

RAILROAD ADMINISTRATION SECTION ON AGRICULTURE PLANS TO RESUME WORK ON FARMING DEVELOPMENT

MEETING OF AGENTS

Program Interrupted by the War
 to Be Taken Up in Cooperation with Department of Agriculture at Memphis
 April 2—Two Hundred Are Expected to Attend.

The United States Railroad Administration issues the following:

WASHINGTON, March 21, 1919.

The United States Railroad Administration's agricultural section, in cooperation with the Department of Agriculture, is making plans to resume its agricultural development work throughout the country, which, on account of the war, was, of necessity, curtailed to a great extent.

Call for General Meeting.

With this end in view, a call has been issued for a general meeting of some 200 representatives of railroads engaged in this particular class of endeavor, who will assemble at Memphis, Tenn., on April 2 for a three days' session. Agents of the Department of Agriculture have been invited to take part in the deliberations, in order that there may be the fullest and heartiest cooperation between the two governmental agencies.

The problems to come before the gathering will include those of marketing, agricultural extension methods, raising of more and better live stock and poultry, dairying, fruit growing, information for home seekers, best methods for assisting new settlers, farm credits, and cooperation of local organizations.

Activities During the War.

During the war railroad agricultural agents were engaged principally in helping to increase the food production of the country. When hostilities ceased the Railroad Administration arranged for a reorganization of the forces of the individual roads which did so much to help in building up the country before the outbreak of the war. A more thorough cooperation with the Department of Agri-

VILLISTAS RELEASE PRISONERS; ATTACK ON AMERICAN REPORTED

The Department of State has been advised of the release of Whetten, Bentley, and Tierjen by the Villistas. The men were imprisoned for about four days, but no physical injury was inflicted on any of them.

The department has also received a telegram from the manager of the New Sabinas Co., a British concern at Sabinas, Mexico, reporting that Oscar Wallace, an American citizen residing at Hacienda Encinas, near Progreso, Coahuila, Mexico, was attacked by bandits and was taken away either dead or wounded. The case is being investigated by the authorities. Mr. Wallace has no relatives in Mexico.

The Federal Reserve Board has issued the following regulations effective March 21:

"All restrictions as to the sale or purchase of lira exchange by 'dealers,' as described in the Executive order of the President of January 26, 1918, are hereby removed until otherwise instructed."

"Notice is hereby given that 'dealers,' as defined under the Executive order of the President of January 26, 1918, until otherwise instructed, may make transfers of funds to persons not enemies or allies of enemies resident in Croatia, Slavonia, Bosnia, Herzegovina, and Dalmatia."

AIM TO REVIVE AND STABILIZE INDUSTRY

List of Reductions as Submitted and Approved by Department of Commerce Body—Present Wage Scale of Employees Not to Be Interfered With.

The Industrial Board of the Department of Commerce issues the following:

The following statement was made yesterday by Judge E. H. Gary, of the United States Steel Corporation:

"After careful consideration and full discussion relating to cost of production and all other facts and circumstances relating to the iron and steel industry, representatives of the industry submitted to the industrial board of the Department of Commerce a schedule of proposed reduced prices of the principal iron and steel products, which, with modifications suggested by the board and accepted by the industry, has been approved by the board.

Stabilization of Business.

"The objects to be secured are a revival and stabilization of business by establishing a reasonably low basis of prices which would be satisfactory to the consuming public, and yet, so far as practicable, would yield a moderate and reasonable return to the investors where they are entitled to it in the application of sound business principles; and at the same time would not disturb wage rates or interfere with wage agreements; and further, having determined upon prices which it is expected will not be reduced during this year, it is believed that the volume of business will be promptly increased and that furnaces and mills will be operating at a largely increased capacity, thus giving employment to a correspondingly increased number of employees.

Facts and Figures Scrutinized.

"It has been necessary to ascertain and scrutinize all the facts and figures in order to prevent any injustice, and this has been the occasion for considerable discussion and some differences, but, as a final result of the conferences which have taken place during the last two days and before, the committee appointed to represent the entire iron and steel industries joined in the report which was made to the Industrial Board.

"While in the opinion of some of the manufacturers the board has insisted upon some changes in the schedule submitted before approving the same, yet the iron and steel committee are convinced that the members of the board have been governed solely with the intention of protecting and promoting the best interests of the public, the investors of capital, and the employees without discrimination, and that the action of the board has been wise and just.

First Called Upon By Board.

"The iron and steel industry was the first called upon by the board to meet the business situation and to lend its energies and assistance in bringing about readjustment and restoration of the good business conditions, and therefore was the first called upon to make the necessary sacrifice in profits, but those connected with the trade believe that as a result for the year as a whole they will be compensated, and that if other lines of industry show the same disposition, as they undoubtedly will, we may expect great business progress and prosperity in the near future.

Price List as Approved.

"The price list and reductions submitted and approved by the Industrial Board is as follows:

which it was created, believes that a level has been reached below which the public should not expect to buy during the current year. The purpose of the board is to bring about such a lower level of prices as will effect stability and stimulate trade to the end that business and industry can proceed and build up with confidence and provide maximum employment.

Effort to Effect Cooperation.

"In its effort to effect cooperation between the Government, representing the public, and capital and labor, it has in view a due and just regard for all of these interests, and therefore in giving its approval to these prices and others which it will consider immediately, it will endeavor to strike a balance which, while calling sooner or later for some sacrifice or adjustments on the part of all, yet will not subject any of these interests to undue hardship.

"The board is asking industry to cooperate in taking the first step and voluntarily make temporary sacrifices in the interest of all, and has asked the iron and steel industry because of its fundamental importance, to be the first to act, and the board is highly gratified with the spirit in which it has responded.

Present Wage Rates to Stand.

"It is fully understood and expected that the present wage rates or agreements will not be interfered with, the approved prices having this in view.

"The reduction in the price lists may involve the necessity of some high-cost plants either shutting down temporarily or running at a loss for a period, but it is expected, with an increased volume of business soon to be developed, a reasonable return to the average and better-than-average producers will be afforded. In view of the higher costs developed throughout the world as a result of the war, a return to anything like prewar prices is regarded as out of the question. It is expected that other industries as well as the consuming public and labor will recognize their obligations in the circumstances and cooperate in the same generous spirit as has the steel industry."

Shipping Board Statement on Reduction in Price of Steel

The United States Shipping Board authorizes the following:

The immediate reduction in steel prices, just announced by representatives of the steel industry and by the Industrial Board of the Department of Commerce, means a reduction in the cost of ships being built on certain contracts for the United States Shipping Board. Most of the steel-ship contracts, however, were made for a lump-sum price, and these are not affected by the drop in the cost of steel.

"There are certain contracts made on the basis of cost and a fee," explained D. H. Cox, manager of the Steel Ship Section, Emergency Fleet Corporation, Philadelphia. "In these cases the Emergency Fleet Corporation will get the benefit of the reduced rates.

"The majority of contracts, however, for steel vessels now under construction for the Government are on a lump-sum price. These contracts were signed before the cut in steel and therefore the new rate does not mean any change in the prices previously agreed upon.

"In most instances the shipyards have undoubtedly purchased their steel. Accordingly, the new prices will have little effect upon them.

"All future contracts will, of course, be ruled by the new rate. But we are not signing any contracts at present."

This reduction in the cost of steel is regarded by the shipping board as a step in the right direction and calculated to encourage the shipbuilding industry of the Nation.

EVERY FOOD LUXURY POSSIBLE BEING SENT TROOPS OVERSEAS, WAR DEPARTMENT ANNOUNCES

CHEWING GUM FAVORITE DAINTY

"Crackerjack," Mints, Salted Peanuts, Salted Almonds, Wafer Rolls, and Crackers Some of the Articles Being Sent in Quantities.

The War Department authorizes the following statement from the office of the Director of Purchase and Storage:

Since the suspension of hostilities has somewhat lessened the necessity for conserving cargo space, every effort has been made to keep the men overseas supplied with all the luxuries they could purchase at home. Chewing gum is a favorite confection, as the 2,640,000 packages recently purchased indicate. Orders have also been issued by the Subsistence Division for 1,150,000 packages each of crackerjack, fruit tablets in assorted flavors, mints, salted peanuts, salted almonds, and wafer rolls. Fancy wafers are also in great demand, and 500,000 packages have been ordered for the month of April.

Cracker Requirements.

The discontinuance of all cracker production in France made necessary a call on the Subsistence Division for 2,000,000 cartons, assorted, to be shipped by March 10, and 1,800,000 cartons for April requirements. This cable was not received until late in February, so that it was necessary for quick action to be taken. The company which filled a large part of the order was impressed with the need for the crackers by the American Expeditionary Forces, and agreed to have the entire order of soda crackers at the docks by March 5 and the ginger and graham crackers by March 8. As a result of this effort by the manufacturers the final shipments on the huge order were delivered to the docks before March 10, and the 1,800,000 cartons required for April were ready for shipment by March 20.

TO RESUME FARM DEVELOPMENT

culture than previously had obtained was also brought about.

Reports from chambers of commerce, bankers, associations of farmers, newspapers, and business men received at the Railroad Administration indicate that there is a strong sentiment manifest throughout the country toward better farming, which means heavier and more economic production, with improved marketing conditions.

At the Memphis meeting a program will be adopted for utilizing this sentiment to the best advantage in order that the general development of the agricultural resources of the country may be carried on with even greater energy than was displayed before the war.

ADVISES STORING COAL NOW WHILE SUPPLY IS PLENTIFUL

Fuel Administration Warns That Decreased Demand Will Cause Falling Off in Production.

The best time to put in orders with the dealers for next winter's supply of coal is now, when it is plentiful and the demand for it is light, it is stated by the United States Fuel Administration. Analysis of coal-production records since November 1 last was said to indicate that coal will be far from plentiful next winter, if production continues to fall.

Mild weather since November has eventuated in very little buying of coal. Both large and small consumers have met their needs mostly from stocks laid in last summer and fall. The mines have had fewer orders than usual, and the sharp decrease in demand has been accompanied by a decrease in production.

The output from the mines during the eighteen weeks from November 1, 1918, to March 8, 1919 (including both anthracite and bituminous coal) in round figures was:

Sixty-two million tons less than during the next preceding 18 weeks;

Thirty-one million tons less than during the corresponding period of the previous year, although severe storms curtailed production the previous year.

Normally, there is a considerable increase in demand for coal from year to year; that is, an increased consumption and a consequent increase in production.

MEDAL OF HONOR TO SOLDIER FOR EXTRAORDINARY HEROISM

By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved July 9, 1918, the Medal of Honor has been awarded, in the name of Congress, to the following-named soldier for the act of gallantry set after his name. Following is Gen. Pershing's cabled recommendation, which has been approved:

"It is recommended that the Medal of Honor be awarded to Corpl. Alvin C. York, Company G, 328th Infantry (A. S. 1910421), for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action with the enemy near Chatel-Chehery, France, October 8, 1918. After his platoon had suffered heavy casualties and three other noncommissioned officers had become casualties, Corpl. York assumed command. Fearlessly leading seven men, he charged, with great daring, a machine-gun nest, which was pouring deadly and incessant fire upon his platoon. In this heroic feat the machine-gun nest was taken, together with 4 officers and 128 men and several guns. Home address: Mrs. Mary Brooks York (mother), Pall Mall, Tenn.

"Corpl. York has previously been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for this act, and if this recommendation is approved the Distinguished Service Cross will be recalled. "PERSHING."

LEVIATHAN'S TROOP CARRYING CAPACITY NOT TO BE INCREASED

The War Department authorizes the following statement:

The attention of the War Department has been called to reports appearing in a few newspapers, to the effect that the troop-carrying accommodations of the transport Leviathan are to be increased by 50 per cent; that it is the intention of the Navy and War Departments to increase the capacity of this vessel by approximately 5,000, and that such increase will result in greatly overcrowding the transport.

Information Incorrect.

This information is incorrect and is hereby denied because it may lead to, unnecessary worry on the part of parents and friends of enlisted men who are to be transported from abroad on the Leviathan.

During the past emergency the Leviathan had a normal capacity for 10,800 troops and a crew, including supernumeraries, of 2,500. With this complement there was no crowding and no undue risk, except the usual war hazard. Since the signing of the armistice, the vessel has been operating under peace conditions with a material decrease in the crew, which reduction will enable additional accommodations to be utilized for the transportation of troops when weather conditions will permit of greater use of deck spaces.

Could Carry 15,000 Safely.

The normal capacity of the Leviathan in the past has been, therefore, 13,300 persons, including troops, crew, and supernumeraries, and it is not the intention of the War Department at this time to assign a greater number to the Leviathan, although so far as safety and accommodations are concerned the Leviathan can safely carry as many as 15,000 persons, as this vessel has an abundance of facilities.

From a technical standpoint the Leviathan has in the past carried one troop per 5.4 gross tons. It is considered that there should be about one troop per 4 gross tons on this vessel to put her in favorable comparison with other large vessels of high speed. This would give her a troop rating of 13,525 men.

from Petrograd which state that the bolshevik newspapers print a long list of those executed by order of the extraor-revolution and speculation, including the names of the foremost leaders of the mon-

the monarchist reactionary party, Dr.
Doubrovinn, was arrested on the first day of the revolution. Among those killed by the new order of the bolsheviks, the newspapers state, are Madame Polmubopai-ary newspaper Russian Banner; Solicitor Bolatzell Pelovneff, murderer of the Duma member, Herzenstein; and a large number of officers shot for spreading a rumor discrediting Soviet and recruiting soldiers for Deniken's army. Madame Sternberg Jakovleva, president extraordinary committee, who is said to have caused thousands to be killed also figures on the list without reasons being given for her execution, although it is said she acted contrary to the instructions of the Moscow committee.

Medals of Honor Awarded to Five On Gen. Pershing's Recommendation

By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress, approved July 9, 1918, the medal of honor has been awarded, in the name of the Congress, to the following-named officers and enlisted men for the acts of gallantry set after each person's name. Following are Gen. Pershing's cabled recommendations, which have been approved:

Pvt. (first class) John L. Barkley, Company K, Fourth Infantry. (A. S. 2214317.) For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action with the enemy near Cunel, France, October 7, 1918. Pvt. Barkley, who was stationed in an observation post half a kilometer from the German line, on his own initiative repaired a captured enemy machine gun and mounted it in a disabled French tank near his post. Shortly afterwards, when the enemy launched a counter attack against our forces, Pvt. Barkley got into the tank, waited under the hostile barrage until the enemy line was abreast of him, and then opened fire, completely breaking up the counter attack and killing and wounding a large number of the enemy. Five minutes later an enemy 77-millimeter gun opened fire on the tank point blank. One shell struck the driver wheel of the tank, but this soldier nevertheless remained in the tank, and after the barrage ceased, broke up a second enemy counter attack, thereby enabling our forces to gain and hold Hill 253. Home address, Mrs. Liona Barkley, mother, Blairstown, Mo.

Corpl. Sidney E. Manning, Company G, One hundred and sixty-seventh Infantry. (A. S. No. 97284.) For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty with the enemy near Brevannes, France, July 28, 1918. When Corpl. Manning's platoon commander and platoon sergeant had both become casualties soon after the beginning of an assault on strongly fortified heights overlooking the Ourcq River, Corpl. Manning took command of his platoon, which was near the center of the attacking line. Though himself severely wounded, he led forward the 35 men remaining in the platoon, and finally succeeded in gaining a foothold on enemy position, during which time he had received more wounds and all but seven of his men had fallen. Directing the consolidation of the position, he held off a large body of the enemy only 50 yards away by fire from his automatic rifle. He declined to take cover until the line had been entirely consolidated with the line of the platoon on the flank, when he dragged himself to shelter, suffering from nine wounds in all parts of the body. Home address, Mrs. Lizzie Manning, mother, Flomaton, Ala. This soldier

title of "The Farmers' and Mechanics' National Bank of Fort Worth," with capital stock of.	-----	$500,000
Combined capital of banks prior to consolidation.	-----	500,000

VOLUNTARY LIQUIDATION.		Capital.
The First National Bank of Glen Rock, Pa. Liquidating committee: R. A. Goodling Logansville, and J. F. Neuhaus and C. G. Wiley, Glen Rock. Succeeded by a trust company.	-----	50,000 has been awarded the distinguished service cross for this act, and, if medal of honor is approved, distinguished service cross will be recalled.

Corp. Jake Alex (Allex), Company H, One hundred and thirty-first Infantry. (A. S. No. 1387815.) For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action with the enemy at Chipilly Ridge, France, August 9, 1918. At a critical point in the action, when all the officers with his platoon had become casualties, Corp. Alex took command of the platoon and led it forward until the advance was stopped by the fire from a machine-gun nest. He then advanced alone for about 30 yards in the face of intense fire and attacked the nest. With his bayonet he killed five of the enemy, and, when it was broken, used the butt end of his rifle, capturing 15 prisoners. Home address, Anthonie Alex, brother, 4350 South Ashland Avenue, Chicago, Ill. This soldier has been awarded the distinguished-service cross for this action, and, if medal of honor is approved, distinguished-service cross will be recalled.

Corp. Thomas A. Pope, Company E, One hundred and thirty-first Infantry. (A. S. No. 1320.) For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action with the enemy at Hamel, France, July 4, 1918. Corp. Pope's company was advancing behind the tanks when it was halted by hostile machine-gun fire. Going forward alone, he rushed a machine-gun nest, killed several of the crew with his bayonet, and, standing astride of his gun, held off the others until reinforcements arrived and captured them. Home address, J. J. Pope, brother, 6946 Eleventh Avenue Chicago, Ill. This soldier has been awarded the distinguished-service cross for this act, and, if medal of honor is approved, distinguished-service cross will be recalled.

Capt. L. Wardlaw Miles, Three hundred and eighth Infantry. For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action with the enemy near Reullon, France, September 14, 1918. Capt. Miles volunteered to lead his company in hazardous attack on a commanding trench position near the Aisne Canal, which other troops had previously attempted to take without success. His company immediately met with intense machine-gun fire, against which it had no artillery assistance; but Capt. Miles proceeded in the first wave and assisted in cutting a passage through the enemy's wire entanglements. In so doing, he was wounded five times by machine-gun bullets, both legs and one arm being fractured, whereupon he ordered himself placed on a stretcher and had himself carried forward to the enemy trench in order that he might encourage and direct his company, which by this time had suffered numerous casualties. Under the inspiration of this officer's indomitable spirit, his men held the hostile position and consolidated the front line after an action lasting two hours, at the conclusion of which Capt. Miles was carried to the aid station against his will. Home address, Mrs. L. Wardlaw Miles, Princeton, N. J.

REPORT ON PRODUCTION COST IN THE U. S. SUGAR INDUSTRY

The Tariff Commission has issued a report on costs of production in the sugar industry which presents a detailed study both in prewar and war times of the cost of production in the cane sugar industry in Cuba, Hawaii, Louisiana, and Porto Rico, and in the beet sugar industry in the continental United States. It is shown that in all of these regions the costs per ton of sugar vary greatly among individual producers and that therefore, as the price at which the sugar is sold is approximately uniform, some of the producers reap large profits while others barely make expenses or even manufacture at a loss. Omitting from discussion such obvious causes of these variations in cost as the difference in ability of managers and the vicissitudes of the seasons, two prominent and permanent causes are emphasized. First, sugar is essentially an agricultural product for which there is a strong and increasing demand and to meet this demand land of inferior productiveness must be cultivated. Second, there is shown to be a distinct and permanent economy in large-scale production. Admitting individual exceptions the big concerns are the low cost concerns and the small concerns are the high cost concerns.

Regulation of Prices.

The problems involved in the Government regulation of prices are discussed, including the effect upon the costs of production brought about by a rise of prices of materials and of the wages of labor, and the delicate matter of establishing a price "justified" by the cost—a price, that is, that will at once protect consumers and stimulate production. Such an adjustment is obviously difficult because the aims in view are antithetical.

Finally, the effect upon the domestic industry and upon the price of sugar of changes in the tariff and of the imposition of an internal revenue tax is discussed at some length. An estimate is made of the probable percentage of the domestic output which could continue to be produced were the duty to be repealed. The estimate is based upon a regional study, Hawaii, Louisiana, and Porto Rico being discussed separately. In the case of beet sugar, the industry is treated both as a whole and as divided into three regions—Pacific, mountain, and eastern. It is shown that a degree of protection which would be amply adequate for the western regions would be inadequate for the east.

Illustrated by Tables.

The conclusions of the report are illustrated and verified by numerous tables. A graphical method is introduced and explained, and is applied by means of charts printed in the report to the problems of Government price-fixing and those involved in changes in the tariff.

To collectors of internal revenue and others concerned:

By Treasury decision 2796 the time for filing certain classes of returns which are not the basis for an assessment of tax was extended to May 15, 1919, and the time for filing returns of partnerships and corporations having a fiscal year ended on the last day of some month (other than December) in the year 1918, and which had secured extensions of time in which to file returns, such extensions not having expired, was further extended to March 15, 1919.

In view of the fact that necessary forms are not yet available, a further extension to May 15, 1919, is hereby granted all such partnerships. Individual members of such partnerships, as in the case of partnerships filing on the basis of the calendar year, will be required to include in their individual returns their distributive shares of the earnings of such partnerships (ascertained or estimated) and pay at least one-fourth of the tax due on March 15.

DANIEL C. ROPER,
Commissioner.

Approved March 13, 1919.

Acting Secretary of the Treasury.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF COMMISSIONER OF INTERNAL REVENUE,
Washington, D. C.

To collectors of internal revenue and others concerned:

In any case where an affiliated corporation has made its income tax return on the basis of a taxable year different from that on the basis of which a consolidated excess profits tax return in which it is included has been made under the provisions of articles 77 and 78 of Regulations No. 41, and of T. D. 2662, an amended income tax return may be made on the basis of the same taxable year as the consolidated return even though notice was not given within the time prescribed in articles 211 to 215, inclusive, of Regulations No. 33 (revised), or in Regulations No. 45. In such a case an amended income tax return shall also be made for any unaccounted for portion of the corporation's taxable year.

Collectors of internal revenue may accept amended returns made under the provisions of this Treasury Decision.

Educational Work in Army Overseas Explained and Urged in General Order Issued by the Commander in Chief

The War Department authorizes publication of the following general order issued by the commander in chief of the American Expeditionary Forces:

GENERAL ORDERS NO. 30—EDUCATIONAL WORK IN THE A. E. F.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS,
AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES,
France, February 13, 1919.

I. The commander in chief invites the attention of the organization commanders and of all officers in the American Expeditionary Forces to the importance of national education. This citizen Army must return to the United States prepared to take an active and intelligent part in the future progress of our country. Educational and occupational training should, therefore, be provided to meet the needs of the members of the American Expeditionary Force in order that they may become better equipped for their future responsibilities.

1. General Orders No. 9, c. s., these headquarters, has established a system of post schools which provides elementary and secondary instruction for all soldiers in need of such training.

Centers of Training.

2. For more advanced education there will be established in each Army corps and division and in each section of the Service of Supplies centers of training to be known as division educational centers. These centers will provide such vocational training as the material and equipment within the division or section makes possible. The following subjects of vocational training will be found practicable in all divisions and sections: Carpentry, telephone repair, telegraphy, wire telegraphy, wireless, land surveying, road construction, horseshoeing, automobile repairing, cobbling, tailoring, barbering, cooking, baking, nursing. Other subjects, as they are found practicable, will be authorized.

These centers will also provide instruction in more advanced subjects of general education than can be given in post schools, either because instructors are few or because the demand for such subjects is slight. Subjects suggested are, for example: Algebra, trigonometry, mechanical drawing, agriculture, salesmanship, economics, American and English literature, advanced French, Italian, Spanish, German, advanced course in history, etc.

Survey by Commanders.

In order to determine the demand in each educational center for education, a complete survey of his organization will be made by each commander. On the basis of this survey, classes will be organized. Courses will be organized providing a minimum of five hours instruction and supervised study per day, five days in the week, covering a period of three months. Organization of provisional educational companies or detachments, conveniently located and provided with a proper administrative organization, is authorized. Such organizations will be given one hour of military training per day in addition to the educational work. The number of students will be limited by the capacity for giving instruction in each division educational center, and will not exceed 15 per cent of the command.

Carefully selected school officers will be detailed in charge of the establishment and operation of divisional centers. School officers and instructors will be excused from all other military duty.

The commanding general, Service of Supplies, is authorized to modify the requirements of this paragraph to meet conditions within his command, giving, however, to the members of his organization, every educational opportunity consistent with military necessity.

3. Supplementing and expanding these opportunities within the organizations, officers and soldiers will have the privilege of attending educational institutions of the nations associated with the United States in this war. Arrangements have already been made whereby selected members of the American Expeditionary Forces may be ordered to detached service in attendance on French and British universities during the current spring term, which will terminate June/30, 1919. Soldiers will receive commutation of subsistence at the rate of $2 per day. Soldiers on this duty will be reimbursed on War Department Form No. 330 for actual expenses incurred by them for lodging while on such duty, not in excess of $1 per day. Receipts for such expenditures will be obtained if practicable, and, if not, affidavits to that effect will be furnished by the soldier. Detailed instructions for the selection of students to this end will be issued from these headquarters.

Available to Selected Men.

4. Since the above university opportunities are of graduate character and therefore available only to selected men of high educational qualifications, an American Expeditionary Forces' educational center will be established to provide college and technical training beyond that offered at division educational centers. Students will enroll for a term period of three months. Detailed instructions for the assignment of members of the American Expeditionary Forces to this educational center will be issued from these headquarters.

5. Students enrolling in post schools and in division educational centers will return with their respective organizations when ordered to the United States, except that applications for transfer to other division educational centers for the purpose of completing courses will be favorably considered. Students attending the American Expeditionary Forces' educational center will have the option of returning to the United States with their organizations or of remaining to complete the term of three months. Students entering French and British universities must agree to remain for the full term.

6. The Army educational commission of the Young Men's Christian Association

REVIEW OF PUBLIC FINANCES BY FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD DURING MONTH OF FEBRUARY

The Federal Reserve Board authorizes the following:

The outstanding feature of public finance during the month of February has been the further development and announcement of the conditions under which the fifth Liberty loan is to be offered to the public. It has been decided to make the actual offering of the loan a little later than had been originally intended, opening the campaign on April 21 and financing the Government in the meantime by further issues of short-term certificates of indebtedness. Of these certificates two issues have been placed on the market during the month of February, being announced under dates of February 7 and February 21 and for amounts of $687,381,500 and $620,578,500, respectively.

Total Outstanding Certificates.

The total of such certificates of indebtedness of all issues now outstanding in anticipation of the proceeds of the fifth loan is thus $3,845,678,000. Assuming that the fifth loan will amount to about $6,000,000,000, it is thus seen that practically two-thirds of the entire issue has already been drawn from the banks and applied to public purposes. Government expenses have materially declined during the month of February, the total net expenditures for the month being only about $1,200,000,000. As an offset to this favorable showing it should, however, be remembered that the month contained only 28 days, so that the reduction is not so great, relatively speaking, as it seems.

Turn of the Tide.

Nevertheless, the turn of the tide has undoubtedly set in, and it may be expected that from this time forward, in the absence of new or unusual appropriations, the monthly outgoes of the Government will be less rather than more. The banks, however, are already carrying a very substantial burden of certificates of indebtedness, as has just been pointed out, and before the actual floating of the new loan it may be expected that the total of their advances will have aggregated well toward a billion dollars above the proceeds of the new loan or, what is the same thing, that outstanding issues of certificates will have had to be met from the proceeds of new issues, as has been the case in the past.

will assist in every way possible in the development of this educational system, and will function as defined in paragraphs 8 and 9, General Orders No. 9, c. s., these headquarters.

7. The fifth section, G. S., G. H. Q., will control all matters pertaining to Army education.

By command of Gen. Pershing.

JAMES W. McANDREW,
Chief of Staff.

ROBERT C. DAVIS,
Adjutant General.

Summary of Receipts and Expenditures Of U. S. Operated Railroads for January Compared with Same Month Last Year

The United States Railroad Administration issues the following:
The Bureau of Statistics of the Interstate Commerce Commission has released its summary of monthly reports of large railroads for the month of January, 1919, which shows the following results: -

	January.		Increase or decrease.
	1919	1918	Amount.	Per cent.
Average miles operated.....	233,055	233,483		0.2
Operating revenues.....	$396,786,536	$285,359,343	$111,427,193	39.1

Net operating income comparable to standard return guaranteed by Government.....	18,783,702	4,087,117	22,880,819
Operating ratio.....	96.85	95.15	4.59	4.5

NOTE.—Figures in italic denote decrease.

These figures cover 181 Class I roads (those having annual operating revenues above $1,000,000) and 17 large switching and terminal companies. In this statement are included a number of Class I roads and switching and terminal companies which are not under Federal control. On the other hand, the statement does not include a large number of Class II and III roads and small terminal and switching companies which are under Federal control.

The financial results of the operation of Class I railroads (excluding terminal companies) by the United States Railroad Administration during the month of January, 1919, in comparison with those of January, 1918, are shown in a compilation just completed by the Operating Statistics Section of the Division of Operation for the Director General. As these figures cover the operation of 230,262 miles of Class I railroads under Federal control and excludes switching and terminal companies, they do not exactly correspond with the figures published by the Interstate Commerce Commission for 233,055 miles of road, as shown above.

The revenues for the Class I roads covered by this report represent approximately 95 per cent of the revenues of all the properties in Federal operation.

Revenues and expenses.

	January.		Increase or decrease.
	1919	1918	Amount.	Per cent.
Operating revenues.....	$390,745,075	$280,919,510	$109,825,565	39.1

Net Federal income comparable to standard return guaranteed by Government.....	19,350,354	3,570,299	22,920,653
Standard return applicable to January.....	55,331,013	55,331,013
Operating ratio.....	90.7	94.7	4.0	4.2

NOTE.—Figures in italic denote deficit or decrease.

In comparing the results shown above for January, 1919, with a year ago, it should be borne in mind that the 1918 results were adversely affected by the extreme weather conditions and the serious traffic congestion which obtained at that time; also, that neither the increases in freight and passenger rates nor the increases in wages made effective during 1918 are included in the January, 1918, figures, while both of these factors are present in the January, 1919, figures. Furthermore, the expenses for January included approximately $1,500,000 back pay applicable to prior months.

FREIGHT-TRAIN PERFORMANCE.

The result of freight-train operation for the month of January, 1919, compared with January, 1918, was as follows:

	January.		Increase or decrease.
	1919	1918	Amount.	Per cent.

AMERICANS AS WELL AS ALIENS IN U. S. CITIZENSHIP CLASSES

The United States Department of Labor issues the following:

That Americans as well as aliens will hereafter be admitted to citizenship classes is the conclusion expressed by an official of the Bureau of Naturalization, Department of Labor. A movement to bring them into these classes is being inaugurated by the public schools that are working with that bureau.

Attainments of Aliens.

The remarkable attainments of foreigners who have taken the studies prescribed for the citizenship classes have been revealed in court procedure when they apply for naturalization. Not only does the average alien graduate of these classes have a much better insight into American government and history than the average American, but in many instances he shows even greater familiarity with these subjects than Americans actually holding public office.

Because the instruction given in these classes is so thorough and practical, the bureau has come to the opinion that American citizens should have the same opportunity that aliens have to attend them. A knowledge of the workings of the National Government is of no less importance to the citizen than to the noncitizen, it is contended, and the instruction offered by these classes will be of great value, it is believed, in stimulating interest in public affairs and promoting intelligence in their administration.

Contact in Schools.

Moreover, by bringing aliens and citizens into contact in the schools the opportunity will be afforded each group to become acquainted with the other. The interchange of ideas, the opportunity for the foreign born to associate with the native born under favorable auspices, and their joint enlistment in the cause for the study and betterment of American institutions will create great civic forces capable of large accomplishment, it is expected. The classes form a splendid laboratory in human nature.

Methods of Instruction.

A highly effective method of instruction has been introduced in these classes whereby interest is maintained at all times and time is economized to the utmost. Instruction normally given in 45 minutes is cut-down in these classes to about 8 minutes, without any loss to the students.

It will be noted that on account of better weather conditions this year and the relief from the traffic congestion it was possible to handle 10 per cent more ton miles with approximately the same train miles. In other words, there was an increase in the average trainload of 58 tons or 10.2 per cent. The carload shows a slight decrease, due to the fact that there was a decrease in the percentage of the heavy loading coal tonnage to the total tonnage handled. The decrease in the percentage of loaded to total car miles was due to the freer movement of returning empties this year, on account of the better weather and traffic conditions.

Summary of Second Report of Provost Marshal General On the Operations of the Selective Service System

In his second report to the Secretary of War on the operation of the selective draft, Gen. Crowder, the Provost Marshal General, by way of introduction summarizes the work of his office in part as follows:

Nineteen months of war have brought to a successful conclusion our conflict with the central powers. Entering the struggle at a time when the prospect was decidedly dismal, we witnessed German success advance to an almost overwhelming allied defeat, until, throwing our hastily assembled forces into the balance, we saw impending catastrophe turn into brilliant and decisive victory.

That a new and untried scheme of selection could succeed at all was to many doubtful; that it should attain results beyond the fondest dreams of its most ardent supporters was unbelievable. To enroll for service over 24,000,000 men; to mobilize a selected Army of more than 2,800,000, a million of them within the space of 90 days; to have presently available for military duty 2,000,000 additional fighting men; to classify this vast group of man-power in the order of its military and industrial importance, so as to preserve the domestic and industrial life of the Nation, to speed up war-time activities, to maintain them in a status of maximum efficient production, and to pave the way to a speedy return to normal peace-time pursuits while recruiting the full fighting strength of the Nation—these are results which would be instantly rejected as impossible did not the actual facts stand as irrefutable testimonials of their accomplishment.

Progress of Registration.

In the first report submitted to you on December 20, 1917, it was stated that the classification of the first registration group which had been enrolled on June 5, 1917, and which then numbered 9,586,508, was just beginning. On June 5, 1918, by the registration of men who had attained the age of 21 since June 5, 1917, and whose enrollment was authorized by the joint resolution of May 20, 1918, 735,834 were enrolled. On August 24, 1918, the registration of youths attaining their majority since June 5, 1918, was accomplished, and increased the enrollment by 359,161 men. Finally, on September 12, 1918, under the provisions of the act of August 31, 1918, a final registration of all men between the ages of 18 and 45, both inclusive, who had not previously registered was accomplished, and 13,228,762 men were added to lists of those available for military service. Including interim accessions, a total of 24,234,021 men was enrolled and became subject to the terms of the selective-service law.

That this vast labor should have been accomplished without friction and without the slightest manifestation of antagonism on the part of any disturbing elements is in itself a complete vindication of the loyalty of the American people. The organization of each registration proceeded to a completion of its task with the smoothness and facility of the perfectly adjusted machine. In contrast to riots and bloodshed attendant upon the enrollment under the Civil War draft act, the cheerful and eager submission of the Nation to the assumption of its military obligation is a glorious monument to the unselfish spontaneity of its patriotism.

Classification of Men.

The classification of man power thus enrolled so as instantly to disclose the relative importance to the military and industrial realms of its components was the next great task. Under the scheme outlined in my former report, all available man power was to be grouped into four classes in the inverse order of its industrial importance; the fifth class containing those exempted from all liability under the terms of the selective-service law. Class I was to constitute the reservoir of man power, the drain of which for military duty would least disturb the domestic and economic life of the Nation. The other classes were to contain the men whose domestic and industrial relations were such that their call to the colors should be deferred as long as the exigencies of the military situation would permit.

My report of December 20, 1917, carried the statement that—

"It can be announced now as the policy and belief of this office that in all probability it will be possible to fill our military needs without ever invading any class more deferred than Class I; and this is the promise, the standard, and the goal, here for the first time announced, toward which every administrative effort of this office shall be directed."

Promise Fulfilled.

The promise has been fulfilled. Our fighting forces were supplied with men from Class I, and from Class I only. From the ordinary walks of civil life, 2,810,296 men were drawn and placed in the military service. But the deferred classes have remained intact. When hostilities closed, there remained in Class I a supply of fighting men sufficient to meet every military necessity.

The classification of the 24,000,000 registrants proceeded rapidly. The first registration group of over 9,000,000 was disposed of in little more than 60 days, and the registrants of June 5 and August 24, 1918, were speedily classified. On September 18, 1918, the local boards began the task of classifying the registrants of September 12 between the ages of 19 and 36, both inclusive. By November 1, this labor had been substantially completed and the boards took up the work of classifying the remaining registrants, i. e., the 18-year-old men and those above the age of 36. Their efforts were well under way when the signing of the armistice, on November 11, put a halt upon their work. On November 11, the local boards were, pursuant to your direction, ordered to complete the classification of the 18-year-old men and the men between the ages of 19 and 36 but to discontinue the classification of registrants above the age of 36. Their labors were completed before December 10, 1918, when their records were sealed and their activities ended.

But with the classification completed by successive registration stages, and the separation made between those who should properly contribute their energies to the fighting forces in the theater of war and those who for industrial or domestic reasons should be retained in their civilian status, the task of selection was not completely accomplished.

War makes strange stern calls upon affected nations. It not only demands its armies but requires heroic adjustments in civil walks. New industries spring up and must be continued, the nonessential pursuits must be curtailed or abandoned and every energy bent toward a common purpose. As time goes on, the steady drain upon man power for the battle front increases, industrial tension quickens, the factory and the mill must yield to the sterner call of war-time preparations. The supply of labor, skilled and unskilled, the proper maintenance and adjustment of industrial and agricultural production, the slow and careful combing of the nonfighting groups so as to yield the greatest military return with the least disturbance of civil activity, all these become matters of vital national importance. How to divert labor, skilled and unskilled, from the nonessential to the essential industries; how to prepare an easy transition from war-time activities to peace-time conditions—such are typical of the broader problems with which selection concerned itself to the very end, each growing increasingly delicate as time went on. It is true that the selective-draft act was primarily a means of raising armies. But there was not lacking in the minds of the proponents of the measure and of the Congress which enacted it an appreciation of the broader aspects to which I have alluded. This was evidenced by the provisions of the bill, as proposed by the department, looking toward liberal deferments and exemptions because of dependency and occupation. So it was that the act, and the regulations made in aid of its execution, looked both to a military and economic classification which would not only effect the deferment of the economically useful, but would also furnish a ready means for diverting their talents into civil pursuits most directly contributing to the efficient maintenance of the military establishment.

Progress of Mobilization.

On January 1 we had accomplished the mobilization of 516,900 men. On September 30, 1918, 2,552,173 selected men had been mobilized. In the first nine months of the current year, therefore, we put into the camps and cantonments over 2,000,000 men. In addition, when the Student's Army Training Corps was created, 145,000 youths were inducted into the service for military training during the continuance of their studies in some 500 colleges and universities throughout the country. On November 11, 1918, when your order directed the immediate discontinuance of all mobilization, we had produced a selective Army of 2,810,296 men. Had mobilization lasted five days longer, the selective-service organization would have placed with the colors more than 3,000,000 soldiers.

I call your attention to the fact that mobilization under the selective plan began on September 5, 1917. At the end of the first 14 months over 2,750,000 men were put in camp, and 14½ months of selective mobilization would have raised the total to more than 3,000,000 men.

Many difficulties were encountered growing out of the emergent demands upon the selective service organization. The accelerated program of the War Department came in the early summer, necessitating calls for men far in excess of the number that had theretofore been contemplated. During the months of May, June, and July we called to the colors 1,076,151 men. In the month of July alone 401,147 men were placed in camp. In the latter part of May an emergent call was made for the immediate mobilization of 50,000 men; we called and mobilized the full number within seven days after receipt of the requisition for them.

In the mobilization of these men, 1,708 separate calls were made, varying in sizes from calls for 1 man to 220,000 men. Men were sent to 283 mobilization points throughout the country. The average period of mobilization, that is, the time elapsing between the date of the demand upon this office and the date of the arrival of selected contingents at camp, was 20 days. Actual mobilization was accomplished in an average time of five days.

Every type of man desired by the Army, from the soldier qualified for full line service to the highly-skilled specialist of limited physical qualifications only, was furnished. Of specially-skilled men furnished, I mention only a few—bricklayers, expert timbermen, accountants, locomotive engineers, autogenous welders, draftsmen, butchers, cabinetmakers, meteorologists, chemists, veterinarians, and watch repairmen.

Apportionment of States.

The method of apportioning quotas was radically changed after my first report. The old rule of population, under which the first levy of 687,000 men was made, was abandoned, and, under authority of the joint resolution of May 16, 1918, Class I was made the basis of contribution among the States. The population rule early demonstrated its inequity, taking, as it did, no count of that part of the population which was exempted from draft and laying the burden of furnishing men for the Army without regard to actual availability. The population scheme was a blind rule of numerical equality only. Gross population included aliens, who under the terms of the law were exempted from draft. In districts with a large alien population, the population rule, therefore, resulted in a grossly disproportionate reduction of citizen population, which, in some instances, was little short of calamitous.

The adoption of the classification scheme carried with it as a necessary corollary the basing of quotas upon availability for military service. Without such a rule, we would soon have been confronted with the intolerable situation of having one community furnishing its contingents from Class I while a neighboring locality would be drawing upon Class IV. The concurrent operation of the classification plan and the Class I quota basis obliterated the injustice that would otherwise have ensued. Class I had to be exhausted nationally before a more deferred class could be made subject to military duty. Since Class I was the class the members of which were most easily spared from civil life, it followed that the end of the whole classification scheme, viz, the preservation of the domestic and industrial spheres, was thus, in a large measure, attained. The Class I quota basis regarded the Nation in war, not as 48 separate, jealous States, but as a firmly united whole, contributing to our fighting forces in a manner which would least disturb peace time normality, locally and nationally.

Voluntary Enlistment.

But while the classification and mobilization under the selective service law were proceeding, the Army, the Navy, and the Marine Corps were recruiting under the old system of voluntary enlistment. Enlistment in the Army, as to registrants, was discontinued on December 15, 1917; but recruiting in the Navy and Marine Corps, as to registrants, and in the Army, as to nonregistrants, continued until August 8, 1918, when all voluntary enlistments were ordered discontinued.

Such recruiting played havoc for a time with the orderly process of selection. During the period in which enlistments were permitted, 1,300,000 men were withdrawn from the available source of supply, upon which the selective service organization relied. The volunteer plan took no heed of economic value; it received as readily the man indispensable to production as it did the industrially worthless. We were presented with the strange anomaly of a nation which had intrusted its man power to a selective organization, at the very breath turning over the same resources to an indiscriminate withdrawal by the agencies of recruitment. The task of accounting became highly difficult; an equitable or efficient apportionment of man power between the military and industrial realms was impossible. Recruitment disturbed every phase of the scientific administration of our task and impaired the efficiency of the whole organization.

These facts were readily cognizable by the summer of 1918, and all recruitment was discontinued. The act of August 31 relegated the Navy and Marine Corps to selective drafts in securing additional man power, and for the remainder of the war every branch of our fighting forces was supplied through the selective service organization.

Course Proved Unwise.

It is not certain, however, that the country as a whole thoroughly understood the imperative necessity of eliminating indiscriminate volunteering. The desire for its continuance persisted to the last, in infrequent requests that it be reopened, at least as to registrants in Class I. Experience showed that such a course, if widely adopted, would prove most unwise, as it would have led to uncertainty in mobilization and to substitution against which we could not guard too jealously. If the democratic ideals, to which we had pinned our faith, were to prevail to the end. To carry selection to its logical and efficient end, there could be no deviation from the rule that each registrant must await his time and perform his military obligation only when his call, in orderly process, came to him.

In brief outline, this is the story of the selective draft since the last report to you and up to the cessation of hostilities, the date upon which the selective organization halted its constructive efforts.

Credit to State Governors.

I would be remiss in the performance of a public duty did I not, at this point, accord the credit which is so richly due to the war governors and their several State headquarters, the 155 district boards, the 4,648 local boards, the 1,319 medical advisory boards, the 3,646 legal advisory boards, as well as their auxiliary agencies of Government appeal agents, examining physicians, boards of instruction, and other civilian and enlisted assistants, upon whom has fallen the great strain of the task that has been accomplished. No labor has been so onerous and no demand so exacting but that it has been performed with a zeal and dispatch that are unparalleled in the history of free peoples. Without adequate compensation, often at great financial sacrifice, the members of the local administrative organizations have bent themselves to their tasks with a devotion that spells the imperishability of our democratic institutions.

I am certain that no great national undertaking was ever begun which depended so utterly upon faith in a people for its execution; and undoubtedly no faith has ever been more completely justified and no confidence more abundantly rewarded.

Health Conditions at Army Camps Within the United States As Reported to the Surgeon General for Week Ending March 14

The War Department authorizes the following:

Herewith is a detailed report on the health conditions of troops in the United States for the week ending March 14, 1919. The report of the Division of Sanitation to the Surgeon General of the Army for that week is as follows:

1. The health of troops, both at home and abroad, shows continued improvement.

Influenza among troops in the United States continues to be reported in considerable numbers from the ports of embarkation and the Southern Department, but the disease is not now present in the majority of Army stations. Pneumonia is declining also. Camps Knox, Taylor, and Upton are the only stations reporting more than the average prevalence of the disease.

2. The reported strength of troops in the United States (529,775) is approximately 11,000 less than last week (540,525).

The death rate from disease is 0.2, as compared with 11.4 for last week. The noneffective rate (62.9) remains high, though slightly lower than last week (64.2).

There were 99 deaths (all causes) reported, as compared with 126 for the preceding week. Of this total 94 were from disease.

3. Special diseases from camps and stations in the United States were reported as follows:

¹ First figure in this column for each camp gives the total number of new cases during the week; the figure in parentheses is the number of other cases which were contracted during the week by men in that camp's command at the time of contracting the disease. The difference, therefore, is the number of cases first reported during the week which were either (a) cases brought from civilian life by recruits, (b) cases brought by men transferred from other camps to the camp under which the case is reported, or (c) old cases which have previously evaded detection. An interrogation point signifies that the report from that camp did not segregate cases contracted at the camp from other cases.

4. Admission and noneffective rates among troops in the American Expeditionary Forces, France, are materially lower than last week. The death rate from disease (12.7) shows a marked decline as compared with the rate for the preceding week (16.7).

Pneumonia continues the most serious disease prevailing, but it appears to have passed its peak and to be now rapidly declining. There were 1,337 new cases of this disease reported for the week, against 1,942 last week.

5. The weekly report from Siberia indicates continued good health of the command.

¹ Sick and death rates among troops in the United States will continue to be relatively high, as the numerical strength of troops in the United States continues to decline from week to week as a result of demobilization. Well men only are eligible for discharge, while the sick and otherwise disabled are retained in service for further treatment. The continued influx of sick and wounded (properly chargeable to commands overseas) is another factor tending to increase rates in the United States and to diminish correspondingly similar rates overseas.

RED CROSS HOME SERVICE

Information for Soldiers' and Sailors' Families, Issued by Department of Civilian Relief.

Home Service and the New Government Insurance.

An official announcement has been made that the Bureau of War Risk Insurance is authorized to issue life insurance policies of the permanent form to those members of its military and naval forces who are entitled to obtain them. The policies are the most liberal that have ever been issued, and the permanent rates are considerably lower than those charged for similar benefits in private life insurance companies. Persons prominent in the life insurance world are enthusiastic about this Government insurance. For example, Mr. William Alexander, secretary of one of the largest life insurance companies, says: "Of course, a life insurance company can not grant insurance at less than cost, but the Government offers insurance to soldiers and sailors at less than it will cost the Government to grant that insurance. It is able to do this because all deficiencies can be made up out of the funds in the Treasury of the United States, and the Government is justified in this liberality in consideration of the fact that these soldiers and sailors have risked their lives, or have been willing to risk their lives, for the benefit of the Nation. All this being so, it is obviously expedient for soldiers and sailors to take all the insurance offered by the Government at the low rate charged before seeking insurance in any private corporation."

The Red Cross is in a position to be of great assistance in the work of informing discharged men and their families as to the benefits to be derived from this new insurance. Home service sections should regard this insurance campaign as an unusual opportunity for raising the standard of living and strengthening the family bond.

Up to the present time the majority of literature which has been issued by the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance has been concentrated on a "hold on to your insurance" attitude. This has necessarily been so because the authority for issuing the permanent policies was not finally obtained until this week. In the very near future comprehensive pamphlets will be issued by the insurance division of the bureau in large numbers, and home service sections will be supplied with them. All home service workers should make a careful study of the principles of life insurance, particularly from the viewpoint of the purchaser of insurance. The following general considerations should be impressed not only upon the soldier but upon his family and others with whom he comes in contact:

(1) Life insurance is desirable. It is not a "gamble," but is a method of providing against the certain loss and expense that comes with death and old age. Statistics show that of every 100 healthy men 25 years old, 36 die before reaching the age of 65, 53 become dependent upon relatives or charity before reaching 65, 6 are still self-supporting, and only 5 are well off. In other words, practically 9 out of 10 people either die or become dependent on relatives or charity before reaching the age of 65. Life insurance, therefore, removes the gambling element from life; it is the man who does not insure who is the gambler. The psychological effect of being well insured is of great value. It relieves worry and promotes efficiency during the working years of life. Life insurance should be regarded as an essential element of a normal standard of living, and effort be given to secure its presence along with food, clothing, housing, education, and the other essentials.

(2) The life insurance offered by the Government is the best available. In safety it can not be surpassed. The forms are varied enough to meet all essential needs. The cost is considerably lower than the rates at which private companies are able to offer similar policies.

(3) It is advisable that every soldier and sailor retain the largest possible amount of the insurance which he has taken out with the Government. The full $10,000 allowed provides an income to the beneficiary of only $57.50 per month. This is not a large income considering the level of prices that seem likely to prevail in the future. The less expensive forms of Government policies should be used, instead of sacrificing a part of insurance protection in order to obtain the more expensive forms in smaller amount. After a reduction has been made it is not possible to increase the amount of the insurance. The less expensive policies, however, may always be changed to the more expensive kinds. Every effort should be made to prevent the dropping of insurance or reduction of the amount. Where the insured has allowed part of his insurance to lapse, an attempt should be made to reinstate it to the original amount (see par. 199 of the Handbook, as to reinstatement).

(4) A savings account can not take the place of insurance, because death may intervene shortly after the account is started, or the money deposited may be withdrawn and wasted. It is an interesting fact that at the present time banks and trust companies throughout the country are advising their depositors to seek the protection of life insurance, at the same time suggesting the establishment of special accounts from which to pay insurance premiums. The most enlightened men testify to the advantages of both savings accounts and life insurance.

Government Insurance Good for Man Without Dependents.

In view of the fact that our Army and Navy has been composed largely of young men, there will be many who will not see the need of continuing any Government insurance because they have no actual dependents at the present time. To these men it should be pointed out that there are three reasons why they should keep their insurance.

(1) They may some day have dependents whom they would want to protect by insurance. If they now drop the Government insurance they will not have the privilege of again securing it in future years. Moreover, they would in later years have to pay a higher premium at their advanced age, if indeed they should be healthy enough to obtain insurance from a private company.

(2) All of the Government insurance policies provide for total and permanent disability benefits; this means that should the insured at any time, regardless of his age, because totally and permanently disabled, through either disease or accident, he will himself receive for the remainder of his life, no matter how long he lives, the same installments as would have been payable to his beneficiary on death. For example, with a $10,000 policy, the policyholder, if totally and permanently disabled through accident or disease, will receive $57.50 a month until his death. There is no additional charge made by the Government for these disability benefits. Moreover, these benefits hold throughout the life time of the insured and do not cease at age 60 or age 65 as in most life-insurance policies. If the insured becomes totally or permanently disabled and receives the benefits of this insurance for a certain period and then dies, his beneficiary will receive the balance of the payments which would be due under the policy.

(3) Under any of the new policies, he may save for his own use a considerable amount of money.

Photographing Graves in France Taken Over by Red Cross.

At the request of the War Department the American Red Cross, acting under the authority of the Graves Registration Service, has taken over the task of photographing the identified graves of American soldiers in France. The headquarters of this service is at Tours, France. Each photograph is mounted in a cardboard folding frame, one side of which contains the name, rank, and service of the man and data identifying the grave and cemetery. The photograph is sent to the soldier's next of kin. The Bureau of Communication, which is charged with this duty, can not give special consideration to special requests for photographs of particular graves. The plan of the Army contemplates the photographing of all graves and no deviation will be permitted from the order in which the work is to be done. Seven thousand such photographs will be received monthly at Red Cross headquarters in Washington, and will be forwarded to relatives immediately.
