GOVERNORS AND MAYORS WELCOMED BY PRESIDENT AT CONFERENCE TO DISCUSS RECONSTRUCTION MATTERS

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT ANXIOUS TO COOPERATE

*"As Servants of the People,"
Mr. Wilson Says, "It Is
Our Business to Find Out
How We Can Best Assist in Making Their Lives
What They Wish Them to Be"—The Primary Duty.*

President Wilson, at the conference of governors and mayors called to consider reconstruction problems, in the east room of the White House this morning, spoke as follows:

MR. SECRETARY AND GENTLEMEN OF THE CONFERENCE: I wish that I could promise myself the pleasure and the profit of taking part in your deliberations. I find that nothing deliberate is permitted me since my return. I have been trying, under the guidance of my secretary, Mr. Tumulty, to do a month's work in a week, and I am hoping that not all of it has been done badly, but inasmuch as there is a necessary pressure upon my time I know that you will excuse me from taking a part in your conference, much as I should be profited by doing so.

My pleasant duty is to bid you a very hearty welcome and to express my gratification that so many executives of cities and of States have found the time and the inclination to come together on the very important matter we have to discuss. The primary duty of caring for our people in the intimate matters that we want to discuss here, of course, falls upon the States and upon the municipalities, and the function of the Federal Government is to do what it is trying to do in a conference of this sort—draw the executive minds of the country together so that they may profit by each others suggestions and plans, and so that we may offer our services to coordinate their efforts in any way that they may deem it wise to coordinate. In other words, it is the privilege of the Federal Government in matters of this sort to be the servants of the executives of the States and municipalities and counties, and we shall perform that duty with the greatest pleasure if you will guide us with your suggestions.

Subject to Be Discussed.

I hope that the discussions of this conference will take as wide a scope as you think necessary. We are not met to discuss any single or narrow subject. We are met to discuss the proper method of restoring all the labor conditions of the country to a normal basis as soon as possible, and to effecting such fresh allocations of labor and industry as the circumstances may make necessary. I think I can testify from what I have seen on the other side of the water that we are more fortunate than other nations in respect to these great problems. Our industries have been disturbed and disorganized—disorganized as compared with a peace basis, very seriously, indeed, by the war, but not so seriously as the industries of other countries; and it seems to me, therefore, that we should approach these problems that we are about to discuss with a good deal of confidence—with a good deal of confidence that if we have a common purpose we can realize that common purpose without serious or insurmountable difficulties.

Business of Government.

The thing that has impressed me most, gentlemen, not only in the recent weeks when I have been in conference on the other side of the water, but for many months before I went across the water, was this: We are at last learning that the business of government is to take counsel for the average man. We are at last learning that the whole matter of the prosperity of peoples runs down into the great body of the men and women who do the work of the world, and that the process of guidance is not completed by the mere success of great enterprises—it is completed only by the standard of the benefit that it confers upon those who in the obscure ranks of life contribute to the success of those enterprises. The hearts of the men and women and children of the world are stirred now in a way that has never been known before. They are not only stirred by their individual circumstances, but they are beginning to get a vision of what the general circumstances of the world are, and there is for the first time in history an international sympathy which is quick and vital—a sympathy which does not display itself merely in the contact of Governments, but displays itself in the silent intercourse of sympathy between great bodies that constitute great nations, and the significance of a conference like this is that we are expressing in it, and will, I believe, express in the results of this conference, our consciousness that we are servants of this great silent mass of people who constitute the United States, and that as their servants it is our business, as it is our privilege, to find out how we can best assist in making their lives what they wish them to be, giving them the opportunities that they ought to have, assisting by

TRIBUTE TO THE FLAG BY ARMY MORALE OFFICER IN 4-MINUTE TALK TO MEN ABOUT TO BE DISCHARGED

The following is a "four-minute-talk" delivered by a morale officer at Columbus Barracks, just before retreat, to men about to be discharged, and herewith published as a matter of general interest:

MEN: You have been gathered here to-day, in the presence of your comrades, to pay your last formal tribute to the flag before your final separation from the service.

This is the flag for which you have sacrificed so much. This is the flag which has been glorified and sanctified by your sacrifices and the blood of your fallen comrades "over there." Behold your flag, the apotheosis of a just and glorious victory!

As you return to civil life, remember the ideals of liberty, of good government, of law and order, for all of which this flag stands and ever will stand, and to all of which it has been dedicated by you.

At all times, pay it the honor and reverence which you, as soldiers, pay it now.

public counsel in the private affairs upon which the happiness of men depends.

Servants of 700,000,000 People.

And so I am the more distressed that I can not take part in these councils because my present business is to understand what plain men everywhere want. It is perfectly understood in Paris that we are not meeting there as the masters of anybody—that we are meeting there as the servants of, I believe it is, about 700,000,000 people, and that unless we show that we understand the business of servants we will not satisfy them and we will not accomplish the peace of the world, and that if we show that we want to serve any interest but theirs we will have become candidates for the most lasting discredit that will ever attach to men in history. And so it is with this profound feeling of the significance of the things you are undertaking that I bid you welcome, because I believe you have come together in the spirit which I have tried to indicate, and that we will together concert methods of cooperation and individual action which will really accomplish what we wish to see accomplished in steady and easing and facilitating the whole labor processes of the United States.

ARMY RESERVE FOOD OVERSEAS SOLD TO FRANCE AND BELGIUM

The War Department authorizes the following statement from the Office of the Director of Purchase and Storage:

Army reserve stocks of foodstuffs which were held in France to safeguard the supply for the troops in case of emergency are now being reduced. Large sales have been made to the French and Belgian Governments of beans, milk, rice, coffee, and flour; the strongest demand being for evaporated milk. The quantity of food now sent to the Army in France by the Subsistence Division is much reduced, heavy cancellations having been made in February shipments of bacon, tinned bacon, canned meats, canned salmon, flour, cornmeal, baking powder, rice, dried beans, canned tomatoes, syrup, green coffee, pickles, salt, butter, cinnamon, and flavoring extracts. These sales and cancellations are in line with the program to eventually reduce overseas stocks to 45 days supply.

ATTORNEY GENERAL REFUSES TO RECOMMEND GENERAL AMNESTY FOR ESPIONAGE LAW PRISONERS

REASONS IN LETTER TO PRESIDENT

"In no Sense Political Prisoners," But Convicted of Willful Violation of Law—Cases Reviewed and Commutations Are Recommended in Some Instances.

The Department of Justice makes public the following:

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 1, 1919.

The honorable the President of the United States, The White House.

MY DEAR MR. PRESIDENT: During the past month I have received a number of communications from individuals referring to the administration of the so-called espionage laws and demanding that I recommend a general amnesty for all persons convicted thereunder, whom the writers of these communications describe as "political prisoners." There has also been some agitation by the press in certain quarters, making in substance the same demand.

Not Political Prisoners.

The persons convicted and sentenced for a violation of this statute are in no sense "political prisoners," and they have not been convicted for mere expression of opinion. All of them have been convicted upon a trial by jury of a wilful violation of a law whose sole aim was to prevent deliberate obstruction in the prosecution of the war. The statute under which they were convicted required in every instance that proof be made of their wilfulness and of an evil intent to hinder this country in the conduct of the war; and the assertion that, as a class, these defendants are "political prisoners" is one which can not be sustained. I can not recommend an indiscriminate pardon of these persons.

Exceptions in Some Cases.

There naturally have been some cases in which the evidence of wilful intent was indirect or circumstantial in character, and it has happened that in close cases of this type injustice resulted to certain defendants because of the all-prevalent condition of intense patriotism and aroused emotions on the part of jurors. By repeated instructions to the prosecuting officers I sought to safeguard the rights of defendants against this danger, and the members of the Federal Judiciary, with substantial unanimity, endeavored to protect defendants from the ill results of any such conditions. That injustice did result in certain cases of this type must be conceded; it could hardly be otherwise. For the same reasons it is apparent that in certain individual cases the severity of the sentences imposed would sometimes be out of proportion to the intrinsic character of the offense committed.

Having these considerations in mind, some three months ago I caused a review to be instituted by several of my most

HELP THE VICTORY LIBERTY LOAN.

Upon receipt of such information the Federal Trade Commission will call for trusted assistants of all cases in which men have been convicted under the espionage law or other so-called war statutes. In making this review we have borne in mind the necessity for correcting any mistakes such as I have described, as well as the danger of interfering arbitrarily with that administration of the law for which our civil courts have deserved such high praise during the critical days of war.

The result of this careful analysis and review of each individual case satisfies me that in most cases of conviction substantial justice was done defendants by the conduct of the trial, the character of the evidence, and the sentences imposed. In other cases, however, I am satisfied that the ends of justice do not now require that the sentences imposed by the court during the war need be enforced with full severity.

Warrants of Commutation.

I, therefore, have the honor to submit herewith warrants of commutation embodying my recommendations to you for the exercise of executive clemency to the extent indicated in each particular case. The work of reviewing all convictions has not been completed, and I shall later take the liberty of submitting recommendations in some of the remaining cases.

The same practice of careful scrutiny and analysis is being followed out with respect to all cases now pending under the espionage act, in order that, so far as possible, only those cases shall be prosecuted which have substantial merit and are clearly prima facie violations of law.

Respectfully,
T. W. GREGORY,
Attorney General.

FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD'S WEEKLY BANK STATEMENT

Substantial increases in the holdings of war paper, only partly offset by liquidation of other discounts, and corresponding increases in net deposits are indicated in the Federal Reserve Board's weekly bank statement issued as at close of business on February 28, 1919.

War paper on hand shows an increase for the week of 73.2 millions while other discounted bills decreased 11.9 millions. Holdings of acceptances show a gain of about 7 millions. Inter-bank rediscounting accounts also for some changes in the holdings by the Chicago, Kansas City, and San Francisco banks of both war paper and acceptances. United States bonds on hand fell off 1 million, while United States short-term securities show an increase of 8.6 millions, largely due to temporary investments in 4½ per cent Treasury certificates by the New York bank. Total earning assets were 2,339.5 millions, or 75.9 millions larger than the week before.

Government Deposits Increased.

Government deposits show an increase for the week of 4.9 millions, reserve deposits an increase of 57.1 millions, and net deposits an increase of 65.9 millions. Gold reserves declined about 2 millions and total cash reserves about 2.8 millions. Federal Reserve notes in circulation show an increase for the week of over 6 millions, the New York bank reporting an even larger increase. The banks' reserve percentage, largely because of the considerable increase in deposit liabilities, shows a decline from 52.2 to 51.3 per cent.

PREFERENCE GIVEN TO WOUNDED IN SHIPPING SOLDIERS HOME, WAR DEPARTMENT ANNOUNCES

METHOD OF HANDLING EXPLAINED

Disabled Men Who are Eligible For Discharge First—No Delay Countenanced Even if Soldiers' Records are Not Complete.

The War Department authorizes the following:

Disabled soldiers in France who are eligible for discharge from the service, are being sent home as rapidly as transportation facilities will permit. The method of handling these men who are termed "D class cases," is described by the Chief Surgeon of the American Expeditionary Forces, in a report to the War Department.

General Pershing's Orders.

Gen. Pershing has directed that no patient be held in France while there is transportation home available. No delay is countenanced even if the soldiers' records are not complete, as supplementary records are made as patients are received.

Preference in shipment home of wounded soldiers is given to men who are disabled and slated for discharge from the service. Men who are to remain in the regular Army are in class A, while those disabled and to be discharged are in class D. In all base hospitals boards are constituted which classify sick and wounded with respect to their probability of discharge or retention in the service. These boards submit weekly reports to the Chief Surgeon on delays in classification or evacuation of patients from hospitals.

Collected by Hospital Trains.

Disability cases are collected by D class hospital trains for transfer to hospitals at base ports and shipment to the United States. These men are assigned to outbound ships according to the naval ratings, the number of cases requiring beds or dressings, and men suffering fractures or mental ailments. Care is taken to guard against injustices in the matter of treatment or transfer home, and instructors are on duty at the base port hospitals to inform all men of their rights and privileges in connection with discharges.

Transfers from Base Hospitals.

The transfer of patients from hospitals in the base sections is under the direction of the surgeon of the section, who receives the notices of sailings of vessels for America, allots the space, and regulates the movements. During the submarine warfare the time of notification of sailings was necessarily short, but it has been increased and now the preparation of patients for transfer home has greatly developed. The Navy is cooperating, having liaison medical officers at the ports, with the result that the work of transferring the patients

Freight Rate Difference, Carcass and Boneless Beef

The following statement appears in the text summary, regarding supplies, of the statistics branch, General Staff, under date of March 1, 1919:

"The difference in the freight rates between carcass and boneless beef, at the present rate of issue, represents a saving of $73,000 daily. Carcass beef contains 25 pounds of bone per 100 pounds of meat, and requires twice the shipping space. Boneless beef can be handled in warm weather as well as carcass, provided it is not defrosted at any time in transit."

home is much improved and progressing in a satisfactory manner.

All soldiers who have undergone amputations are looked after in one section of the hospital at Savenay with a staff of trainers and instructors, and these wards are described as models in the care and rehabilitation of the wounded. When this class of disabled men are transferred from a hospital for return home instructions for their help and care are given to those who will thereafter be responsible for their welfare until discharged.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE CONGRESS BRIEFLY TOLD

SENATE.

After protracted debate the Senate shortly before 7 o'clock Sunday morning passed the Victory Liberty loan bill identically as enacted by the House and without roll call. As soon as it is signed by the presiding officers of the two houses it will be sent to the President. Both Houses were in session yesterday for a short time for eulogies on deceased members. The Senate made the third general deficiency appropriation bill the unfinished business and proceeded with its consideration this morning. This bill was amended in the Senate committee by the addition of the bill passed by the House providing for $750,000,000 for the Railroad Administration. Republicans admitted that this bill would pass and probably the Military Academy and the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill, but expressed doubts concerning all the other appropriation bills still pending. The agricultural appropriation bill may get through, but Republican leaders stated specifically that the Army, Navy, and sundry civil bill would not be permitted to come to a vote. The District of Columbia bill probably will fall because of the existing deadlock in conference over the plan of conducting the financial affairs of the District.

During Saturday's session two prepared speeches on the constitution of the proposed league of nations were delivered. One was by Senator Knox, Republican, of Pennsylvania, and one by Senator Hardwick, Democrat, of Georgia. Both Senators spoke in opposition. The conference report on the oil land leasing bill was called up by Senator Pittman Saturday afternoon, party leaders having allowed him four hours in which to try to obtain action, the House already having adopted the report. Senator La Follette obtained the floor and spoke in opposition to the bill for four hours and yielded the floor for other business with the understanding that he was to resume it if the oil leasing bill should again be brought forward. Senator Pittman stated later that the bill was dead for this session. The Indian appropriation bill was passed and sent to conference, and the Senate receding from its amendments to the fortification bill, the conference report was agreed to and that measure sent to the President.

A favorable report was made from the Interstate Commerce Committee on the bill to restore to the Interstate Commerce Commission all its rate-making powers. The Judiciary Committee ordered a favorable report on the nomination of A. Mitchell Palmer, of Pennsylvania, to be Attorney General. Senator Gore, Democrat, of Oklahoma, introduced a resolution calling upon the American peace delegates at the peace conference to submit an amendment to the constitution of the League of Nations providing for national referendums on declarations of war and unacceptable decisions of the league's executive council. In response to a resolution Postmaster General Burleson informed the Senate that the expenditures of the Post Office Department have been increased approximately $52,735,000 because of the war. The nomination of John Skelton Williams to succeed himself as Comptroller of the Currency was called up in executive session late Saturday night, but it was forced aside through objections from Republicans. It will be considered at a further executive session to be held before final adjournment.

In addition to a list of postmasters the President on Saturday sent to the Senate the following nominations:

To be United States circuit judges: George T. Page, Peoria, Ill., seventh circuit; Thomas G. Haight, Newark, N. J., third circuit.

To be United States attorneys: J. M. Clements, Helena, Mont.; W. L. Hensley, of Farmington, for the eastern district of Missouri.

To be United States marshals: Herman O'Connor, Grand Rapids, western district of Michigan; Thomas D. McCarthy, New York City, for the southern district of New York.

HOUSE.

Yesterday the House adopted the conference report on the hospital construction bill. Shortly after midnight of Saturday the House, by a vote of 182 to 173, unseated Zebulon Weaver, Democrat, of the tenth North Carolina district and seated James J. Britt, Republican, who was immediately sworn in. This action followed many hours of debate and parliamentary maneuvering, the Democrats fighting vainly to prevent the final vote from being taken. The House yesterday took up and gave the right of way this morning to the bill giving the President authority to utilize existing agencies or create new ones to put into effect the Government's guarantee of $2.25 a bushel for the wheat crop of 1919. Late Saturday the joint resolution was passed repealing the luxury tax section of the war revenue act.

The Rules Committee reported favorably on special rules giving a privileged status to a number of measures that may be called up before adjournment. These include a resolution requesting the American delegates to the peace conference to urge independence for Ireland; the McKellar-Keating civil service retirement bill; the bill appropriating $100,000,000 for reclamation of lands to make them available for homes for discharged soldiers; a bill providing for the deportation of interned alien enemies; a resolution for the investigation of the New York and New Orleans cotton exchanges. Chairman Pou of the Rules Committee, announced that no effort would be made to pass the resolution designed to end Federal control of wire systems by December 31 next. The Suffrage Committee favorably reported a modified suffrage resolution identical with that reported to the Senate. Conference on the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill reached an agreement and accepted Senate amendments providing for ministers to Czecho-Slovakia and to Poland. Before the Interstate Commerce Committee Secretary Redfield urged an appropriation of $100,000 for the purpose of promoting foreign trade at home and abroad through the use of motion pictures.

He is hereby further authorized in the carrying out of the aforesaid act of February 24, 1919, to contract with the Food Administration Grain Corporation or any other person or corporation, that such person or corporation shall carry stocks of food in transit to Europe, and at points in Europe, in such quantities as may be agreed upon and as are required to meet relief needs, and that there shall be paid to such person or corporation in advance from the appropriation made in the aforesaid act of February 24, 1919, any sums which may be required for the purchase and transportation of foodstuffs and the maintenance of stocks.

HIGHER WAGE FOR FIELD FORCE IN THE U. S. CUSTOMS SERVICE IS URGED BY SECRETARY GLASS

The Treasury Department authorizes the following statement:

The importance of securing adequate compensation for the field force of the customs service, especially those who are receiving a compensation less than $5 per day, is set forth in a communication of Secretary Glass to the Senate Committee on Appropriations. The increased cost of living has made it imperative to readjust the compensation of customs employees, in order that they may be in a position to support their families and to provide for the education of their children. The matter was brought to the attention of the Congress on December 3 last, and in his communication to Senator Martin, Secretary Glass strongly emphasizes the importance of bringing the compensation of customs employees into some direct relation with the cost of living.

Letter to Senator Martin.

The communication to Senator Martin reads as follows:

"MARCH 1, 1919.

"MY DEAR SENATOR: On December 3, last, Secretary McAdoo sent to the Speaker of the House a revised estimate of the appropriation for defraying the cost of collecting the customs revenue for the fiscal year 1920, in which the original estimate of $10,000,000, for the fiscal year 1920 was increased to $11,385,464.

"The House Committee on Appropriations reduced this estimate to $10,000,000, and in this form the item was passed by the House in the Sundry Civil bill.

"I desire to emphasize the importance of restoring this item to the amount designated in the revised estimate of Secretary McAdoo, viz, $11,385,464. I am moved both by reasons of efficiency and economy to urge this matter strongly to your favorable consideration.

Will Lose Efficient Men.

"It has become imperatively necessary to place the compensation of the field force of the customs service on a basis in some measure commensurate with the increased cost of living. Unless this is done we can not hope to retain efficient men in the service. The experience of the last year has shown that we are losing some of our best men, and the efficiency of the service therefore requires an appropriation sufficient to assure inspectors, examiners, customs guards, openers and packers, weighers, deputy collectors, laborers, and other employees, a compensation adequate to enable them to support their families. In addition to assuring efficiency in the service, such an increased appropriation is a matter of basic justice to the men who have entered upon this career and who have no outside sources of income.

"I sincerely hope that this matter may have the favorable consideration of your Committee, and beg to remain,

"Very cordially yours,

"CARTER GLASS,

"Secretary.

"Honorable THOMAS S. MARTIN, Chairman, Committee on Appropriations, United States Senate, Washington."

Secretary Daniels authorizes the following:

"Every person in the military or naval service who has resigned or has been discharged or released from active duty under honorable conditions after April 6, 1917, or who hereafter resigns or is discharged from active duty, with certain exceptions shown below, is entitled to a gratuity of $60.

The persons entitled to this gratuity are, briefly:

The heirs or legal representatives of a person who is entitled to this gratuity do not become entitled to it. It is provided as an aid to discharged men until they can obtain employment, and bears no relation to pensions, insurance, or compensation.

NATURAL GAS ORDER MODIFIED BY THE FUEL ADMINISTRATION

Mild Weather and Lateness of Season Cause for Relaxation of Central West Rule.

On account of the prevailing mild weather and the lateness of the season, the United States Fuel Administration to-day announced that it has acted favorably upon an application for the modification of an order issued on December 12. This order limited to preferred classes the supply of natural gas during the winter months in communities of Ohio and Indiana, dependent on the supply of the Logan Natural Gas & Fuel Co.

Result of a Hearing.

This action is also the result of a hearing held in Pittsburgh on February 17, at which no decision was reached because the company through whose mains the gas supply flows was unprepared to furnish an estimate of the surplus supply which they claimed to have available. This estimate has since been furnished.

The order just issued modifies and amends the order of December 12 as follows:

"Natural gas may be distributed for industrial purposes to consumers classified in a lower class than class 3 out of any actual surplus available throughout the various communities served by the above companies, to be distributed equitably to consumers desiring same. However, it is expressly directed that in the event of the pressure at either Richmond, Ind., or Muncie, Ind., falling below 25 pounds or in the event the Weather Bureau forecasts a material drop in temperature that would create a demand by domestic consumers for all of the available supply, then the distribution to such industrial consumers, not only in class 4, but those in 3 and 2, if necessary, shall be discontinued immediately and shall not be resumed as to class 4 until, and unless, the pressure at the aforesaid cities shall have been at least 25 pounds for a least 48 hours and the weather conditions justify a resumption of such distribution.

Orders to Logan Co.

"The Logan Natural Gas & Fuel Co. is directed to advise promptly all of the respective companies to which it furnishes gas, of any conditions, including weather forecasts, that will probably result in curtailing the quantity of gas so supplied to them. This notice should be given as far in advance as possible, so that the companies to whom gas is supplied may in turn notify promptly their customers in class 4 or higher. Notification of ability to resume delivery must be given with equal promptness.

"It is the desire of the Fuel Administration to facilitate the reasonable distribution of all surplus gas to industrial consumers, but it is desired to emphasize the fact that the distribution to domestic consumers in the respective communities affected by this order is of first importance. This order is made in an endeavor to supply adequately the domestic needs and at the same time, make any surplus promptly available for industrial consumers.

"If it is found that this order works

Internal Revenue Bureau Statement On Income Tax Payment By Persons In the Military or Naval Service

The Bureau of Internal Revenue issues the following:

With a view to assisting persons in the military and naval forces of the United States in preparing their income tax returns for the year 1918 attention is called to the holdings of this office under previous income tax acts and to the provisions of the revenue bill as passed by Congress.

It has been held that interest on deposits made with disbursing officers after September 1, 1917, under authority of section 1305, Revised Statutes, as amended by the act of July 1, 1906, on deposits made under authority of section 203 of the act of October 6, 1917, and on amounts of compensation not drawn, represents taxable income; and that the following items represent compensation for services rendered and should be returned as income:

Items Regarded as Income.

Quarters furnished within the allowance provided by law, or a room furnished as quarters only; that is, a room other than barracks to which several men are assigned.

Heat and light furnished within the allowance provided by law.

Allowance drawn from the Government as the equivalent of clothing, not drawn.

The commutation of rations.

Marksmanship pay or extra-duty pay. Traveling pay to discharged officers or enlisted men.

Mileage allowance, claiming as a deduction the actual necessary traveling expenses.

Allowance in lieu of subsistence while traveling under orders, claiming as a deduction the actual necessary traveling expenses.

Not Considered Compensation.

On the other hand, it has been held that the following items are furnished by the Government for its own purposes rather than as compensation to the officer or enlisted man and the money equivalent thereof should not be returned as income.

Clothing and rations furnished in kind.

Gratuitous medical and hospital treatment.

Tent or other temporary shelter.

Room furnished at a permanent military post used for sleeping quarters and office combined.

The Family Allowance.

The family allowance provided for under article 2 of the war risk insurance act was held to be subject to tax prior to the amendment of June 25, 1918. In view of this amendment, allotments, family allowances, compensation, and death or disability insurance payable under the war risk insurance act of September 12, 1914, as amended, were held to be exempt from tax, and the former ruling was made to apply only in the case of assessments made prior to the date of the amendment, June 25, 1918.

any undue hardship upon domestic consumers, the order of December 12 will be reinstated immediately."

The forfeiture of pay by court-martial has not constituted a proper deduction. This, however, reduces gross income. Other debts of pay in the nature of collections by the Government of money due from the officer or enlisted man, either to the Government or to a third person, have been disallowed as deductions unless such payments would be deductible if made directly by the officer or enlisted man.

The revenue bill as passed by Congress provides that "so much of the amount received during the present war by a person in the military or naval forces of the United States as salary or compensation in any form from the United States for active services in such forces, as does not exceed $3,500" shall be exempt from tax and need not be reported for the purpose of the income tax.

Exemption of Income.

The exemption of income to an amount of $3,500 applies only to the income derived from salary or compensation during the present war for active service in the military or naval forces, and no portion thereof can be applied to income of an officer or enlisted man received for any other services or derived from any other source.

In accordance with this provision, if a person's entire income for the year 1918 was received for active service in the military or naval forces of the United States and, including the items hereinbefore referred to as representing income, did not exceed $3,500, such person is not required to file an income tax return for the year 1918; and in determining whether or not net income is sufficient to require the filing of a return, no cognizance is to be taken of that portion of the income of a person which is exempt under this provision.

certificate of discharge or orders to inactive duty. If the original discharge or orders are lost, it will be necessary to obtain not only a duplicate but a statement from the officer by whom final settlement of account was made that no gratuity was paid at discharge. This will take time, of course, but is reasonable and necessary in order to avoid duplication of payments.

No particular form of claim is required. A letter requesting the gratuity, stating the dates of enlistment and separation from the service and the present address, with the original discharge or orders to inactive duty attached, will be sufficient. Care must be taken to address such claims properly as shown above.

Claims will be considered in order of receipt, and every effort will be made to pay them promptly. The large number which is expected at once may cause some delay in their settlement, but they will be paid as rapidly as possible.

ACTIVITIES OF THE RED CROSS AT AMERICAN CAMP AT BREST

The American Red Cross authorizes the following:

While the military authorities are striving night and day to overcome the all-pervading mud that has resulted from almost uninterrupted rain at Pontanezan, the big embarkation camp near Brest, the American Red Cross is increasing its activities toward making more comfortable the American troops that must tarry there on their homeward journey. The organization has already established four enlisted men's huts and one officer's hut in addition to the system of comfort distribution in the camp proper.

Warm, Dry "Loafing Place."

These huts provide a warm, dry, "loafing place," with plenty of reading material and music. A canteen organization distributes cigarettes, chocolates, and other things that appeal to the doughboy, while the camp service system of the Red Cross provides all men in need of warm clothing with woolen sweaters, socks, mufflers, etc. Accordingly, much has been accomplished toward overcoming depression.

Other Activities.

Aside from this the Red Cross carries on its regular hospital distribution service and searching for missing men whose relatives have made anxious inquiries, as well as the final service to the men when they board the transport, a parting lunch and supply of cigarettes and sweets.

San Blas Indians Inspected by U. S. Fliers on "Hunting Trip."

Reporting to the Division of Aeronautics from France field, Cristobal, Canal Zone, on January 25, 1919, the information officer writes as follows:

This week a flight was made to San Blas, Republic of Panama, in an HSIL flying boat, a distance of 180 miles being covered in about 140 minutes. On the trip to San Blas the boat carried four passengers (including pilots) and about 200 pounds of extra equipment. Two of the passengers were Air Service men who are on hunting pass, and in addition will make a hurried survey of conditions in the San Blas territory. The San Blas Tribe of Indians is an old race, with many historical traditions. They have never been conquered, and the Panamanian Government is making some effort to educate them and to strengthen their allegiance to the Republic. A peculiarly shy and childlike people, these Indians have many habits of dress and adornment which are interesting. All their women wear nose rings of imitation gold almost from infancy, cover their heads and faces with cheap cotton shawls of elaborate design, wrap their legs tightly with a fabric strip, and paint a stripe of varying color on their noses. The chief men are distinguished by circular earrings, also of imitation gold.

War Collection of National Museum, Already Started, to be Developed Into a Great Historical Exhibition

The United States National Museum is now assembling and has recently begun the installation of a collection of material relating to the war which will form one of the most important ever shown in the museum. The object of the collection is to preserve and exhibit for the benefit of the public a series of objects graphically illustrating the military and naval activities of all of the countries engaged in the war—the United States, its allies, and the enemy—and will, in addition to the military and naval features, include foods and other economic specimens. The immense value of such a museum collection when once assembled can not be overestimated either from the popular or scientific point of view.

General Class of Collection.

The collection will consist principally of the following general classes of material, but will be expanded to cover others also:

Military and naval decorations and medals, including types of military decorations, medals, and badges awarded to officers and enlisted men of the Army and Navy for service prior to and during the progress of the conflict.

Commemorative medals, including all medals commemorating notable events during the progress of the war, and other numismatic material issued during the war, including medallion souvenirs of all kinds.

Military and naval service insignia, including all types of devices and designs showing the different ranks and branches of the service.

Individual military and naval equipment, including the equipment of the individual enlisted man of the various branches of the service, such as clothing, arms, and other paraphernalia.

General military equipment, including tank, field, and machine guns, and other objects employed or used by the military squads and organizations rather than by individual soldiers.

Air-service equipment, including airplanes and other accessories of this most important branch of the military war activities.

General naval equipment, including models of ships, naval guns, and types of other war paraphernalia employed by the Navy in the prosecution of hostilities.

Mementos of Persons and Events.

Mementos of persons, including relics of noted individuals serving with the Army or the Navy or otherwise identified with the war activities.

Mementos of events, including relics of events of special note occurring during the war.

Pictures, maps, books, pamphlets, manuscripts, and other objects of the same character relating to the progress of the war.

The material noted parallels closely in character that which is now being assembled by the British Imperial War Museum, which has been recently established to preserve museum material relating to the war. The initial installation of the National Museum's war collection has been made in the arts and industries building of the museum amid dignified and appropriate surroundings, with an adequate allowance of space and in suitable cases.

The museum has secured the cordial cooperation of the War and Navy Departments, which are furnishing most interesting exhibits of equipment and paraphernalia at present used in the Army and Navy. The War Department further has undertaken to assist the museum in securing material from abroad relating to the enemy countries.

The naval features of the collection are as yet undeveloped, but these will soon be represented in the exhibition series which will undoubtedly grow very rapidly, through the cooperation of the other Government departments and contributions from individuals.

LIVE STOCK PRODUCT PRICES LAGGING BEHIND FEEDSTUFFS

The Department of Agriculture issues the following:

Higher prices of the crops eaten by live stock should find their way into higher prices for live-stock products. Eventually they may, but there is what the Bureau of Crop Estimates of the United States Department of Agriculture calls a "lag." Product prices do not fully respond at once to advance in feed prices. Such was the situation of farmers with regard to the prices of dairy products and other animal products from 1915 to 1918, and the lag was heavily felt by farmers in 1917.

Crop Price Increases.

From 1915 to 1916 crop prices increased 47 per cent, from 1915 to 1917 about 110 per cent, and from 1915 to 1918 about 120 per cent. During the same time the total value of animal products on the farm did not correspondingly gain, although a tendency to overtake the lag appeared in 1918.

In the meantime live stock has increased in number and price, and enormously in total value, although not enough to hold its place in the procession, and it is interesting to compare the total value of live-stock products with the total value of the live stock itself year by year during the war. In each of the three years, 1913-1915, the aggregate value of live-stock products was 65 per cent of the aggregate value of live stock. The ratio went up to 68 per cent in 1916, made a great advance to 78 per cent in 1917, and to 84 per cent in 1918. Live-stock value, compounded of increasing number and increasing price, lagged behind the advancing value of live-stock products.

In Accordance With Experience.

That there should have been a lag in the advance of live-stock value, compared with the advance in the value of live-stock products, is in accordance with experience, but these products themselves lagged in price behind the price of the crops eaten in their production. Consequently some unprofitable production of animal products may have accompanied the lag of live-stock value behind value of products.

Import License Modified For Fruit and Vegetables

The War Trade Board announces in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 626) that general import license PFB No. 24, as described in W. T. B. R. 471, published December 28, 1918, "covering the importation of all fresh fruits and vegetables from all sources," and amended February 15, 1919 (W. T. B. R. 596), to exclude bananas therefrom, has been modified to permit the entry of such fruit, and individual import licenses will hereafter not be necessary for the importation of bananas. PFB No. 24 as amended now reads:

"Covering the importation into the United States of fresh fruits and fresh vegetables from all sources."

Gold Imports and Exports For Month Ending Jan. 10

The Federal Reserve Board issues the following:

During the month ending January 10 the net outward movement of gold was $93,000, as compared with a net inward movement of $1,280,000 for the month ending December 10.

Gold imports for the month amounting to $1,595,000 came largely from Canada, Mexico, and Colombia, while gold exports totaling $1,688,000 were consigned chiefly to Colombia, Mexico, and Canada.

Attention is called to the report of the British gold production committee, addressed to the lords commissioners of the treasury under date of November 29, an abstract of which is printed elsewhere in this issue. It furnishes much additional light upon the gold-production situation and the trend of British opinion upon this important question.

The gain in the country's stock of gold since August 1, 1914, was $1,071,576,000, as may be seen from the following exhibit.

The Office of Indian Affairs issues the following:

CIRCULAR No. 1511.

FEBRUARY 7, 1919.

To superintendents and other disbursing officers:

The restrictions on the manufacture of woolen clothing having been removed by the War Industries Board, woolen school and police uniforms made from "forestry green" or "winterfield" shade cloth will be purchased for the Indian Service for the fiscal year 1920.

The supplemental annual estimate blank should therefore be considered immediately in connection with the regular annual estimate for 1920 at all jurisdictions where woolen uniforms will be required. Three copies should be filled in for each school and for the police and returned to this office. One copy will eventually be returned to you.

If corduroy or khaki clothing has already been estimated for, for the fiscal year 1920, with the idea that woolen ("forestry green" or "winterfield") clothing would not be furnished for 1920, there should be shown on the supplemental annual estimate attached hereto what, if any, corduroy or khaki clothing is to be now eliminated. Please prepare and return these estimates without delay.

INFORMATION CONCERNING TITLE TO WIDOW'S PENSION

The Bureau of Pensions authorizes the following:

This bureau can not undertake to determine, in advance of the filing of a claim and evidence to establish the essential facts, whether a pension can probably be allowed. The only conditions under which a widow may have title to pension based on any military or naval service rendered since March 4, 1861, and prior to October 6, 1917, are stated below:

1. Under the provisions of the act of April 19, 1908, as amended by the act of September 8, 1916, the widow of an officer or enlisted man of the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps of the United States, who served therein at least 90 days during the Civil War and was honorably discharged, may be entitled to pension, without regard to the cause of his death or her financial status, provided she was married to him prior to June 27, 1905. The rate of pension subsequent to October 6, 1917, is $25 per month, and $2 additional for each of his children under the age of sixteen years. Pension, if allowed, commences from the date of filing a valid declaration in the bureau. (Application blank No. 3-015.)

Rate According to Rank.

The rate of pension ranges from $12 to $30 per month, according to the rank of the soldier or sailor, with $2 additional for each of his children under the age of 16 years. (Application blank No. 3-006.)

The rate of pension is $12 per month, and $2 additional for each of his children under the age of 16 years. Pension, if allowed,

Reorganization of Secondary Education As Recommended in Report Submitted By the National Association Commission

Cardinal Principles in Secondary Education, the chief document prepared by the National Education Association Commission on the Reorganization of Secondary Education, has just been issued by the Bureau of Education.

The report presents in the brief space of some 30 pages various important principles to guide the reorganization of America's most distinctive educational institution. No other country has enrolled so many or such a large proportion of its youth in secondary schools as has the United States. Nevertheless, secondary education is still far from meeting the needs of many important groups of young persons.

Democracy and the High School.

As a basis for its presentation the commission holds that the purpose of democracy is to so organize society that each member may develop his personality primarily through activities designed for the well-being of his fellow members and of society as a whole.

This definition emphasizes efficiency, but in no narrow sense. Efficiency in America must be based upon an appreciation of social values. This conception of democracy demands also that the individual be helped to choose the vocation and the forms of social service in which his personality may become most effective. For the achievement of these ends democracy must place chief reliance upon education.

The Great Social Objectives.

The commission would focus secondary education upon what may be called the great social objectives, such as health, citizenship, vocation, worthy use of leisure, and ethical character. One of the main problems of education in the reconstruction period will be so to organize instruction that it will apply more directly and specifically to worthy living in democratic society. This implies no mean, narrow, bread and butter conception of education. On the contrary, the commission holds that the division of education into separate stages, the first general and the second vocational, is unsound. Health needs are important at all stages; the vocational aspect is valuable even in the early stages as giving greater purposefulness to schooling; while preparation for citizenship and the worthy use of leisure involve phases which require maturity on the part of the pupil. "Furthermore, it is only as the pupil sees his vocation in relation to his citizenship and commences from the date of filing a valid declaration in the bureau. (Application blank No. 3-020.)

5. The only general pension laws under which a widow may have title to pension based on service in the war with Spain or the Philippine Insurrection are sections 4702 and 4703, Revised Statutes of the United States (see par. 2) and the act of July 16, 1918 (see par. 4).

GAYLORD M. SALTZGABER,

his citizenship in the light of his vocation that he will be prepared for effective membership in an industrial democracy. Consequently, the commission enters its protest against any and all plans, however well intended, which are in danger of divorcing vocational and social-civic education. It stands squarely for the infusion of vocation with the spirit of service and for the utilization of culture by genuine contact with the world's work."

Compulsory High School Attendance.

The commission favors a six-year elementary school, followed by six years of secondary education, the latter to be divided into two periods corresponding to junior and senior high schools.

Compulsory High-School Attendance.

With secondary education reorganized so as to contribute more directly to the health, good citizenship, vocational efficiency, sterling character, and the ability to use leisure wisely, the commission holds that secondary education is essential for all the youth of the Nation. It urges legislation whereby all young people, whether employed or not, shall be required to attend the secondary school for at least eight hours in each week that the schools are in session.

Membership of the Commission.

The commission consists of Clarence D. Kingsley, chairman, State supervisor of high schools, Boston; P. P. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education, Washington; Thomas H. Briggs, Teachers' College, Columbia University, New York; Alexander Inglis, Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.; Henry Newmann, Ethical Culture School, New York City; William Orr, International Y. M. C. A. committee, New York City; Edward O. Sisson, president, University of Montana, Mont.; Joseph S. Stewart, University of Georgia, Athens, Ga.; Milo H. Stuart, principal, Technical High School, Indianapolis, Ind.; and H. L. Terry, State supervisor of high schools, Wisconsin.

AMERICANS REPLACE ALIENS.

Constitute Big Percentage of Fireroom Forces on Merchant Ships.

From 90 per cent aliens in the fireroom forces of American merchant ships when this country entered the war to 90 per cent Americans at present on vessels sailing from Pacific ports and nearly 50 per cent Americans on vessels sailing from Atlantic ports, is a striking change noted by Chairman Edward N. Hurley, of the United States Shipping Board, in a statement on the board's work in interesting young Americans in sea life.

American vessels are now sailing for deep-water voyages from both Atlantic and Pacific ports with native-born Americans only in their fireroom forces, Mr. Hurley states. Such a thing was unknown before the war.

ADVANCED RATINGS AWARDED OVERSEAS FLYING OFFICERS

The Division of Military Aeronautics issues the following:

Advanced flying ratings have been recommended to 20 officers of the Air Service who have distinguished themselves in action overseas. Among the officers so recognized are Lt. Col. Wm. Thaw, Maj. David McK. Peterson, Capt. Edward V. Rickenbacker, Capt. Reed G. Landis, Capt. Douglas Campbell, Capt. Edward G. Tobin, and Lieut. L. O. Donaldson, all credited with having shot down five or more planes.

First Awards by Board.

Those ratings are the first awards issued by a board formed under the direction of Maj. Gen. Wm. L. Kenley, Director of Military Aeronautics, to pass upon the qualifications and merits of flying officers who have distinguished themselves in action, with a view to awarding them such ratings as their achievements and abilities may warrant. This Board is composed of Col. Townsend F. Dodd, Lt. Col. B. F. Castle, Maj. Horace M. Hickam, and 1st Lieut. Sidney T. Thomas, of the Army Air Service.

The ratings awarded are those of the junior military aviator, carrying an increase of 50 per cent base pay for flying duty, and the military aviator carrying 75 per cent increased pay. Before the war the rating of junior military aviator was given after certain flying tests were passed and that of military aviator only after three years' experience as a junior military aviator. During the war the rating of reserve military aviator was created, and a law was passed which authorized the promotion and appointment of officers to advanced ratings for distinguished service in action, without examination. The operations in the United States are now vested in the above-mentioned board.

Flyers Just Recommended.

There follows a list of the 20 officers just recommended by the board for these ratings, 6 of whom are reported deceased. The ratings are indicated by the letters "J. M. A.," junior military aviator, and "M. A.," military aviator, the second being the senior rating. Following each name is the date from which the officer's new rating is recommended to take effect.

Inland Waterways and the Railroads Discussed in Director General's Report

In a chapter of his annual report devoted to inland waterways, former Director General of Railroads McAdoo says in part:

"Hundreds of millions of dollars have been expended by the Nation, the States, and citizens for the purpose of developing our inland waterways and for the construction of canals. Thousands of miles of rivers, canals, lakes, and bays are ready to assist in moving our products. These waterways, with the exception of the Great Lakes, are not being extensively used.

Work of Investigating Committee.

"With the assumption of my present task, I appointed a committee to make a prompt investigation and to suggest a definite plan for the additional use of internal waterways, for the economical and expeditious movement of the traffic of the country, so as to relieve or supplement the railways under the conditions caused by the war. This was the beginning of a program which has been constantly pursued, and while the greater urgency for raw materials in war work interfered with the construction of steamers and barges, 160 steel, wood, and concrete vessels are now building and 50 steel and wooden craft have been purchased. The total appropriation for old and new floating equipment exceeds eleven and three-quarter millions.

Coordination With Railroads.

"The increased responsibilities of this country in the family of nations will demand greater commercial activity on our part. Transportation is a major problem, for, on account of the extensive area of our country, we have a longer average haul to seaboard than other industrial commonwealths. It has seemed to me evident that by developing transportation on the waterways and coordinating and articulating them with a unified railway system, we shall bring about a correct solution of the rail-water controversy, which has been in progress for 50 years. This is possible with the railways under Federal control. I doubt if any of our rivers or canals will become active factors of transportation if the railroads are turned back to private control. The old methods of railway competition with the waterways doubtless will be revived and the waterway experiment may not be able to survive that competition.

OFFICERS DECEASED.

First Lieut. Fred W. Norton, J. M. A., July 2, 1918. Columbus, Ohio.
First Lieut. Edward Orr, J. M. A., August 28, 1918. Chicago, Ill.
First Lieut. Merton L. Campbell, M. A., August 13, 1918. Wakeman, Ohio.
First Lieut. Lloyd A. Hamilton, M. A., August 13, 1918. Burlington, Vt.
Second Lieut. Frank B. Bellows, J. M. A., September 13, 1918. Wilmette, Ill.
Second Lieut. Roger Hitchcock, J. M. A., August 11, 1918. Los Angeles, Cal.

"April 22 I created the New York Barge Canal Section of the United States Railroad Administration, appointed a general manager, and authorized the construction and acquisition of equipment for use upon the New York State Barge Canal, and, as an incident thereto, for use upon the waters connecting therewith, and the operation of such equipment."

The report reviews in detail the operation of this and other waterways and tells of increased traffic upon them during the war, but points out the lack of cooperation between carriers and shippers. Of rates on the barge canal, the report says:

"There has been a demand for a greater differential between the canal and the rail rates. In view of the actual cost of conducting the transportation on the canal during the last season, a greater differential appeared to be unjustified. The question whether there should be any readjustment of the differential is receiving consideration.

"During the season we have handled a total of 194,201 tons at total gross freight revenue of $522,883.50. These tonnage and revenue figures will be slightly changed when our season is finally completed. This tonnage represents a much larger proportion of the total traffic carried on the canal than would be indicated by a comparison with the total tons carried by all transportation agencies, because a large proportion of the Railroad Administration business is through business, whereas other transportation agencies are more largely engaged in local traffic so that the average distance is much greater on the Railroad Administration traffic."

WORK OF THE RED CROSS BUREAU OF COMMUNICATION

The American Red Cross authorizes the following:

The American Red Cross bureau of communication finds its work enormously increased since the signing of the armistice. More than 300 persons are now required to handle the vast volume of correspondence that keeps the folks at home informed about the men who are with the colors, for at this time between 80,000 and 90,000 letters are being handled by the bureau weekly.

Officials of the bureau attribute no small measure of the success of its work to the zeal and patriotism with which the hundreds of women and girls employed daily attack their task. Fully appreciating the importance of their work to thousands of American soldiers and their families, these workers maintain the highest morale and, steadily at work as all are kept through every hour of the day to keep abreast of the flood of correspondence, duty after hours is cheerfully performed by scores. Nearly 30 in the bureau are volunteer workers.

Established in May, 1917.

The bureau of communication was established in May, 1917, about a month after the United States entered the world war, with the title of bureau of information of casualties, to carry out the purpose expressed in that clause of the American Red Cross charter which empowers the society to act "in accord with the military and naval authorities as a medium of communication between the people of the United States of America and their Army and Navy, and to act in such matters between similar national societies of other Governments through the Comite International de Secours, and the Government and the people, and the Army and Navy of the United States of America."

The original personnel was 6 people, which grew to 30 in May, 1918, when the work of the bureau really got under way. By August the steadily growing force reached a total of 150 employees, and when the Germans surrendered the roster contained 220 names. Since that time it has been found necessary to add about 100 new workers to the staff.

During the early period of the bureau's activities last May about 1,800 letters were handled weekly. The number of letters received and sent in August was 26,000 weekly; and at the time the armistice was effected 50,000 were being handled weekly, the number almost doubling since then.

First Inquiry Letters.

The largest phase of the work consists of "first inquiry" letters from the families of soldiers who have not been heard from for a long period. These inquiries, sometimes reaching a total of 20,000 weekly, are referred to the Red Cross organization abroad, where scores of American Red Cross searchers are constantly ascertaining the location and condition of soldiers and transmitting the information to the families through the bureau here. About two months is ordinarily required for a report to come

FIRST ARMY CLEMENCY BOARD RECOMMENDATIONS APPROVED

Press interview by the Secretary of War March 1, 1919:

The first recommendations of the clemency board, headed by Gen. Ansell, which has been considering the courts-martial cases, have come through and have been approved. Recommendations will be coming through in large numbers from now on.

The total number of cases so far is 55; of these 11 have been disapproved—that is, clemency has not been granted by the committee. Forty-four were approved, of which 16 are remissions of the remaining portions of the penalty. The average amount of sentence still to be served by those who still have service after the remission of a portion of the penalty is about three years. The highest terms yet to be served, after remission of portion of penalty, is five years.

back from Paris, but sometimes the search is longer.

An instance of the persistence with which the searchers stick to their task, was revealed at the Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington, D. C., by a wounded soldier not long returned from France. As he was being carried aboard the transports at Liverpool, the soldier told a visitor, a Red Cross searcher ran up and greeted him by name. She had found him at last at the end of a four months' hunt.

Complicated by Return of Soldiers.

The return of soldiers, now steadily increasing, is greatly complicating the task of the bureau, for it is only in the last few days that the official lists of returned men have been available at the War Department. Files are being built up, however, that will make unnecessary the reference of many inquiries to Paris.

In this activity there is also a large wire correspondence. It is the policy of the bureau to answer telegrams by telegraph, involving the handling of about 200 land-wire messages daily. Also, in urgent cases, such as where a soldier has not been heard from or where there is a conflict in reports concerning a soldier, the cable is used. About 250 such cablegrams are being handled daily.

This service embraces the supplying, verification, and details of deaths and wounding. The stories of eyewitnesses or companions of the soldiers are obtained in the first case, while hospital reports and the soldier's own story are forwarded in the latter. So well organized is this work that there have been cases where families have received weekly hospital reports for weeks without a break. At present from 10,000 to 20,000 hospital reports are coming from abroad every week.

Miscellaneous Inquiries.

Other important branches of this work are handling miscellaneous inquiries, which alone keep 10 correspondents busy; locating men reported missing in action, forwarding letters to enemy countries, in accordance with Government regulations, and, not least, sending individual letters of condolence to the families whose sons have made the supreme sacrifice.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY ESTIMATE OF 1918 IRON ORE PRODUCTION

Statistics and estimates of the production of iron ore in 1918, compiled under the direction of Ernest F. Burchard, of the United States Geological Survey, show a moderate decrease in output compared with the high records of 1916 and 1917.

The estimated quantity of iron ore mined in the United States in 1918 amounted to 69,712,900 gross tons, compared with 75,288,851 tons in 1917, a decrease of 7.4 per cent.

Shipment from Mines.

The estimated shipments of ore from the mines in 1918 were 72,192,000 gross tons valued at $246,043,000, compared with 75,573,207 tons, valued at $238,260,444 in 1917, a decrease in quantity of 4.5 per cent but an increase in value of 3.3 per cent. The average selling value of the ore per gross ton at the mines for the whole United States in 1918 was $3.41, compared with $3.15 in 1917. The stocks of iron ore at the mines apparently decreased from 10,628,908 gross tons in 1917 to 8,139,000 tons in 1918, or 23.4 per cent.

Causes of Decrease.

The decrease in output, which was general throughout the country, is probably to be attributed to a combination of circumstances. Industrial conditions were more or less disturbed, the supply of labor was uncertain, and transportation facilities were inadequate, but notwithstanding these handicaps the shipments from the Lake Superior district from April to October, inclusive, 1918, were over 2,500,000 tons more than those for the corresponding period of 1917. Owing to a scaling down of furnace requirements, however, in order to release vessels for carrying grain to Europe, the shipments in November and December, 1918, were nearly 4,000,000 tons less than those made in November and December, 1917.

Effect of Government Control.

Government control of the entire steel supply, which became effective in June, 1918, undoubtedly regulated the demand for ore, and stocks at mines and lower lake ports were somewhat reduced, so that the consumption of ore remained about the same as in 1917.
