority vested in me by the act of Congress entitled "An act making appropriations to supply additional urgent deficiencies in appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918, on account of war expenses and for other purposes, approved June 4, 1918, deeming it necessary and advantageous to create a corporation or corporations for the purpose of carrying out the act entitled "An act to authorize the President to provide housing for war needs," approved May 16, 1918, I hereby approve of the act of the Secretary of Labor in causing the creation of a corporation under the laws of the State of New York, known as United States Housing Corporation, by certificate of incorporation filed in the office of the Secretary of the State of New York, on the 8th day of July, 1918, as having been authorized and directed by me for the purposes described, and I hereby designate said corporation as an agency through which the Secretary of Labor may exercise the power and authority conferred upon him by Executive order dated June 18, 1918.

condition on January 10 of 764 member banks in leading cities.

Treasury certificate holdings show an increase for the week of 32.1 millions, of which 20.1 millions represents the increase at the banks in the 12 Federal reserve cities. Total United States bonds other than circulation bonds on hand declined 23.7 millions, smaller figures being shown for all groups of banks. Aggregate loans secured by United States war obligations fell off 52.1 millions, largely at the banks in the Federal reserve cities.

United States war obligations and loans secured by such obligations aggregate 3,261.5 millions, and constitute 23.9 per cent of the total loans and investments of all reporting banks, as against 24.2 per cent the week before.

Government deposits show an increase of about 67 millions for all reporting banks and of 35.3 millions for the banks in the 12 Federal reserve cities.

For the banks in the 12 Federal reserve bank cities the ratio of net deposits to investments shows a rise from 84.3 to 84.6 per cent.

"Excess reserves" of the banks in the 12 Federal reserve cities work out at 80.8 millions, as against 75.4 millions the week before.

Restrictions Replaced On Importations of Rice

The War Trade Board announces that it has rescinded its action of January 9, 1919, which withdrew prior restrictions upon the importation of rice and that such restrictions have been reinstated to remain effective until further notice. This action was taken at the request of the United States Food Administration.

UNITED STATES ARMY OFFICERS AWARDED DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDALS UPON RECOMMENDATION OF GENERAL PERSHING

Upon the recommendation of Gen. Pershing distinguished service medals have been awarded to the following officers for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services in positions of great responsibility:

Brig. Gen. Stuart Heintzelman, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. He organized the headquarters of the fourth Army Corps, and later, as chief of staff of this corps, directed, with great success, the staff of this organization prior to and during the St. Mihiel offensive. As chief of staff of the second Army he had a prominent part in organizing it as a fighting unit. His tact, energy, and military ability are important elements in the success of this command.

Brig. Gen. Malin Craig, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. He served in turn as chief of staff of a division, a corps, and an army, in each of which capacities he exhibited great ability. His personal influence, aggressiveness, and untiring efforts were repeatedly displayed in the operations of the First Corps in the vicinity of Chateau Thierry, on the Oureq, and the Vesle, and during the St. Mihiel and Argonne-Meuse offensives.

Brig. Gen. Robert C. Davis, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. As adjutant general of the American Expeditionary Forces he has performed his exacting duties with high professional skill and administrative ability. The exceptional efficiency of The Adjutant General's Department under his direction was a material factor in the success of the staff work at general headquarters.

Maj. Gen. Andrew Brewster, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. He organized and administered, with marked ability, in Inspector General's Department of the American Expeditionary Forces, and his soldierly characteristics and unceasing labors influenced greatly the attainment of efficiency in the American Army in France.

Brig. Gen. Walter A. Bathel, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. As judge advocate of the American Expeditionary Forces he organized this important department and administered its affairs with conspicuous efficiency from the date of the arrival in France of the first American combatant troops. His marked legal ability and sound judgment were important factors in the splendid work of his department; and he at all times handled with success the various military and international problems that arose as a result of the operations of our armies.

Maj. Gen. Harry L. Rogers, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. He has organized, perfected, and administered with great efficiency the Quartermaster Department in France. He was able to meet each emergency in times fraught with untold difficulties; and by his energy and untiring zeal he has insured to our troops prompt and constant supply of quartermaster stores, without which the ultimate success of our Army could not have been obtained.

Maj. Gen. Merritt W. Ireland, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. As chief surgeon of the American Expeditionary Forces he supervised and perfected the organization of the Medical Department in France, and to his excellent judgment, untiring efforts, and high professional attainments are largely due the splendid efficiency with which the sick and wounded of the American Army have been cared for.

Col. Walter D. McCaw, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. His counsel and advice in the earlier stages of the operations of the American Expeditionary Forces were of particular benefit to the effective work of the Medical Department. As chief surgeon of the American Expeditionary Forces, in the later operations in the field, he maintained the splendid efficiency of that department at a critical time, and solved each new problem presented with wisdom and marked ability.

Col. Alfred E. Bradley, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services as chief surgeon, American Expeditionary Forces. He gave his utmost energy and undivided devotion to the duty of planning and organizing the work of the Medical Department in France during a period fraught with untold difficulties. To his foresight was largely due the successful operations of that department when it was called upon to meet the demands that were subsequently made upon it.

Maj. Gen. William C. Langfit, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. As director of light railways, and roads, and later as chief of utilities, he displayed great ability and marked breadth of vision. As chief engineer of the American Expeditionary Forces, his brilliant professional attainments, untiring energy, and devotion to duty, placed his department in a state of efficiency and enabled it to perform its important functions in the most satisfactory manner.

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. He displayed much ability and devotion to duty as director of construction and forestry, and, later, as chief of the Air Service of the American Expeditionary Forces, he perfected and ably administered the organization of this important department.

Maj. Gen. Clarence C. Williams, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. An officer of high professional attainments, who rendered particularly valuable services in the organization of the Ordnance Department of the American Expeditionary Forces and exhibited unusual ability in arranging for the procurement of ordnance material and ammunition for the American Army in Europe.

Brig. Gen. Edgar Russell, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. As chief signal officer, American Expeditionary Forces, he had shown great ability in the organization and administration of his department, and the results attained are largely due to his zeal and energy. The Signal Corps in France stands out as one of the masterful accomplishments of the American Expeditionary Forces and to Gen. Russell is due the credit for its foundation and organization.

Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. He rendered most conspicuous services in the organization of the General Purchasing Board as general purchasing agent of the American Expeditionary Forces, and as the representative of the United States Army on the military board of allied supply. His rare abilities, sound business judgment, and aggressive energy were invaluable in securing needed supplies for the American Armies in Europe.

Brig. Gen. William W. Atterbury, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. As director general of transportation in the face of almost insurmountable obstacles he organized and brought to a high state of efficiency the transportation service of American Expeditionary Forces. The successful operation of this most important service, upon which the movements and supply of the combat troops were dependent, was largely due to his energy, foresight, and ability.

Maj. Gen. E. F. McGlachlin, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. As commander of the artillery of the 1st Army in its organization and subsequent operations he solved the difficult problems involved with rare military judgment. In St. Mihiel and Argonne-Meuse offenses his qualities as a leader were demonstrated by the effective employment of artillery that was planned and conducted under his direction. He later commanded with great ability and success the 1st Infantry Division of the American Expeditionary Forces.

Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, United States Marine Corps: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service. He commanded the 2d Division in the successful operations of Thiacourt, Masif Blanc Mont, St. Mihiel, and on the west bank of the Meuse. In the Argonne-Meuse offensive his division was directed with such sound military judgment and ability that it broke and held, by the vigor and rapidity of execution of its attack, enemy lines which had hitherto been considered impregnable.

Maj. Gen. Anson E. Ely, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. He commanded with skill and marked distinction a regiment in the trench fighting north of Toul, in the operations west of Montdidier, and in the action at Catigny. As a brigade commander at Soissons and as a division commander in the Argonne-Meuse offensive he demonstrated rare capabilities as a commander.

Maj. Gen. Edmund Wittenmyer, United States Army: For exceptionally merito-

No. 130. Postal Telegraph-Cable Co., plaintiff in error, v. Tonopah & Tidewater Railroad Co. In error to the Supreme Court, Appellate Division, First Department of the State of New York. Judgment affirmed with costs. Opinion by Mr. Justice Holmes.

No. 217. The Western Union Telegraph Co., appellant, v. The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co. Appeal from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. Decree affirmed with costs; and cause remanded to the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York. Opinion by Mr. Justice Holmes.

No. 404. Postal Telegraph-Cable Co., appellant, v. Chicago Great Western Railroad. Appeal from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit. Decree affirmed with costs; and cause remanded to the District Court of the United States for the Northern District of Illinois. Opinion by Mr. Justice Holmes.

No. 114. Philip La Tourette, plaintiff in error, v. Fitz Hugh McMaster, as insurance commissioner of the State of South Carolina. In error to the Supreme Court of the State of South Carolina. Judgment affirmed with costs. Opinion by Mr. Justice McKenna.

No. 64. J. Homer Fritch, (Inc.), E. T. Kruse, Mary Bell Parker Burns, et al., plaintiffs in error, v. The United States. In error to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. Judgment reversed; and cause remanded to the said Circuit Court of Appeals with directions to dismiss for want of jurisdiction. Opinion by Mr. Chief Justice White.

The Chief Justice also announced the following orders of the court:

No. 120. Elvie Wheeler, by his next friend, P. T. Wheeler, plaintiff in error, v. Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific Railway Co. In error to the Court of Appeals of the State of Kentucky. Per curiam: Dismissed for want of jurisdiction upon the authority of section 287 of the Judicial Code, as amended by the act of September 6, 1916, chapter 448, 39 Statutes at Large, 726.

No. 139. Adams Express Co., plaintiff in error, v. W. N. Reynolds. In error to the Supreme Court of the State of North Carolina. Per curiam: Dismissed for want of jurisdiction upon the authority of section 287 of the Judicial Code, as amended by the act of September 6, 1916, chapter 448, 39 Statutes at Large, 726.

rious and distinguished services. As commander of a brigade of the 28th Division in the fighting on the Vesle of August, 1918, he inspired confidence by his constant activities and his aggressive pressing of the enemy at every opportunity which resulted in driving the hostile forces on the Vesle northward towards the Aisne.

Maj. Gen. William H. Johnson, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. During the Argonne-Meuse offensive he commanded with skill and ability the 91st Division in the difficult advance that resulted in the taking of Epinonville and Ivoiry. Later, in participation with the French, he led his division with marked distinction in the attack on, and capture of, the important city of Audenarde in the closing operations of the war in Belgium.

rious and distinguished services. He served with marked distinction as brigade commander in the Argonne-Meuse offensive; and, as division commander, in the final operations in the Toul sector; and in both capacities, by his untiring efforts and breadth of vision, proved himself to be an able leader.

Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. As commander of the Twenty-seventh Division in its successful operations with the British in France in the autumn of 1918, he displayed qualities of skill and aggressiveness, which mark him as a leader of ability. At St. Quentin and Cambrai the name of his division is linked with the British in adding new laurels to the allied forces in France.

Maj. Gen. Charles G. Morton, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. He commanded the Twenty-ninth Division from the date of its organization until the end of hostilities; and led this division with skill and ability in the successful operations east and northeast of Verdun which forced the enemy to maintain this front with strong forces, thus preventing an increase of hostile strength between the Argonne and the Meuse.

Maj. Gen. E. M. Lewis, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. He commanded with distinction the Thirtieth American Division during its successful operations in Belgium with the Second British Army; and later, with the Fourth British Army in the offensive which resulted in the breaking of the enemy's Hindenburg line. During all these operations, he exhibited great ability, determined energy and marked devotion to duty.

Maj. Gen. William Lassiter, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service. As commander of the Fifty-first Field Artillery Brigade, as Chief of Artillery of the First and Fourth Army Corps in turn, and as Chief of Artillery, Second Army, he showed himself to be a leader of conspicuous ability. His energy and sound judgment influenced greatly the successful operations of his commands on the Vesle, at the St. Mihiel salient and in the Toul sector. Then later with skill and marked success the Thirty-second Infantry Division.

Maj. Gen. James H. MacRae, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. He commanded with great credit the Seventy-eighth Division in the Argonne-Meuse offensive and had an important part in that operation which forced the enemy to abandon Grand-Pre. In this and other campaigns his personal influence on the result obtained showed a rich quality of military leadership.

Maj. Gen. George B. Duncan, United States Army: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. Arriving in France with the first contingent of American troops he commanded in turn a regiment, brigade, and division with conspicuous success. In command of the 77th Division in the Baccarat sector, his sound military judgment, energy, and resolution were important factors in the successes gained. Later, in command of the 82d Division in the Argonne-Meuse offensive, he proved himself a brilliant leader with great force and energy.

Maj. Gen. William Weigel, United States Army: For exceptionally meri-

SOFT COAL PRODUCED IN 1918 34,092,437 TONS ABOVE 1917

The estimates of bituminous coal production in the United States by months during 1918 were completed to-day and furnished to the United States Fuel Administration by the Geological Survey. These figures, which include lignite and coal made into coke, compared with the corresponding months of 1917, show an increase of 34,092,437 net tons for the 12 months. The figures by months are as follows:

Months.	1917	1918
January.....	47,967,354	42,607,206
February.....	41,352,711	44,384,937
March.....	47,868,652	48,611,115
April.....	41,854,320	46,590,570
May.....	47,086,452	50,027,195
June.....	46,824,646	51,758,214
July.....	46,231,572	55,587,312
August.....	47,372,226	55,732,032
September.....	45,107,956	51,757,334
October.....	48,837,723	52,885,513
November.....	47,649,801	44,386,987
December.....	44,037,147	40,634,525
Total.....	551,790,563	585,883,000

Figures on coke production show an increase in the production of by-product coke of 3,825,000 net tons or 17 per cent, compared with the output of 1917. Beehive coke production decreased 8 per cent. The output of both kinds of coke was 56,670,000 net tons compared with 55,606,828 net tons in 1917. This is an increase during 1918 of 1,063,172 net tons or about 2 per cent.

"Busy and Prosperous Year in Islands," Says Annual Report of Insular Bureau Chief

In his annual report to the Secretary of War Maj. Gen. Frank McIntyre, Chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, says in part:

The past has been a busy year in the administration of insular affairs. All of the difficult questions arising in supply and production as the result of the war, as well as the difficulties of transportation, were emphasized in the islands. These questions have required the constant attention of the insular governments, but have been, on the whole, satisfactorily solved as they presented themselves.

The year has been a prosperous one in the islands, marked by civic progress, increased production, and, in the main, high prices for products, notwithstanding the excessively high freight rates and at times the shortage in transportation.

The outstanding feature in insular affairs for the past year was the heartfelt display of patriotism of the people of our islands and their determined support of our war policies. This was accompanied by a feeling of continued satisfaction of the people with their present organic laws. It has been unnecessary to go to Congress for legislation amending in any way these laws.

All of the officers of the insular governments by appointment of the President have continued at their posts throughout the year. This has been the first year since the United States took over the islands that it has not been necessary to record changes in the personnel so appointed. In view of the fact that of all years this has been the one when such officials have been most tempted to leave their posts, this condition is a tribute to their patriotism as well as to their deep interest in the affairs committed to them.

The attraction of military service, however, has been too strong for the American civil-service personnel, and both in the Philippine Islands and in Porto Rico a great number of faithful employees of many years' service have joined the Army.

SUMMARY OF RED CROSS WORK AMONG U. S. TROOPS IN FRANCE

The Red Cross authorizes the following: Activities of the American Red Cross in behalf of the American soldiers in France entailed an expenditure of $15,453,050 to the end of last June, and $13,829,418 has been appropriated to help make our more than 2,000,000 men "over there" comfortable during the last six months of the year. Providing comforts for our fighting men, supplementing the efforts of the Army and Navy authorities in their behalf, is considered the most important mission of the relief organization. This service and the cost of maintaining it form the basis of the most recent report from the war council relative to the disposition of the Red Cross war fund.

Work Before Pershing Landed.

Long before Gen. Pershing's first 40,000 troops reached France the American Red Cross had established canteens and rest stations at various strategical points between the ports of debarkation and the front-line trenches where the allied soldiers received wholesome food and had a chance to bathe and sleep in homelike surroundings on their way to and from the firing line.

Present Canteen Service.

There were six of these canteens, and in March last, when American troops began arriving overseas in heavy contingents, they were feeding 30,000 soldiers a day. The work at these canteens was done by 100 patriotic American women. At the present time the number of canteens, the number of soldiers cared for every day, and the number of workers has been doubled, and by the end of the year, the report states, it is expected that 53 American Red Cross canteens will be in operation.

From March to the end of June this year, $1,671,739 was spent for canteen service. For the six months ending December 31, 1918, $2,059,649 has been appropriated for the work, $905,808 of this amount being for the maintenance of front-line canteens.

Hospitals and Dispensaries.

One of the most vital features of American Red Cross work in France is the emergency aid given to the Army Medical Corps. In addition to recruiting nurses for the Army, the Red Cross maintains hospitals and dispensaries which are at the disposal of the Army for any emergency that arises. The Red Cross has made an appropriation of $5,438,919 to cover the cost of maintaining this service for wounded American soldiers during the last six months of this year.

Reconstruction of men disabled in the service is another activity carried on by the Red Cross overseas. On an average of about 120 artificial limbs are distributed by the organization every month, with every effort being made to extend this service.

Navy's Rapid Expansion and Steadfast Efficiency Reviewed In Annual Report of the Chief of the Bureau of Navigation

In January, 1917, there were about 56,000 men in the United States naval service. The numbers have been increased until there are now over half a million men enrolled, says the Chief of the Bureau of Navigation in his annual report to the Secretary of the Navy. These are voluntary enlistments and enrollments, as the Army draft law which applies to the Navy has not yet brought any additions to the naval forces.

Commissioned and enlisted personnel on January of last year was assigned by this bureau, the report continues, to a total of but 176 vessels in commission. There are to-day 1,800 vessels in full commission, with complete complements of officers and men, and with excess personnel on each ship to provide for training.

All Classes of Vessels.

The vessels commissioned include battleships, submarines, cruisers, destroyers, transports, hospital ships, patrol vessels, mine layers, mine sweepers, submarine chasers, fishing craft, converted yachts, gunboats, fuel and supply ships, cargo carriers, etc., and every day we meet the calls for crews for new vessels. Plans are fully worked out and now in operation to provide the necessary trained crews by the time all vessels authorized are ready to be commissioned.

Just prior to the beginning of the war the Bureau of Navigation, which has charge of the recruiting, education, and training of all officers and men and their assignment to the fighting and other vessels of the Navy, initiated a carefully considered system of intensive training to provide for the great need for efficient personnel during the war.

Training Stations Enlarged.

An estimate of war needs was carefully drawn up and schools for special ratings were immediately started. The training stations, which could accommodate but 6,000, were enlarged, and additional training depots erected, until at present they can accommodate over 100,000 men in training.

The training quarters, erected through the energetic action and under the able supervision of the very efficient commandants of our temporary training depots, represent the last word in lay-out and modern construction suited to the Navy's war needs. The one at Great Lakes, Ill., serves the whole Middle West, and has a capacity of about 45,000—the largest naval training station in the world. Other large ones are at Newport, R. I., and the naval operating base, Va., each to accommodate about 25,000 men, and at Pelham Bay Park, N. Y., 15,000 men.

The regular training stations have provided the great majority of the ratings necessary for the fighting work of the fleet. At these stations, at the training camps, at some navy yards, and at several colleges there are schools for practically all the trades.

Coastwise and lake shipping lines have permitted the Navy to place on board thousands of men, both deck force and engineers, to gain practical experience incident to their training as prospective officers for merchant type vessels which are being commissioned in the Navy.

Training of personnel in the battle fleet, on a most comprehensive scale, has been continued, and every vessel of the Navy, at home and abroad, is now an active training unit for both officers and men, in addition to carrying out its main mission of immediate readiness for battle. Expert destroyer, submarine, and patrol boat officers and men from the war zone are being constantly brought back as nucleus crews to man the many new vessels being put into commission, and the battleships and other vessels of the fleet are turning out specially trained crews for new vessels, and are providing the armed guards for every vessel that visits the war zone.

To provide junior officers the best material that the country affords has been obtained, and these young men are given intensive training courses at officers' material schools in several districts, so that they will acquire just enough information to start their work afloat. The intensive training is then continued on board ship under actual sea conditions.

In the fleet and ashore the officers have encouraged and assisted the enlisted men in preparing themselves for commissions. They have trained and instructed great numbers, and it is due to their continued efforts that over 11,000 enlisted men and warrant officers have received commissions since war began.

Worked Out in Advance.

The whole problem of the supply, training, and assignment of officers and men has been worked out in detail for a complete year in advance, after taking into consideration the numbers of vessels which will be completed and commissioned, and the important sea, land, and air operations to be undertaken. The finished plan shows where the supply of both officers and men of all ranks and ratings will be obtained, where they will be trained, where they will be rendezvoused after training, and to what class of duty they will be assigned. It has been so carefully prepared in detail, with a sufficient factor of safety to allow for unforeseen casualties and new demands in the operations of war, that, if followed consistently, it will automatically deliver the required number of trained officers and men for any activities authorized or contemplated, now or in the future, covering a space of several years.

High State of Efficiency.

Notwithstanding the enormous expansion of the personnel, the reports from the commander in chief of the Atlantic Fleet, and from all commanders of forces afloat, show that the various units composing the Navy have reached a higher state of battle efficiency than ever before. In the transport service alone, which has produced such remarkable results in safely delivering great numbers of troops and quantities of supplies over a submarine zone of 3,000 miles, there are to-day more officers and men than there were in the entire Navy just prior to the beginning of the war. The same statement of numbers applies similarly to the forces operating in European waters.

Increase in Permanent Navy.

Since last annual report the permanent Navy has been increased from 57,000 men and 6,000 apprentice seamen to 131,485 men and 6,000 apprentice seamen. This number is just sufficient to man the ships of the Regular Navy in commission and to be commissioned by the end of the present fiscal year, on the basis of the former complement sheets. Since that date, however, the commander in chief has submitted the final recommendations of the fleet, as the result of actual experience with perfected instruments and more modern methods. This will require an increase over the old complements, in order that our efficiency may not be behind that of other naval powers.

For the regular naval vessels that will be in commission by the end of the next fiscal year, and for the readjustment of complements brought out by war experience, there will be required a considerable increase above the present authorized strength.

Permanence of Personnel.

Permanence of personnel is probably the greatest factor in producing battle efficiency. A battleship in the North Sea reports that on leaving the United States she had a large percentage of green men and a considerable number of young and inexperienced officers.

During her 10 months in the battle squadron in the North Sea her efficiency has increased so rapidly as to call forth favorable comments. Service in hostile waters, with infrequent diversion, is most trying, and yet the esprit which was built up on this vessel, due to permanence of personnel, is astonishing. The ship herself is cleaner and happier than she was 6 months ago, and she is smarter in every respect. Gun crews have taken on individualities, and the individual characteristics of both officers and men have been sufficiently disclosed or developed to enable the most efficient assignment to duty.

Tribute to Civil Clerks.

The officers of the bureau and of the great divisions under it, the Naval Observatory and the Hydrographic Office, which have made such exceptional records during the war, are entirely responsible for the efficient organization that has successfully handled all the important problems of the war having to do with personnel, navigational instruments, charts, etc. Their ability, good judgment, and well developed initiative have been of the greatest benefit to the bureau.

The civil-service clerks and the men and women of the reserve yeoman branch have given excellent service. It would have been impossible to carry on the duties of any of the bureaus or offices of the Navy Department had it not been for the efficient and loyal work of these men and women.

Recently the Shipping Board requested the Navy to take over 1,924 vessels of the merchant marine by the end of the calendar

Operation, Maintenance, and Repairs to Panama Canal as Indicated in Annual Report of Governor Harding

In his annual report to the Secretary of War Chester Harding, governor of the Panama Canal, reviews in detail the construction operations during the year, including the erection of a number of hospital buildings, boat loadings, and launch houses, and continues in part:

There were 1,936 commercial and 335 noncommercial lockages at Gatun, and 2,096 commercial vessels were passed; at Pedro Miguel there were 2,041 commercial and 379 noncommercial lockages, and 2,083 commercial vessels were passed; at Miraflores there were 2,017 commercial and 326 noncommercial lockages, and 2,081 commercial vessels were passed. The number of ships passed exceeded the number of lockages on account of passing more than one ship through in one lockage under certain conditions. There were no delays to ships due to the failure of the operating machinery of the locks, and as heretofore the damage to vessels has been chiefly due to the breaking of chocks and bits.

Maintenance of Canal.

The maintenance work consisted of constant inspection of and attention to all of the lock operating machinery and such painting of gates and other steel parts as was required. The wall fenders originally installed have in some cases become unserviceable through decay, and have been replaced by timbers of Almendra, a native hardwood. Four new towing locomotives manufactured in the mechanical division shops were completed and placed in service during the year, two at Gatun locks and two at the Pacific locks. The installation of electrical equipment on these locomotives was done by the lock forces.

Besides the necessity for painting portions of the gates the chief indications of deterioration developing during these inspections were as heretofore the corrosion due to electrolytic action on valves and their fittings. Further inspection of the valves at Miraflores locks where greenheart lumber was used to replace metal valve seats and lignum-vitæ side seals in place of machinery steel, indicated the substitutions to be the best means thus far investigated for checking the trouble, and accordingly the same means were applied this year at Gatun.

Trouble With Cables.

At Miraflores locks trouble has been experienced from the grounding of the control cables. As originally installed these cables were insulated with varnished cambric and were lead sheathed. On investigation it was found that the lead sheathing had become badly pitted, and in some places had entirely disappeared. A total of six control cables in the middle crossover were found to be defective to varying degrees. Every case was found to be in the side wall of the vertical shafts in a position where the lead was exposed to contact with water that had seeped through the concrete, and the corrosion and destruction of the lead covering proved to be due to the chemical action of the seepage water, which contained lime salts of sufficient strength to act upon the lead. The cables affected were withdrawn, and new cables were installed in a different location supported on hangers where they would not be exposed to the seepage water, and no further trouble has developed since the change.

Electrical Division.

Upon the relief from duty with the canal of Lieut. Col. T. H. Dillon, United States Army, on February 5, 1918, he was succeeded as electrical engineer by Mr. Walter L. Hersh. The operation and maintenance of the steam and hydroelectric power plants, substations, transmission lines and power distribution systems, street and house lighting systems, telephone and telegraph, fire alarm, railway block signal systems, and railway interlocking plants, all under the supervision of the electrical division, were satisfactorily conducted.

The former head of the Meteorology and Hydrography Division, Mr. F. D. Wilson, chief hydrographer, resigned, effective July 17, 1917, and was succeeded by Mr. R. Z. Kirkpatrick. Mr. Kirkpatrick resigned, effective April 13, 1918, to enter the military service, and Mr. H. G. Cornthwaite was appointed his successor. The existing observation stations were continued in operation and certain new stations were established.

The Dredging Division.

The work of this division had so far diminished during the first six months of the year that on January 1, 1918, it was found advisable to place the dredging units on a single shift of eight hours per day, and on April 1, 1918, it was practicable to consolidate the two districts and to direct all the dredging operations from the division headquarters at Paraiso. The resident engineer, Mr. W. G. Comber, under whose direction the dredging operations throughout the canal had been conducted since May 1, 1913, and who had completed 13 years' service with the canal, resigned on June 14, 1918, effective at the expiration of his leave of absence. The position of resident engineer was abolished.

The work having practically reached a maintenance basis, the division was attached to the supervision of the engineer of maintenance immediately after the close of the fiscal year. As superintendent in charge of the dredging division, Mr. J. M. Pratt was appointed, effective July 1, 1918.

The slides at Culebra and at Cucuracha have reached a condition in which they require only intermittent dredging. At no time during the year was shipping delayed on account of slides, and a channel of practically full dimensions was maintained by the removal during the year of a total of 1,316,315 cubic yards.

Supply Department.

Following the relief from duty with the canal of Lieut. Col. W. R. Grove as chief quartermaster, and Capt. F. H. Smith as assistant chief quartermaster, changes in the organization of the department were made. The position of assistant chief quartermaster was abolished, and the work of the department was subdivided into several branches.

The accounting department continued under charge of Mr. H. A. A. Smith, auditor. It is subdivided into the division of auditing and accounting, under the direction of the auditor, assisted by Mr. Elwyn Green; division of collections, under the collector, Mr. T. L. Clear; and the division of disbursements, under the paymaster, Mr. J. H. McLean. Disbursements were made by the paymaster in the amount of $29,962,046.32, of which $11,273,280.32 were on account of the Panama Railroad. Employees on the gold rolls of the canal were paid $6,269,614.59, and on the silver roll $5,442,626.14. The sum of $6,976,425.27 was paid on miscellaneous vouchers. Collections on pay rolls totaled $3,897,644.15, of which $3,048,091.07 were collected for coupon books and meal tickets; $87,002.45 for rent; and the remainder for miscellaneous items.

The tolls actually collected on vessels transiting the canal during the year amounted to $6,439,083.90. The sum of $2,321.25 was collected in addition for tolls on a vessel that passed through the canal during the preceding year. In further reference to the loss of revenue to the canal on account of the present legislation relating to rules of measurement of vessels, it may be stated here that, including the amounts refunded during the year, under authority of the act of Congress of June 12, 1917, the total loss of revenue since the opening of the canal has aggregated $2,797,260.26. The chief beneficiaries of the present rules of measurement have been vessels under foreign register.

Decrease in Expenditures.

There were expended in the operation and maintenance of the canal $5,903,719.69, as compared with $6,788,147.60 during the previous year. The reduction was due to the decreased expenditure for dredging in Gaillard Cut on account of the improvement in the slide conditions. Offsetting the total expense of $5,903,719.69 are amounts earned as tolls, $6,454,198.35; licenses and taxes, court fees, and fines, $140,918.01; profits on business operations, $6,159.56; making a total of $6,601,275.92. These figures indicate revenues earned in excess of expenses amounting to $697,556.23, as against a loss of $979,648.90 for the previous year. Except for a few minor items the charges to operation and maintenance above given do not include charges for depreciation of plant or interest on the capital investment.

The total revenue derived from business operations carried on with Panama Canal funds amounted to $10,324,071.91, as against a total of $7,579,588.44 during the previous year. The net profit resulting from these operations and covered into the treasury as miscellaneous receipts was for the year $6,159.56. In reporting this fact it should be stated that shop work, work for the Panama Railroad and other departments of the Government, and all services rendered for employees are performed at cost, except that subsistence and hospital services to employees are rendered at less than cost. Fair profits are made on the sales of water, dry dockage at Balboa, and on the sale of fuel oil.

On December 1, 1917, Mr. A. L. Flint was appointed general purchasing officer and chief of the Washington office, in succession to Maj. Benedict Crowell, United States Engineer Officers' Reserve Corps, who resigned on November 11, 1917, on his appointment as Assistant Secretary of War.

The abnormal labor conditions in the United States increased the difficulties heretofore experienced in filling requisitions from the Isthmus for skilled labor, especially in marine work. Tenders of employment were declined in 60 per cent of all classes. One thousand and ninety-four persons were tendered employment in the grades above that of laborer, of which number 432 accepted, covering 65 different positions. Additional work was entailed upon the correspondence and record division on account of correspondence with respect to matters that had to be referred, on account of war conditions, to the War Trade Board and its various bureaus, the Shipping Board, Fuel Administration, Alien Property Custodian, and other new Government establishments.

Claims Passed for Payment.

In the office of the assistant auditor of the canal, stationed in the Washington office, 15,999 claims were passed for payment, leaving on hand on June 30, 1918, 382 claims. There was a decrease of 2,190 claims received during the year, as compared with the preceding year, and a decrease of 2,322 claims passed for payment. During the year, 13,474 vouchers for payment, amounting to $9,643,732.81; 232 collection vouchers, amounting to $335,940.15; and 3,075 settlements by transfers of appropriation, aggregating $1,893,490.47, were given administrative examination. There was a decrease of $1,209,549.87 in disbursements as compared with the previous year. One hundred and four contracts were prepared, amounting to $3,521,474.53, a decrease of 65 in number and $1,575,514.93 in amount, as compared with the previous year. The assistant auditor, as the legal officer in the United States of The Panama Canal, has continued to render assistance to the Department of Justice in the preparation for trial, and at the trial, in the courts, of all cases in connection with contracts made with The Panama Canal.

The usual routine methods of procuring and shipping materials have been materially interfered with on account of war conditions. This is especially true of materials in which a shortage exists or is imminent in the States. All such cases must be reported to the War Industries Board, in compliance with the instructions of the President to the War Industries Board contained in his letter of March 4, 1918, with the exceptions as prescribed by Executive order signed by the Secretary of War, dated May 18, 1918, with especial reference to the Panama Canal. The chief of the Washington office has been designated as representative of the Panama Canal on the Clearance Committee and the Requirements Division of the War Industries Board. The new conditions referred to inevitably entailed increased work upon the Washington office.

The principal purchases in filling requisitions from the Isthmus have been made by the Washington office, although branch offices have been continued in dar year 1919, and to provide and train an additional force of approximately 222,000 officers and men. This is a considerable task, but the organization of the bureau is such that it was able to state definitely to the department, within a few hours after the receipt of the request, that this additional duty could be fully and efficiently performed, and that the machinery necessary to accomplish this was already in rapid motion. As a result, every vessel turned over to the Navy has immediately been fully officered and manned.

Original Handicap Overcome.

The original shortage of officers, based on peace-time complements for the vessels in commission prior to our entry into the war, caused much additional labor to be thrown on the shoulders of the few we had. One of the most satisfactory developments of the war, however, has been the way our officers have overcome the original handicap. The necessity for manning a great number of vessels and putting them in active war operation without time to train up new people was met by spreading the small force of trained officers over a large number of vessels, and imposing on them the great task of carrying out war operations while their normal supply of regular officer assistants was greatly reduced. At the same time they were asked to train up other new and untried officers for service on newer vessels to be commissioned, and also to train thousands of green men for important ship duties. It was asking almost the impossible, but this great task is satisfactorily completed and the training of new forces continues.

Character of the War Considered.

In referring to the successful war activities of the Navy under unfavorable conditions, caused primarily by a shortage of trained officers, due weight must be given to the special character of this war, as affecting operations required of our forces, and to the fact that the special international conditions gave time to put into operation an extensive training system. Had the estimate of the situation led to the decision that the fleet must engage in grand operations at an early date, the trained personnel would necessarily have been retained in the regular naval vessels in commission at the beginning of the war, and the training of new officers charge of assistant purchasing officers at New York, New Orleans, and San Francisco. Preliminary inspection has been made in the States of materials purchased by a corps of inspectors under the supervision of the inspecting engineer of the Washington office.

The number of orders for materials and supplies during the year was 6,608, a decrease of 2,300 as compared with the previous year. The total value of the materials on the orders placed was $8,019,608.90 for the year, as compared with $10,405,157.27 for the previous year. The grand total of purchases made for the canal through the Washington office since the year 1904 is $136,532,840.43.

and men, and the employment of new vessels, would have suffered accordingly. The special point to be kept in mind is that, for ships building and authorized, complete personnel should be trained so that necessary expansions of war may not too quickly spread the trained personnel so sparingly over many vessels that the efficiency of the fleet is thereby largely reduced. Tens and hundreds of thousands of men have been trained and thousands of officers have been undergoing the best possible training, but it takes time to make a seagoing officer of real value in war.

A knowledge of the great achievements of the Navy, and of the obstacles overcome, leads logically to the conclusion that the system of training of our personnel for the past decade is all that could be desired.

The successful operation of all activities assigned to the Navy during the war is directly due to the ability, initiative, and self-sacrificing devotion of the trained officers and men who were ready when war was declared.

The measure of the efficiency of the Navy is the efficiency of its personnel.

FUEL ADMINISTRATION ORDER FIXING COKE PRICE REVOKED

The United States Fuel Administration issues the following:

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 13, 1919.

The United States Fuel Administrator having received complaints as to the quality of coke sold and delivered by Seaboard By-Products Coke Co., of Jersey City, N. J., to Wharton Steel Co., of Wharton, N. J., and Thomas Iron Co., of Hokendauqua, Pa., and having, after due consideration of said complaints, made an order dated September 5, 1918, readjusting the prices of coke sold and delivered as aforesaid on the basis of the fair value of said coke, and it now appearing to said administrator that the quality of the coke manufactured by said Seaboard By-Products Coke Co. has been improved, and that the said Wharton Steel Co. and Thomas Iron Co. make no complaint of the quality of coke now being delivered to them by said Seaboard By-Products Coke Co., and that there is now no occasion for the special regulation of the price of coke sold by said Seaboard By-Products Coke Co. contained in said order,

The United States Fuel Administrator, acting under authority of an Executive order of the President of the United States, dated August 23, 1917, appointing said administrator, and of subsequent Executive orders, and in furtherance of the purpose of said orders and of the act of Congress therein referred to and approved August 10, 1917,

Hereby orders and directs that the order of said administrator, dated September 5, 1918, relative to the price of coke sold and delivered by Seaboard By-Products Coke Co. to Wharton Steel Co. and Thomas Iron Co. be, and the same hereby is, vacated and set aside as of January 14, 1919.

Measures Taken by Great Britain To Meet Fuel Problems Caused by War Outlined by U. S. Commission

The Country, During More Than Four Years of Hostilities, Suffered a Loss of Approximately 185,000,000 Tons Mined—Government Control of Mines and Rationing of Households.

Details of the heroic measures taken by the British Government to meet fuel problems vital to the winning of the war are presented at length in a memorandum supplemental to the general report of the commission sent abroad by United States Fuel Administrator Harry A. Garfield.

Where the United States was able to increase its coal production, Great Britain during the five years of the war suffered a loss of approximately 185,000,000 tons mined, using the 1913 production figures as a basis for computation.

Steps Taken to Meet Situation.

The steps taken to meet the situation included:

Government control of mines;

Restriction of export, which suffered to the extent of 160,000,000 tons of the 185,000,000 mentioned;

The rationing of households, designed to conserve 8,000,000 of the 40,000,000 tons normally consumed annually for domestic purposes; and

"Zoning" consumers to the mines nearest them, through which the railroads were able to take up the burden added by loss of shipping from submarines.

Something of the magnitude of the disorganization wrought in the British coal trade by the advent of the war may be realized by a glance at the statistics dealing with the rush of mine workers to the colors when the war began.

Miners in the Army.

In the first year of the war 191,170 miners enlisted and in June, 1916, the total had risen to 235,000. On the latter date the net loss of mine labor had been reduced to 153,000 men through extraordinary efforts to return soldiers to the mines, but this latter program was interrupted early in 1918 by the necessity of returning 75,000 miners to the battle lines.

"Uneven distribution" is assigned in the report as the next gravest of the initial problems of the war.

The railroads had been brought under government control at the beginning of the war, and the railway department of the board of trade simultaneously began supervision of the relief of local shortages. But as the result of experiences in the first winter of the war a coal exports committee was appointed by the president of the board of trade in May, 1915, with power to increase domestic supply by restricting exports.

Distribution Committees.

Distribution committees, the report continues, were set up in the second winter of the war, but it was not until July 4, 1917, that the zone system was installed by the coal transport order under the defense of the realm regulations. The report says that the goal set for the zoning operations, the saving of 700,000,000 ton-miles annually, seems to have been attained, and adds:

"It is asserted, moreover, that but for this saving the railroads would not have been able to meet the increased demands enforced upon their facilities by the submarine menace."

The rationing system has not been in operation a sufficient length of time, the commission found, to allow for an effective check on its results. Rationing was applied to the whole country only in the fall of 1918, though London was rationed in the winter of 1917. Where the French system is to ration coal upon a per capita basis the British allowance was computed upon the number of rooms occupied.

Export Restrictions.

The report points out particularly how the exports restrictions, aside from keeping within the country the necessary quantities of coal for war operations, made coal "a very effective weapon in the conduct of the war, not only in assisting allies, but in exacting favorable terms with neutrals, as well as securing much needed materials, supplies, and shipping."

The coal exports committee determined not only the amounts to be exported and the consignee, but the price of sale.

Taking up the subject of Government control, the report makes it clear that operation of the mines was left in the hands of the owners, and that their profits were reduced when their output fell below pre-war figures, although not in exact proportion.

The coal mines control agreement (confirmation) act, passed by Parliament February 8, 1918, embodied the substance of long negotiations between the mine owners and the coal controller, Mr. (later Sir) Guy Calthrop, who was general manager of the London and North-Western Railway when appointed in February, 1917.

Collieries Guaranteed Profit.

Collieries were guaranteed a "standard" profit when their pre-war output was maintained, and portion of their excess profits taxes went to the fund from which the coal controller paid his administration expenses and allowances to mines which failed to maintain their pre-war profits.

"For the purpose of compensation," the report says, "the controller takes as a standard the profit and the output in the pre-war period which was adopted for excess profits only under the finance act of 1915 (i. e., the average of the best two out of the three years before the war or the best four out of six)."

Of excess profits earned, a colliery was allowed £200 plus 5 per cent. Eighty per cent of the remainder, according to the report, is collected by the inland revenue as excess profits duty and 15 per cent allocated to the coal controller's finances,

FUEL ORDERS FIXING SALE PRICE OF SLACK AND SCREENING COAL

UNITED STATES FUEL ADMINISTRATION,
Washington, D. C., January 4, 1919.

Application having been made to the United States Fuel Administrator, pursuant to Section II of the regulation of May 27, 1918, establishing the definition of slack or screenings and prepared sizes, for the establishment of specific screen specifications for the Searls Coal Co. at its operation in Williamson County, in the State of Illinois, and it appearing to the United States Fuel Administrator that said application should be granted, and that the price for slack or screenings passing through the screens established in accordance with said application should be fixed,

The United States Fuel Administrator, acting under authority of an Executive order of the President of the United States dated August 23, 1917, appointing said administrator, and of subsequent Executive orders and in furtherance of the purpose of said orders and of the act of Congress therein referred to and approved August 10, 1917.

Hereby orders and directs that bituminous slack or screenings mined by the Searls Coal Co. at its mine in Williamson County, in the State of Illinois, and passing through a 1½-inch screen, may be sold at a price not to exceed $1.60 per net ton of 2,000 pounds. To the foregoing price may be added the 45-cent allowance for wage increase, if the producing company is entitled to add such allowance under the President's order of October 27, 1917.

This order to become effective at 7 a. m. January 6, 1919.

H. A. GARFIELD,
U. S. Fuel Administrator.

CYRUS GARNSEY, Jr.,
Assistant U. S. Fuel Administrator.

known as the coal excess payments (fund).

No figures were available, says the report, but it was rumored that this fund gave promise of a considerable deficit.

"Excessive Absenteeism."

Coupled with the inroads of the army upon the ranks of the miners, "excessive absenteeism" on the part of remaining miners is mentioned in the report as a chief contributing cause to the loss in production.

The assumption of Government control of all coal mines followed very shortly upon labor troubles in the South Wales field in 1916. On December 1 of that year the Government assumed control of those fields, and on March 1 following Mr. Calthrop was given direction of all coal mining operations as well as of distribution, price, and consumption of coal. An advisory board made up of representatives of mine owners and mine workers was appointed to assist him.

"Labor troubles have required constant and continuing attention," says the report, "and there is no little unrest at the present time. * * * The English authorities assert that they do not anticipate any serious difficulty, but the labor situation is, to say the least, uncertain."
