Executive Council to Consist of Representatives of United States, British Empire, France, Italy, and Japan, and Those of Four Other States—Obligations Assumed by Signatories Set Forth.

There will be a plenary session of the preliminary peace conference this afternoon at 3.30 p. m., at the Quai d'Orsay. The President as chairman of the commission on the league of nations will read and explain the following report, it being the text of the proposed covenant:

COVENANT—PREAMBLE.

In order to promote international cooperation and to secure international peace and security by the acceptance of obligations not to resort to war, by the prescription of open, just and honorable relations between nations, by the firm establishment of the understandings of international law as the actual rule of conduct among Governments, and by the maintenance of justice and a scrupulous respect for all treaty obligations in the dealings of organized peoples with one another, the powers signatory to this covenant adopt this constitution of the league of nations.

ARTICLE ONE.

The action of the high contracting parties under the terms of this covenant shall be effected through the instrumentality of meeting of a body of delegates representing the high contracting parties, of meeting at more frequent intervals of an executive council, and of a permanent international secretariat to be established at the seat of the league.

TEXT OF COVENANT ON THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

ARTICLE TWO.

Meetings of the body of delegates shall be held at stated intervals and from time to time as occasion may require for the purpose of dealing with matters within the sphere of action of the League. Meetings of the body of delegates shall be held at the seat of the League or at such other place as may be found convenient and shall consist of representatives of the high contracting parties. Each of the high contracting parties shall have one vote but may not have more than three representatives.

ARTICLE THREE.

The executive council shall consist of representatives of the United States of America, the British Empire, France, Italy, and Japan, together with representatives of four other States, members of the League. The selection of these four States shall be made by the body of delegates on such principles and in such manner as they think fit. Pending the appointment of these representatives of the other States, representatives of ——— shall be members of the executive council.

Meetings of the council shall be held from time to time as occasion may require and at least once a year at whatever place may be decided upon, or failing any such decision, at the seat of the League, and any matter within the sphere of action of the League or affecting the peace of the world may be dealt with at such meetings.

Invitations shall be sent to any power to attend a meeting of the council at which matters directly affecting its interests are to be discussed and no decision taken at any meeting will be binding on such powers unless so invited.

ARTICLE FOUR.

All matter of procedure at meetings of the body of delegates or the Executive Council, including the appointment of the committees to investigate particular matters, shall be regulated by the body of delegates or the Executive Council, and may be decided by a majority of the States represented at the meeting.

The first meeting of the body of delegates and of the Executive Council shall be summoned by the President of the United States of America.

ARTICLE FIVE.

The permanent secretariat of the League shall be established at ———, which shall constitute the seat of the League. The secretariat shall comprise such secretaries and staff as may be required, under the general direction and control of a secretary general of the League, who shall be chosen by the Executive Council; the secretariat shall be appointed by the secretary general, subject to confirmation by the Executive Council.

The secretary general shall act in that capacity at all meetings of the body of delegates or of the Executive Council.

The expenses of the secretariat shall be borne by the States members of the League in accordance with appointment of the expenses of the International Bureau of the Universal Postal Union.

ARTICLE SIX.

Representatives of the high contracting parties and officials of the league when engaged on the business of the league shall enjoy diplomatic privileges and immunities, and the buildings occupied by the league or its officials or by representatives attending its meetings shall enjoy the benefits of extraterritoriality.

ARTICLE SEVEN.

Admission to the league of States not signatories to the covenant and not named in the protocol hereto as States to be invited to adhere to the covenant requires the assent of the not less than two-thirds of the States represented in the body of delegates, and shall be limited to fully self-governing countries, including dominions and colonies.

No State shall be admitted to the league unless it is able to give effective guarantees of its sincere intention to observe its international obligations, and unless it shall conform to such principles as may be prescribed by the league in regard to its naval and military forces and armaments.

ARTICLE EIGHT.

The high contracting parties recognize the principle that the maintenance of peace will require the reduction of national armaments to the lowest point consistent with national safety and the enforcement by common action of international obligations, having special regard to the geographical situation and circumstances of each State; and the executive council shall formulate plans for effecting such reduction. The executive council shall also determine for the consideration and action of the several Governments what military equipment and armament is fair and reasonable in proportion to the scale of forces laid down in the program of disarmament, and these limits, when adopted, shall not be exceeded without the permission of the executive council.

The high contracting parties agree that the manufacture by private enterprise of munitions and implements of war lends itself to grave objections, and direct the executive council to advise how the evil effects attendant upon such manufacture can be prevented, due regard being had to the necessities of these countries which are not able to manufacture for themselves the munitions and implements of war necessary for their safety.

The high contracting parties undertake in no way to conceal from each other the condition of such of their industries as are capable of being adapted to warlike purposes or the scale of their armaments, and agree that there shall be full and frank interchange of information as to their military and naval programs.

ARTICLE NINE.

A permanent commission shall be constituted to advise the league on the execution of the provisions of article 8 and on military and naval questions generally.

ARTICLE TEN.

The high contracting parties undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all States members of the league. In case of any such aggression, or in case of any threat or danger of such aggression, the executive council shall advise upon the means by which the obligation shall be fulfilled.

ARTICLE ELEVEN.

Any war or threat of war, whether immediately affecting any of the high contracting parties or not, is hereby declared a matter of concern to the League, and the high contracting parties reserve the right to take any action that may be deemed wise and effectual to safeguard the peace of nations.

It is hereby also declared and agreed to be the friendly right of each of the high contracting parties to draw the attention of the body of delegates or of the executive council to any circumstances affecting international intercourse which threaten to disturb international peace or the good understanding between nations upon which peace depends.

ARTICLE TWELVE.

The high contracting parties agree that should disputes arise between them which can not be adjusted by the ordinary processes of diplomacy they will in no case resort to war without previously submitting the question and matters involved either to arbitration or to inquiry by the executive council and until three months after the award by the arbitrators or a recommendation by the executive council; and that they will not even then resort to war as against a member of the League which complies with the award of the arbitrators or the recommendation of the executive council.

In any case under this article, the award of the arbitrators shall be made within a reasonable time, and the recommendation of the executive council shall be made within six months after the submission of the dispute.

ARTICLE THIRTEEN.

The high contracting parties agree that whenever any dispute or difficulty shall arise between them which they recognize to be suitable for submission to arbitration and which can not be satisfactorily settled by diplomacy, they will submit the whole matter to arbitration. For this purpose the court of arbitration to which the case is referred shall be the court agreed upon by the parties or stipulated in any convention existing between them. The high contracting parties agree that they will carry out in full good faith any award that may be rendered. In the event of any failure to carry out the award, the executive council shall propose what steps can best be taken to give effect thereto.

ARTICLE FOURTEEN.

The executive council shall formulate plans for the establishment of a permanent court of international justice and this court shall, when established, be competent to hear and determine any matter which the parties recognize as suitable for submission to it for arbitration under the foregoing article.

ARTICLE FIFTEEN.

If there should arise between States, members of the league, any dispute likely to lead to rupture, which is not submitted to arbitration as above, the high contracting parties agree that they will refer the matter to the executive council; either party to the dispute may give notice of the existence of the dispute to the secretary-general, who will make all necessary arrangements for a full investigation and consideration thereof. For this purpose the parties agree to communicate to the secretary-general, as promptly as possible, statements of their case with all the relevant facts and papers, and the executive council may forthwith direct the publication thereof.

Where the efforts of the council lead to the settlement of the dispute, a statement shall be published indicating the nature of the dispute and the terms of settlement, together with such explanations as may be appropriate. If the dispatch has not been settled, a report by the council shall be published, setting forth with all necessary facts and explanations the recommendation which the council thinks just and proper for the settlement of the dispute. If the report is unanimously agreed to by the members of the council other than the parties to the dispute, the high contracting parties agree that they will not go to war with any party which complies with the recommendations and that if any party shall refuse so to comply, the council shall propose measures necessary to give effect to the reason. If no such unanimous report can be made, it shall be the duty of the majority and the privilege of the minority to issue statements indicating what they believe to be the facts and containing the reasons which they consider to be just and proper.

The executive council may in any case under this article refer the dispute to the body of delegates. The dispute shall be so referred at the request of either party to the dispute, provided that such request must be made within 14 days after the submission of the dispute. In any case referred to the body of delegates all the provisions of this article and of article twelve relating to the action of the executive council shall apply to the action and powers of the body of delegates.

ARTICLE SIXTEEN.

Should any of the high contracting parties break or disregard its covenants under Article Twelve it shall thereby ipso facto be deemed to have committed an act of war against all the other members of the League, which hereby undertake immediately to subject it to the severance of all trade or financial relations, the prohibition of all intercourse between their nationals and the nationals of the covenant-breaking State, and the prevention of all financial, commercial, or personal intercourse between the nationals of the covenant-breaking State and the nationals of any other State, whether a member of the League or not.

It shall be the duty of the Executive Council in such cases to recommend what effective military or naval forces the members of the League shall severally contribute to the armed forces to be used to protect the covenants of the League.

The high contracting parties agree further that they will mutually support one another in the financial and economic measures which may be taken under this article, in order to minimize the loss and inconvenience resulting from the above measures, and that they will mutually support one another in resisting any special measures aimed at one of their number by the covenant-breaking State, and that they will afford passage through their territory to the forces of any of the high contracting parties who are cooperating to protect the covenants of the League.

ARTICLE SEVENTEEN.

In the event of disputes between one State member of the league and another State which is not a member of the league, or between States not members of the league, the high contracting parties agree that the State or States not members of the league shall be invited to accept the obligations of membership in the league for the purposes of such dispute, upon such conditions as the executive council may deem just, and upon acceptance of any such invitation, the above provisions shall be applied with such modifications as may be deemed necessary by the league.

Upon such invitation being given the executive council shall immediately institute an inquiry into the circumstances and merits of the dispute and recommend such action as may seem best and most effectual in the circumstances.

In the event of a power so invited refusing to accept the obligations of membership in the league for the purposes of such dispute, and taking any action against a State member of the league which in the case of a State member of the league would constitute a breach of Article 12, the provisions of Article 16 shall be applicable as against the State taking such action.

If both parties to the dispute when so invited refuse to accept the obligations of membership in the League for the purposes of such dispute, the Executive Council may take such action and make such recommendations as will prevent hostilities and will result in the settlement of the dispute.

ARTICLE EIGHTEEN.

The high-contracting parties agree that the League shall be intrusted with general supervision of the trade in arms and ammunitions with the countries in which the control of this traffic is necessary in the common interest.

ARTICLE NINETEEN.

To those colonies and territories which as a consequence of the war have ceased to be under the sovereignty of the States which formerly governed them and which are inhabited by peoples not yet able to stand by themselves under the strenuous conditions of the modern world, there should be applied the principle that the well-being and development of such peoples form a sacred trust of civilization and that securities for the performance of this trust should be embodied in the constitution of the League.

The best method of giving practical effect of this principle is that the tutelage of such people should be intrusted to advanced nations who by reason of their resources, their experience or their geographical position, can best undertake this responsibility and that this tutelage should be exercised by them as mandatories on behalf of the League.

The character of the mandate must differ according to the stage of the development of the people, the geographical situation of the territory, its economic conditions, and other similar circumstances.

Certain communities formerly belonging to the Turkish Empire have reached a stage of development where their existence as independent nations can be provisionally recognized, subject to the rendering of administrative advice and assistance by a mandatory power, until such time as they are able to stand alone. The wishes of these communities must be a principal consideration in the selection of the mandatory power.

Other peoples, especially those of central Africa, are at such a stage that the mandatory must be responsible for the administration of the territory, subject to conditions which will guarantee freedom of conscience or religion, subject only to the maintenance of public order and morals, the prohibition of abuses, such as the slave trade, the arms traffic and the liquor traffic, and the prevention of the establishment of fortifications or military and naval bases, and of military training of the natives for other than police purposes and the defense of territory, and will also secure equal opportunities for the trade and commerce of other members of the league.

Official Communiqués On Peace Conference

The following official communiqués were issued at Paris on February 12:

The War Council met this morning from 11 till 5.30 o'clock and resumed the sitting in the afternoon from 3 till 5.30 o'clock.

The conditions of the renewal of the armistice were decided on. The next meeting will take place tomorrow at 3 o'clock.

International Labor Legislation.

The seventh meeting of the committee on international labor legislation took place this morning. Article 4 of the British draft was carried, which provided that at the proposed international labor conference, the representatives of Governments, the employers, and work people should be entitled to speak and vote independently without regard to the views expressed by the other representatives of their nation, with power to draw up conventions binding on the States represented. Hitherto the delegates present at such conferences have represented the Governments only and voting had always been by nations. It was felt, however, that in dealing with labor legislation the employers and the workers must be given the fullest opportunity of giving free expression to their views and that they could not do this, if the delegates of each nation were bound to speak and vote as a unit.

Article 5 was also carried, which provides that the international labor conference shall meet at the capital

Remarks of the Secretary of War In Awarding Distinguished Service Medals to Officers and Civilians

Remarks of the Secretary of War at the presentation of distinguished service medals, February 13, 1919:

"Gentlemen, I have the honor to assemble you here to-day in order that there may be conferred upon you distinguished service medals of the United States. This is a relatively new decoration, it having been authorized since the beginning of the present war. It has been conferred both in France and in the United States upon a number of men—in France upon some of the most distinguished soldiers in the world, and at home upon our own officers of our own Army, and upon officers of the Allied Armies associated with us.

"I trust that nothing stiff or formal will ever be allowed to creep into this ceremony. It represents a recognition on the part of the public of services of great value performed in its behalf by men in positions of great responsibility, and, therefore, I hope it will always be a personal ceremony, one in which each officer will feel that he is singled out from among his fellows for the service he has rendered, for the spirit in which it has been rendered, and because of the value which the country places upon that service.

"Perhaps it is not a misfortune, and yet I feel it to be one, that in the conferring of these medals usually too many officers are grouped to permit individual remark upon the particular cases; but I want to have an opportunity of saying to you that while I do not more than formally read the citation in each case as to each person upon whom this medal is conferred, a careful study has been made, your services have been recounted and scrutinized, and they have finally received in each case a personal examination and been approved by the Secretary of War.

In each case I recognized men who had fulfilled the statutory requirements, and in sending you back to the Army or to civil life, as the case may be, with this decoration, I want the Army and the country to feel, and I want you to be confident that in a great crisis in your country's history, charged with great responsibilities, you have been deemed, in the judgment of those called upon to pass upon such questions, to have performed your duties in a distinguished manner."

When about to confer the distinguished-service medal upon two civilians, Secretary Baker said:

"Before conferring this medal (upon Mr. Stettinius) and the one which follows it (Mr. Franklin), I want to have the privilege of saying that it is a pleasure to the Army and a fitting thing that medals of this character should be conferred upon civilians who, coming from civil life, have joined forces with the Army and contributed their large experience and great efficiency to the success of our military program, and if I may add just one personal word, I know of no two civilians whose contributions have been greater than those of the men who are admitted to the company of medalists to-day. In the case of both Mr. Stettinius and Mr. Franklin it seems to me that it would be possible to say that they are directly responsible for a very large part of the business efficiency of our undertaking and the efficiency which has characterized the great overseas movement of our troops. I, therefore, take especial pleasure in conferring the distinguished-service medal upon Mr. E. R. Stettinius."

The list of officers and civilians mentioned in the foregoing was given in THE OFFICIAL U. S. BULLETIN of Thursday, February 13, 1919.

of the league of nations, unless it decides by a two-thirds majority to meet elsewhere. The committee then proceeded to discuss the article dealing with the establishment of the permanent international labor office, and the governing body, which will direct its work. It was agreed that the office should be established at the capital of the league of nations as part of the organization of the league, and should be under the control of a director. The commission, at the president's suggestion, rose in honor of the anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln.

BELGIAN EXPORT EMBARGOES.

Ambassador Sharp has cabled from Paris, under date of February 8, 1919, that according to an official Belgian statement all exports from Belgium are prohibited except under license.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE CONGRESS BRIEFLY TOLD

SENATE.

After very brief discussion the Senate yesterday afternoon adopted the conference report on the war-revenue bill. After it has been signed by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House it will be held in this country for the President to sign upon his return.

The Senate then took up and began consideration of the annual rivers and harbors appropriation bill. The Senate committee reported projects and items in addition to the House bill amounting to nearly $6,000,000. Much of the afternoon was occupied with a discussion of the policy of this Government toward Russia. The debate was precipitated by the Johnson resolution, upon which the California Senator endeavored, but unsuccessfully, to obtain a vote. In the end the resolution, which was designed to declare the sense of the Senate to be in favor of the immediate withdrawal of American soldiers from Russia, was sent to the calendar. Senator Johnson announced that he would introduce a new one from day to day in the hope that he might force a vote on the subject. The debate on the subject yesterday was participated in by Senators Johnson, Hitchcock, Lodge, and Lewis.

In presenting a petition from southern cotton interests, Senator Hardwick demanded the removal of all restrictions on the export of American cotton not only to neutral but to enemy countries. The cotton question also came up in the House, where Representative Heflin, of Alabama, introduced a resolution that would give the President authority to close cotton exchanges if he found they were causing "unjust market manipulation."

The nomination of Maj. Gen. Enoch Crowder to succeed himself for another term of four years as Judge Advocate General of the Army was sent to the Senate. Gen. Crowder's term would expire to-morrow. The Military Committee suspended other business long enough to order a favorable report on the nomination, and it was confirmed later in the afternoon by the Senate. The Military Committee also favorably reported the bill for the support of the Military Academy, increasing the amount appropriated by the House to a total of $2,307,000. The pay of cadets at West Point was increased from $600 a year to $800. The Military Committee yesterday began hearings on the Chamberlain bill to reform the laws relative to courts-martial, and had before it Acting Judge Advocate Gen. Ansell. That officer urged that a broader authority to deal with court-martial cases be lodged in the War Department, so that the verdicts of courts-martial could be either set aside or modified. He gave the committee many incidents of what he considered to be flagrant cases of excessive punishment imposed by courts-martial in which the department found itself helpless to interfere.

Democratic Senators held a conference last night for the purpose of devising means for expediting business with a view to avoiding an extra session of the next Congress. After canvassing the situation from every point of view, it was decided that night sessions must be held if all the supply bills are to be passed before adjournment. It was decided that night sessions would be held, beginning with to-night, and that, beginning to-morrow, the hour of convening will be 11 o'clock instead of noon.

The special committee investigating the spread of bolshevik, I. W. W., and other propaganda in the United States yesterday heard Prof. Ralph Dennis, of the Northwestern University; Russell M. Story, of the University of Illinois; and Robert Leonard, of St. Paul, on conditions in Russia as they knew them at first hand. The two latter were Y. M. C. A. workers in Russia. They explained the doctrines of the bolsheviks and told what they had seen and heard while in that country. The Mines and Mining Committee gave its approval to the measure of Chairman Henderson for the regulation of the importation of potash through a licensing system. Mr. Manning, Chief of the Bureau of Mines, appeared before the committee in person and a letter was read from Secretary Lane approving the proposed plan as the best that could be devised to safeguard domestic interests until the industry in this country is fully developed. Chairman Gore, of the Agricultural Committee, announced that he would designate a subcommittee to digest all the testimony that has been taken relative to the packing industry and prepare a bill for the Federal regulation of the meat-packing business. He said such a bill would be submitted to this Congress before adjournment. Continuing its hearings on the railroad question, the Interstate Commerce Committee heard C. W. Bunn, counsel for the Northern Pacific Railroad, and others. Mr. Bunn said that no system of Federal supervision would be successful unless there is power in the Federal Government to control the entire rate situation. He said the Interstate Commerce Commission should have the power to review State rates.

HOUSE.

Debate continued throughout the day on the bill for the support of the Military Establishment. Mr. Kahn, of California, ranking Republican member of the committee, made an extended speech, in which he advocated universal military training as the best means of providing a military defense for the country in the future. Mr. Gallivan, of Massachusetts, renewed his attack on the administration of the War Department, and charged discrimination by Regular Army officers against National Guard officers.

Before the Ways and Means Committee Secretary of the Treasury Glass made an argument for the proposed legislation in connection with the next Liberty loan. He explained in detail his reasons for asking wide powers in connection with the forthcoming loan. He said it was impossible at this time to determine the exact terms of the loan, and he could not say what the rate of interest would be. He was followed by Assistant Secretary Leflingwell, in charge of fiscal bureaus, and Assistant Secretary Rathbone, in charge of foreign loans. Both urged the adoption of the Secretary's recommendations.

Mrs. Florence Kelley, general secretary

RED CROSS EMERGENCY FUND AT DISPOSAL OF HOSPITALS

Total of Nearly $10,000 Monthly for Those Engaged in Re- construction Work.

The War Department authorizes the following statement from the office of the Surgeon General:

Announcement is made by the Surgeon General of the Army that the Red Cross has placed at the disposal of the Department of Education, Division of Physical Reconstruction, a noncumulative emergency fund of $200 per month for each base and general hospital engaged in reconstruction work.

As there are 44 hospitals carrying on reconstruction activities, it will mean the expenditure of nearly $10,000 a month by the Red Cross alone in this work. The expenditure of this fund will be under the direction of the chief educational officer in the hospital.

Only One Restriction.

The only restriction placed upon the fund is that it shall not be used for the purchase of supplies, equipment, and service which may be immediately and readily procurable from Army supplies or funds. Items which can be regularly secured in a longer time from Army sources, but whose usefulness would be seriously impaired by the time necessary to secure them from Government sources, can be procured with this new fund.

The purpose of this donation is to expedite the educational service under way in behalf of wounded soldiers, by supplying missing items of material or service which will make available for immediate use the larger equipment furnished regularly from Army sources. Large expenditures for either expendable or nonexpendable materials are not authorized to be made from this fund, but may be procured from Army sources or accepted from the Red Cross in accordance with previous arrangements.

Certain Requirements Laid Down.

To insure the proper and effective use of this fund, certain requirements have been laid down. Educational officers are to note the intent and purpose for which it is to be used and are cautioned that its continuance is dependent upon its sane and proper use. The Red Cross local representatives will honor orders against their fund only when they are signed by the chief educational officer, blank order books being furnished by the Red Cross. Reports are to be made by the chief educational officer to the Surgeon General monthly, giving a detailed statement of all expenditures from the fund. Failure to make this report promptly and satisfactorily will be considered grounds for withholding funds for the following month.

There are territories, such as southwest Africa and certain of the South Pacific isles, which, owing to the sparseness of their population, or their small size, or their remoteness from the centers of civilization, or their geographical continuity to the mandatory state, and other circumstances, can be best administered under the laws of the mandatory state as integral portions thereof, subject to the safeguards above mentioned in the interests of indigenous population.

In every case of mandate, the mandatory state shall render to the League an annual report in reference to the territory committed to its charge.

The degree of authority, control, or administration to be exercised by the mandatory state shall, if not previously agreed upon by the high contracting parties in each case, be explicitly defined by the Executive Council in a special act or charter.

The high contracting parties further agree to establish at the seat of the League a mandatory commission to receive and examine the annual reports of the mandatory powers, and to assist the League in insuring the observance of the terms of all mandates.

ARTICLE TWENTY.

The high contracting parties will endeavor to secure and maintain fair and humane conditions of labor for men, women, and children, both in their own countries and in all countries to which their commercial and industrial relations extended; and to that end agree to establish as part of the organization of the League a permanent Bureau of Labor.

ARTICLE TWENTY-ONE.

The high contracting parties agree that provision shall be made through the instrumentality of the League to secure and maintain freedom of transit and equitable treatment for the commerce of all states members of the League, having in mind, among other things, special arrangements with regard to the necessities of the regions devastated during the war of 1914-18.

ARTICLE TWENTY-TWO.

The high contracting parties agree to place under the control of the league all international bureaus already established by general treaties if the parties to such treaties consent. Furthermore, they agree that all such international bureaus to be constituted in future shall be placed under the control of the league.

ARTICLE TWENTY-THREE.

The high contracting parties agree that every treaty or international engagement entered into hereafter by any State member of the league, shall be forthwith registered with the secretary-general and as soon as possible published by him, and that no such treaty or international engagement shall be binding until so registered.

ARTICLE TWENTY-FOUR.

It shall be the right of the body of delegates from time to time to advise the reconsideration by State members of the league of treaties which have become inapplicable, and of international conditions, of which the continuance may endanger the peace of the world.

ARTICLE TWENTY-FIVE.

The high contracting parties severally agree that the present covenant is accepted as abrogating all obligations inter se which are inconsistent with the terms thereof, and

SALE OF BIG CHEMICAL PLANT AT GARFIELD, NEW JERSEY, BY ALIEN PROPERTY CUSTODIAN

ONLY AMERICANS ALLOWED TO BID

*Heyden Company Was Organized by Germans to "Corner" Carbolic
Acid and Stop Manufacture of Munitions for the Allies.*

The Alien Property Custodian's Office issues the following:

The Heyden Chemical Works at Garfield, N. J., one of the central figures in the plot to prevent the manufacture and shipment of munitions to England and France, will be sold at public auction to-day (Friday) by A. Mitchell Palmer, Alien Property Custodian. The sale, which will be held in front of the office of the company at Garfield, N. J., will be under the supervision of Joseph F. Guffey, director of sales of the Alien Property Custodian's Office.

The plant of the Heyden Chemical Works covers more than 7 acres of land. Its output is primarily pharmaceutical products, for which the company holds many patents, processes, and formulae. All these patents, etc., will be included in the sale. None but American citizens will be allowed to participate.

Method of "Cornering" the Supply.

Back in 1915, when Great Britain and France were contracting for the manufacture of large amounts of munitions in this country, Dr. Hugo Schweitzer, the well-known German propagandist, formed the Chemical Exchange. The object of this exchange was to buy up all of the available carbolic acid in this country so as to prevent its manufacture into picric acid, one of the essentials in the making of high explosives. Dr. Schweitzer did buy practically all of the carbolic acid on the market at that time, which he turned over to the Heyden Chemical Works, which in turn converted the carbolic acid into harmless pharmaceutical products, thereby eliminating its use for picric acid.

Large quantities of carbolic acid were converted into salol and various other pharmaceutical products, thereby preventing the manufacture of a large amount of munitions and explosives for Great Britain and France.

Made Large Profits.

John Simon, the president of the Heyden Chemical Works at that time, was a son-in-law of Richard Kny, president of the Kny & Scheerer Company, manufacturers of surgical instruments and supplies, which concern has been taken over by the alien property custodian. In addition to preventing the manufacture of munitions, Dr. Schweitzer made large profits out of his scheme, half of which he turned over to Richard Kny.

The sale of the Heyden Chemical Works to-day will be another step in the plans of the alien property custodian to turn over to American citizens every influential German owned business now in his hands. Many of these concerns have already been placed on the auction block and many more are in preparation for sale. They include a wide diversity of interests.

REMARKS AT THE CEREMONY AWARDING TO U. S. OFFICERS LEGION OF HONOR DECORATIONS

Remarks by Gen. Collardet, military attaché of the French Embassy, in conferring Legion of Honor decorations upon American Army officers, and acceptance address by the Hon. Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, February 13, 1919:

General Collardet said:

"Mr. Secretary, and officers of the American Army: It is very gratifying to be able to confer the decorations which I am making to-day upon the men of your Army. The military membership of the Legion of Honor, as you know, is made up in France only of soldiers who have distinguished themselves by their services in battle, or by long years of untiring devotion to their country. No one in France ignores the tremendous activity which has been developed in the United States in order to create those armies that have taken such a brilliant and important part in the last period of the war; but only those who were in a class with you can realize the pressure of the work under which you have brought about these results. The French nation's feeling of gratitude can be evidenced by the decorations which I am going to pin upon your breasts; they are tokens of everlasting gratitude, and shall remain in your families as testimony of the prominent part you have taken in the war of the liberation of the world."

Secretary Baker replied:

"Gen. Collardet, on behalf of the War Department and the American Army, whose officers have this day been honored by the conferment upon them of the Legion of Honor in the name of the Republic of France, I desire to express my grateful appreciation. This Army has been confederated with the armies of France, its heroes have fought on the same fields of battle, its soldiers have throughout the entire war cooperated in the great undertaking. France was the battle front, but the remotest part of our Republic was a part of the preparation ground for the armies that struggled there. I trust that this admission of these officers to the list of names of distinguished soldiers and patriots of France may prove only one additional permanent tie between our armies and our peoples."

Petain, and reads as follows: "Brilliant unit which has shown itself, during the course of operations in Flanders, worthy of its glorious past. In spite of losses which took away a third of its effectives, in a different sector, it has assured a perfect security to our corps observation airplanes, a complete service of reconnaissance at both high and low altitudes, and the destruction, not only near the front lines but deep in the enemy's territory, of a great number of German airplanes and captive balloons."

The 17th and 148th Squadrons, which served with the British Royal Air Force, were cited in letters by both Gens. J. M. Salmond and J. Byng, when they were transferred to the American Army. In citing the 90th Squadron, Gen. Bell, commanding the 33d Division, says in part: "I wish to express to you at this time my appreciation for the valuable and efficient work your squadron has done while serving with us. You have met all our requests with willing compliance unless prevented unquestionably by the elements. Your greatest cooperation has been in assisting us in locating our lines, which you have done repeatedly with uniform success and accuracy."

Receive Special Mention.

Attached to this citation is a list of the pilots of this squadron, as in the case of the citation of the 99th Aero Squadron by Maj. Gen. J. E. McMahon, in which he especially mentions: Lieuts. A. F. Llewellyn, Houston, Tex., M. C. Markham, Syracuse, N. Y., pilots, and Lieuts. R. H. Neel, C. A. C., and L. S. Powell, observers, who flew over the enemy lines at a low altitude and attacked with machine-gun fire several machine-gun nests that were particularly troublesome to the attacking forces, also rendering valuable service by reconnoitering and photographing enemy positions and movements.

The distinguished service cross, including awards, palms and bars, indicating additional citations, number 224, while foreign decorations total 128, British, French, and Italian awards for distinguished service in the air. Other French and Italian citations total nine.

Recommendations on Disciplinary Regulations Adopted by Conference Recently Are Approved by Mr. Baker In Memorandum to Adjutant General

The Secretary of War authorizes the publication of the accompanying memorandum to The Adjutant General, with reference to the recommendations made at the conference on disciplinary conditions, recently held in Washington.

Upon being asked as to whether the department had formulated any definite regulations with reference to the treatment and release of conscientious objectors, the Secretary stated that the War Department could not regard any prisoner properly sentenced as entitled to special consideration, but that all prisoners, to the best of his ability and that of his associates, were receiving considerate and intelligent treatment. The examination of the men professing conscientious objections to determine whether in each case the regulations of the department were properly carried into effect, is continuing, and if any additional instances are found in which men of this class have not been dealt with in accordance with the regulations governing them, remedial action will be promptly taken. It may be said, however, for the information of inquirers, that there are two classes among these prisoners for whom a discharge at this time can not be expected. These classes are as follows:

Two Classes of Objectors.

1. Those men adjudged sincere in their conscientious objections to all warfare, who, in recognition of such objections, have been offered service in the national interest under civilian direction, through farm or other furlough, but who have refused to accept such service and have, since such refusal, received a court-martial sentence based upon a refusal to comply with the regulations. This class of men will not receive discharge from military obligations in advance of the return and discharge of the great body of citizens now in the military service in the United States and France.

2. Those men who, in the judgment of the board of inquiry, do not hold conscientious scruples against all warfare but who are opposed to participation in this particular war. The War Department finds no justification for the discharge of this class upon the basis of such opposition.

Three General Groups.

A survey of over three thousand prisoners at the United States Disciplinary Barracks at Fort Leavenworth was recently undertaken by the section of neurology and psychiatry of the Surgeon General's office. The case of each prisoner was carefully examined in regard to physical and mental qualifications as well as in regard to the social factors and difficulties in and out of the Army. While the results of this survey for the most part are not yet available, the following tentative conclusions may be of interest. As a result of the examination, the prisoners seem to fall into three general groups of personality; those whose difficulties result—

1. From an excessively egocentric personality.
2. From an extreme emotional instability.
3. From inadequate intelligence or judgment.

By egocentric personality is meant one which is individualistic, opinionated, self-willed, or vain to an extreme degree. More than two-thirds of the present population at the disciplinary barracks were found to belong to the first group. The intelligence distribution among the prisoners was about the same as in the general community. It would appear from this that the problem of delinquency in the Army is chiefly that of the individual who is by nature insubordinate, or at any rate unadaptable. That this is not due to the strict discipline of the Army is attested by the finding that over forty per cent of all the prisoners had histories of delinquency previous to their admission into the Army.

Text of Memorandum.

FEBRUARY 11, 1919.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE ADJUTANT GENERAL:

I have examined the recommendations submitted to me on the 7th instant by the Conference on Disciplinary Regulations and approve each such recommendation in principle. It is evident that the effective carrying out of certain of the recommendations will depend upon provision being made for the necessary personnel and funds. Such cases I desire you to bring in proper form to the attention of the Chief of Staff for study and recommendation by the appropriate committee of the General Staff as to changes in the tables of organization, and, if necessary, the recommendation of suitable legislation.

Recommendations I to VIII, both inclusive, XV, and XVI may be put into effect as fully as present facilities will permit, as soon as the recommendations are embodied in suitable military orders and such orders are approved by the Chief of Staff. The formulation of recommendations IX and X should be preceded by a study of the principle involved, to be made under the direction of the Chief of Staff by an appropriate branch of the General Staff.

Recommendation No. XIII needs no action on your part, but should be made part of the records of the conference.

In the formulation of recommendations I, III and IV, kindly consult the Surgeon General of the Army; of IV, VI, XI and XVI, similarly consult the Judge Advocate General; in V and VI, the committee on education and special training of the General Staff; and IV and XV, the morale branch of the General Staff.

The Resolutions.

The resolutions as adopted by the conference and approved in principle by me read as follows:

- I. It is recommended that The Adjutant General, under authority now vested in him by law, should proceed at once to establish the coordination required between the United States disciplinary barracks and its Atlantic and Pacific branches.

II. It is recommended that, in order to reduce disciplinary cases by preventing the enlistment of men adjudged to be probably incapable of conforming to Army discipline, and by providing special attention after enlistment for doubtful or border-line cases, psychiatrists be placed on duty at recruit depots, depot posts or other places where recruits congregate in any considerable number; psychiatrists so placed to have had all necessary training for their work, to be allowed adequate numbers to work under the official control of a chief psychiatrist, to have a sufficiently uniform and accepted method of procedure, and necessary clerical help, these and other things necessary to be provided for in Army reorganization understood to be pending.

The duty of these officers to be the exclusion from the service of those applicants determined to be definitely unfitted morally or mentally, and to mark for future special attention by commanding officers, morale officers, and others concerned all doubtful or border-line cases for enlistment.

The chief psychiatrist mentioned above to be a medical officer suitably qualified, detailed to have professional control of psychiatric and sociological work at United States disciplinary barracks and at branches and recruit depots, depot posts, or other places where recruits congregate in considerable numbers, this officer to function under a plan of administration to be approved by The Adjutant General.

At places other than recruit depots and depot posts where so small a number of recruits congregate as to make unnecessary the detail of a psychiatrist, the psychiatric work to be taken care of by the regular medical force, under such special instruction as they may need.

III. It is recommended that the necessary psychiatric and sociological work be continued at the United States Disciplinary Barracks and its branches under professional control and coordination of the chief psychiatrist mentioned and provided for in Recommendation II Subparagraph I above.

IV. It is recommended that reviewing authorities in taking action on court-martial trial should have the benefit of a psychiatric study of the individual as is now done at the United States Disciplinary Barracks, as soon as it is practicable to bring this about.

V. It is recommended that vocational training be features under general supervision of the chief psychiatrist mentioned and provided for in Recommendation II Subparagraph I above, at the United States Disciplinary Barracks and its branches to the end that the "hard labor" given to each prisoner shall be in reality wherever possible a course of work eventuating in his leaving the place of his confinement with some useful knowledge acquired during confinement.

VI. It is recommended that the opportunities for schooling in the Disciplinary Barracks and its branches shall be largely increased and large additions made to their libraries, especially in technical books; that the school system be inaugurated and extended to include the necessary personal equipment, and that courses be so arranged that prisoners may take what amounts to correspondence work within the walls; that on recommendation of the commandant moderate remission of sentences to make possible a slightly earlier parole should be granted to prisoners who successfully complete courses of real value; that special attention to day schooling be given for those that are clearly deficient or totally lacking in common-school branches, they being excused from some part of the day's labor when necessary; that the school system adopted shall conform in general outline to any course of instruction which may be adopted for the enlisted men of the Army.

VII. It is recommended that a definitely planned and properly manned employment department, under supervision of the parole officer, should be made a part of each disciplinary barrack organization. That this department should be organized to secure proper employment for all discharged prisoners who desire it; that it should be instructed not to attempt to influence discharged prisoners to accept any certain line of employment, and to act only on request of the prisoner.

VIII. It is recommended that the Adjutant General and the commandants of the disciplinary barracks and its branches place before the Secretary of War the necessary steps, if any, to be taken to promote the efficiency of the disciplinary battalions.

IX. It is recommended that special detachments with company or battalion organization under selected officers and non-commissioned officers be formed; that to these organizations there be assigned, on restoration to duty, those border-line cases which could not now be safely restored because it is felt that they are not fit risks for regular units. It is believed that in special units of this kind these men would succeed, and that these special units will pay if the United States is to have an Army of 300,000 or more men. In such organizations it is believed that the specially selected officers and non-commissioned officers in charge of these units would be an exceedingly important feature.

X. It is recommended that if special units are formed, as recommended in the preceding paragraph, an order be issued directing the restoration to duty of certain types of men on recommendation of the commandants, even though these men may themselves not ask for restoration.

XI. It is recommended that soldiers dropped from the rolls as deserters who voluntarily surrender three months within time of desertion will be sent if practicable to the disciplinary barracks for trial. If convicted and sentenced, and the report of the psychiatrist is favorable, the reviewing authority should, if he deems wise in any instance, commute the sentence to three months' confinement with a view to the immediate assignment of such soldier to the disciplinary battalion.

XII. It is recommended that, with a view to throwing further light upon the problems of disciplinary control, commandants be authorized in their discretion, on the advice of the senior psychiatrist on duty at their barracks, to work out and try experimental methods of treatment of recalcitrant prisoners other than those at present in use, and to report the results to The Adjutant General, provided specifically that such new methods

XIII. It is recommended that the steps already taken by the Judge Advocate General and now proceeding with all possible speed be regarded as the best basis upon which to go forward in the direction of equalization of the sentences of military prisoners and the exercise of clemency in suitable cases. The changes to be made may be determined by inspecting a sample plane at the mail aviation field at Belmont Park, Queens, Long Island, N. Y., which may be surveyed and compared with the D114 battle planes, a specimen of which may also be found at the aviation field.

(c) Consideration as a part of morale work of what changes are required, if any, in rules, regulations, or other matters affecting the daily life of enlisted men in order to remove such as are tending toward deterioration in morale.

The following recommendation, although it had received unanimous indorsement of the subcommittee failed of consideration by the conference as a whole because of lack of time. If, however, it meets with the approval of the Judge Advocate General, I should be glad to have it follow the same course as the foregoing received.

XVI. It is recommended that, subject to the opinion of the Judge Advocate General as to the absence of any legal obstacle, section 339, Manual of Courts-Martial and appendix 10, Forms for Action of Reviewing Authority, Manual of Courts-Martial, be so amended that the reviewing authority does not make a final designation of the place of confinement, but designates the Disciplinary Barracks as the provisional place of confinement, subject to final action to be taken within 90 days by the commandant of the disciplinary barracks, making the final designation as the place for confinement either the Disciplinary Barracks or a Federal penitentiary.

I hand you herewith the papers of the conference which have come to my desk for your assistance in formulating the necessary regulations and thereafter for filing.

NEWTON D. BAKER,
